Prudential Risk Rating

Lower to Medium Risk
These funds may invest in corporate bonds or multi-asset strategies with a higher weighting in corporate bonds (and other comparable strategies).

These risk ratings have been developed by Prudential to help provide an indication of a fund's potential level of risk and reward based on the type of assets which may be held by the fund. Other companies may use different descriptions and as such these risk ratings should not be considered as generic across the fund management industry.

We regularly review our fund risk ratings, so they may change in the future. If, in our view, there is a material change in the fund's level of risk, for example due to a significant change to the assets held by the fund or in the way the fund is managed, we will provide information on the new risk rating. We recommend that you make sure you understand the risk rating of any fund before you invest.

You should also consider discussing your decision and the appropriateness of a fund's risk rating with an adviser.

Important Information

- Because of changes in exchange rates the value of your investment, as well as any money you take from it, can go down as well as up.
- Some funds may invest in 'underlying' funds or other investment vehicles. The performance of our fund, compared to what it's invested in won't be exactly the same. That can be due to additional charges, cash management (needed to help people to enter and leave our fund when they want), tax and the timing of investments (this is known as a fund's dealing cycle, it varies between managers and can be several days).
- Source of portfolio data: Broadridge. Source of performance data: FE fundinfo. We can't predict the future. Past performance isn't a guide to future performance. The figures shown are intended only to demonstrate performance history of the fund, after allowing for the impact of fund charges and further costs, but take no account of any Annual Management Charge paid for by the deduction of units. Charges and further costs may vary in the future and may be higher than they are now. Fund performance is based upon the movement of the daily price and is shown as total return in GBP with gross income reinvested. The value of your investment can go down as well as up so you might get back less than you put in.

Commentary

Performance as at Q2 2024 - Initial worries about seemingly persistent inflation gave way to a more positive environment for global equities as investors increasingly anticipated cuts to interest rates. The European Central Bank (ECB) cut rates in June, while the US Federal Reserve indicated that further hikes were unlikely. Global equity markets gained in the second quarter, but bonds largely struggled over the three months as Sovereign bonds encountered challenges, amid some investor concerns over the pace of interest rate cuts and political uncertainties. The funds advanced in the quarter on an absolute basis. Emerging markets and US equity were among the strongest performing areas, while Japan declined, all in sterling terms. As well as positive sentiment on the back of the greater likelihood of interest rate cuts in the near term, optimism regarding artificial intelligence (AI) and related technology companies also provided a boost to US equities. In the UK, inflation reached the Bank of England's (BoE) target level, raising hopes for a rate cut in the summer. The prospect of a widely predicted outcome to the UK's general election in early July was broadly welcomed by investors. The Japanese yen weakened notably over the quarter, leading to an erosion in returns for sterling-based investors. Corporate bonds broadly outperformed government debt in the quarter. For the second consecutive quarter, riskier high yield bonds were among the best performers. market observers adjusted their expectations for the path of interest rates to a more gradual pace of rate cuts. Tactically, we retain an above-index allocation to equities funded from a net below-index fixed income position and cash, which added positively over the quarter as equities outperformed bonds. In a series of tactical moves, we first reduced the allocation to Chinese equities (to a neutral position relative to the index), due to fading sentiment regarding China's economic stimulus measures. Later in the period we reduced the position in European equities (to a neutral position relative to the index), owing to increased political risk and the possibility of instability in France stemming from the recent election. The allocation to UK equities was taken from neutral to an above-index position.
