Prudential Risk Rating

Medium Risk

These funds may invest in multi-asset strategies with a higher weighting in equities (or with significant derivative use), while funds investing mainly in property, high yield or government bonds (such as UK Gilts) are also in this category.

These risk ratings have been developed by Prudential to help provide an indication of a fund's potential level of risk and reward based on the type of assets which may be held by the fund. Other companies may use different descriptions and as such these risk ratings should not be considered as generic across the fund management industry.

We regularly review our fund risk ratings, so they may change in the future. If, in our view, there is a material change in the fund's level of risk, for example due to a significant change to the assets held by the fund or in the way the fund is managed, we will provide information on the new risk rating. We recommend that you make sure you understand the risk rating of any fund before you invest.

You should also consider discussing your decision and the appropriateness of a fund's risk rating with an adviser.

Important Information

- Because of changes in exchange rates the value of your investment, as well as any money you take from it, can go down as well as up.
- Some funds may invest in 'underlying' funds or other investment vehicles. The performance of our fund, compared to what it's invested in won't be exactly the same. That can be due to additional charges, cash management (needed to help people to enter and leave our fund when they want), tax and the timing of investments (this is known as a fund's dealing cycle, it varies between managers and can be several days).
- Source of portfolio data: Broadridge. Source of performance data: FE fundinfo. We can't predict the future. Past performance isn't a guide to future performance. The figures shown are intended only to demonstrate performance history of the fund, after allowing for the impact of fund charges and further costs, but take no account of any Annual Management Charge paid for by the deduction of units. Charges and further costs may vary in the future and may be higher than they are now. Fund performance is based upon the movement of the daily price and is shown as total return in GBP with gross income reinvested. The value of your investment can go down as well as up so you might get back less than you put in.

Commentary

Performance as at Q2 2024 - Q2 saw four developed market central banks the ECB (European Central Bank), BoC (Bank of China) Riksbank, and the SNB (Swiss National Bank) commence their respective rate cutting journeys, with the BoE (Bank of England) expected to join in August as headline CPI returned to its target of 2.0% YoY in May. This positions the Fed as one of the last to embark on the 'easing train', with rate cutting pace across the board expected to be gradual as inflation remains ahead of central banks' targets in most regions (except for Switzerland, which has seen two rate cuts so far). In particular, US CPI in May showed the lowest monthly core CPI reading since August 2021 at 3.4% YoY, with core PCE (the Fed's preferred inflation gauge) increasing 0.08% MoM in May to 2.6% YoY, the softest reading since November 2020. These figures helped cement expectations that rate cuts were still on the horizon from the Federal Reserve, but suggest that more evidence of disinflation will be needed to gain confidence that inflation is moving back to the 2% target. All statistics from M&G internal sources as at 30.06.24, unless indicated otherwise. Despite the lowering of policy rates in Europe, the fallout from the European parliamentary elections and subsequent announcement of snap French legislative elections saw European sovereign yields rise, with the Franco-German 10-year spread widening by +29bps to 80bps in Q2 - the biggest quarterly widening since Q4 2011, when the Euro sovereign crisis was ongoing. In the Investment Grade (IG) market, spreads finally widened in June after tightening for most of the year, with the sell-off being attributed to several factors, including the weaker economic data and political risks in France. Despite the widening spreads, total returns have remained generally positive, driven by the duration component as yields fell. EUR IG generated a total return of 0.7% over the month, with USD and GBP up at 0.6% and 0.8% respectively. The EUR IG index offers a spread of 118 basis points, +11bps wider versus end of May. June was also a positive month for high yield markets, with carry and tighter rates driving returns. Global HY index delivered 0.91% thanks to the rally in government bond yields that followed the news of softer US inflation and the first rate cut from the ECB. However, French election uncertainty weighed on spread performance and Euro HY markets lagged (0.54%) their US (0.97%) counterparts.
