This document provides you with key investor information about this fund. It is not marketing material. The information is required by law to help you understand the nature and the risks of investing in this fund. You are advised to read it so you can make an informed decision about whether to invest.

Global X Disruptive Materials UCITS ETF (the "Fund"), A sub-fund of Global X ETFs ICAV (the "ICAV")

USD Accumulating Share Class, IE000FP52WM7

The Fund is managed by Global X Management Company (Europe) Limited (the "Manager").

Objectives and Investment Policy

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide investment results that closely correspond, before fees and expenses, generally to the price and yield performance of the Solactive Disruptive Materials v2 Index (the "Index").

The Fund is passively managed.

The Index is designed to provide exposure to global companies that produce metals and other raw or composite materials that have been identified as being essential to disruptive technologies such as lithium batteries, solar panels, wind turbines, fuel cells, robotics, and 3D printers. Solactive AG, the provider of the Index (the "Index Provider") selects companies that are involved in the production of materials that the Index Provider has determined to be instrumental to the development and materialisation of one or more disruptive technologies. Disruptive technologies refer to those technologies that are essential to the development and materialisation of long-term, structural changes to existing products, services, industries, or sectors. Specifically, the Index will include securities issued by "Disruptive Materials Companies" defined by the Index Provider as those companies that derive at least 50% of their revenues in aggregate from the exploration, mining, production and/or enhancement of one or more of the following ten materials categories: Carbon Fiber, Cobalt, Copper, Graphene & Graphite, Lithium, Manganese, Nickel, Platinum & Palladium, Rare Earth Elements, and Zinc (collectively, "Disruptive Materials Categories").

When not possible or practicable to continue to hold all of the component securities of the Index, the Fund may invest in depositary receipts relating either to components securities of the Index or to equity securities of the type referred to above; and financial derivative instruments ("FDIs"), namely, total return "unfunded" OTC swaps and exchange-traded equity futures for investment purposes.

The Fund may enter into securities lending transactions, investing in repurchase and reverse repurchase transactions and short term money market collective investment schemes, for the purposes of efficient portfolio management only.

The Fund's base currency is USD.

For Accumulating Shares, income will be automatically reinvested in the Fund and reflected in the NAV per share.

Investors can buy and sell shares of the Fund on each business day. Business day means a day on which the New York Stock Exchange and London Stock Exchange are open for normal business.

For more information about the investment policy and strategy of the Fund, please refer to the sections entitled "Investment Objective" and "Investment Policy" in the Fund's Supplement.

Risk and Reward Profile

This indicator above is based on historical data and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund. The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment.

This Fund is in risk category 6 due to the range and frequency of price movements (i.e. the volatility) of the underlying investments referenced by the Fund which may not be a reliable indicator of the future risk profile of the share class.

The Fund offers no capital guarantee or protection.

The Fund may be subject to risks which are not included in the calculation of the risk-reward indicator. Key risk factors include:

Currency Risk: Some of the Fund's investments will be denominated in currencies other than the Fund's base currency (USD) therefore investors may be affected by adverse movements of the denominated currency and the base currency. The Fund may attempt to use FDIs to hedge against negative currency movements, however there is no guarantee that any attempts at hedging will be successful. You may receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depend on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

Emerging Markets Risk: Investment in emerging markets may expose the Fund to more social, political, regulatory, and currency risks than securities in developed markets. The fiduciary duties of issuers and the levels of investor protection imposed by regulators is generally less comprehensive in emerging market countries than in developed markets.

Associated Risks Related to Investing in Disruptive Materials Companies: Disruptive Materials Companies engage in the exploration, mining, production and/or enhancement of metals and other raw or composite materials that have been identified as being essential to many of the world's most disruptive technologies. There is no guarantee that demand for these technologies will continue, or that the raw materials currently used in the production of these materials will continue to be utilized. A reduction of demand for the technologies that utilize these disruptive materials, or of the materials themselves, would have an adverse impact on the Fund. Companies involved in the various activities that are related to the exploration, mining, production and/or enhancement of disruptive materials may be medium-, small-, or micro-capitalization companies. These companies tend to have volatile share prices and are highly dependent on the price of the underlying disruptive materials, which may fluctuate substantially over short periods of time. The value of such companies may be significantly affected by the success of exploration projects, political and economic conditions in geographies where the companies operate, government royalties, energy conservation, environmental policies, commodity price volatility, changes in exchange rates, imposition of import/export controls, increased competition, depletion of resources and labor relations, and other world events. The exploration, mining, production and/or enhancement of disruptive materials can require large amounts of capital and, if companies involved in such activities are mismanaged, the share prices of such companies could decline even as prices for the underlying materials rise. In addition, companies involved in the various activities that are related to the exploration, mining, production and/or enhancement of disruptive materials may be at risk for environmental damage allegations and potentially punitive claims. Exploration, mining, production and/or enhancement of disruptive materials may involve environmentally intensive processes, and Disruptive Materials Companies may be at risk for environmental damage liabilities, as well as mandated expenditures for safety, pollution control, and environment remediation.

Risks Related to Investing in the Materials Sector: Companies in the materials sector are affected by commodity price volatility, exchange rates, import controls and worldwide competition. At times, worldwide production of industrial materials has exceeded demand, leading to poor investment returns or outright losses. Issuers in the materials sector are at risk of depletion of resources, technological progress, labor relations, governmental regulations and environmental damage and product liability claims.

Risks Related to Investing in the Metals and Mining Industry: Securities in the Fund's portfolio may be significantly subject to the effects of competitive pressures of the metals and mining industry and the price of the underlying materials. The price of these materials may be affected by changes in inflation rates, interest rates, monetary policy, economic conditions, and political stability. Commodity prices may fluctuate substantially over short periods of time; therefore, the Fund's Share price may be more volatile than other types of investments. In addition, metals and mining companies may also be significantly affected by import controls, worldwide competition, liability for environmental damage, depletion of resources, and mandated expenditures for safety and pollution control devices. Metals and mining companies may have significant operations in areas at risk for social and political unrest, security concerns and environmental damage. These companies may also be at risk for increased government regulation and intervention. Such risks may adversely affect the issuers to which the Fund has exposure.

For more information on risks, please see the sections entitled "Risk Factors" in the ICAV's prospectus and in the Fund's supplement to the ICAV's prospectus.

Charges

The charges you pay are used to pay the costs of running the Fund, including the costs of marketing and distributing the Fund. These charges reduce the potential growth of your investment.

One-off charges taken before or after you invest

Entry Charge	None *
Exit Charge	None *

This is the maximum that might be taken out of your money before it is invested or before the proceeds of your investment are paid out.

Charges taken from the Fund over a year:

Ongoing Charges	0.50% **
-----------------	----------

Charges taken from the fund under certain specific conditions

Performance Fee	None

The entry and exit charges shown are maximum figures. In some cases you might pay less - you can find this out from your financial adviser.

The ongoing charges figure shown here is based on the total expense ratio of the Fund that the Investment Manager has agreed to cap. The Manager gives a commitment to respect the published figure shown and to discharge any excess amounts out of its own assets for all other fees and expenses over this cap which may arise.

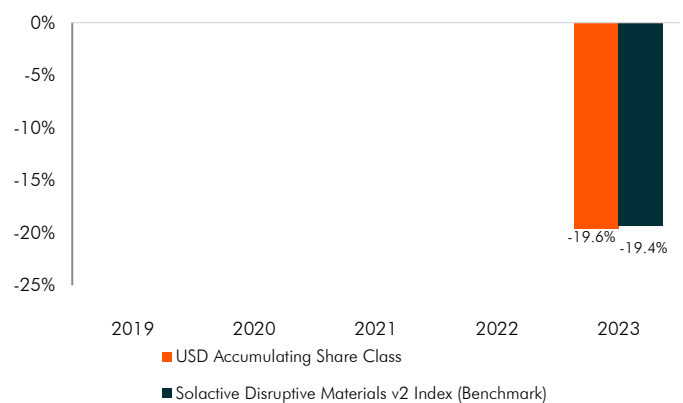

The ongoing charge figure excludes performance fees and portfolio transaction costs, except in the case of an entry/exit charge paid by the Fund when buying or selling units in another collective investment undertaking.

* Secondary market investors (Investors dealing on a stock exchange) may pay fees charged by their stock brokers. Such charges, if any, can be obtained from stock brokers. Authorised participants dealing directly with the Fund will pay related transaction costs related to their subscriptions and redemptions.

 To the extent the Fund undertakes securities lending, the Fund will receive 87% of the associated revenue generated from securities lending activities and the remaining 13% will be retained by the securities lending agent (representing the attendant direct and indirect operational costs and fees of the securities lending). As securities lending does not increase the costs of running the fund, this has been excluded from the ongoing charges.

Please refer to the "Fees, Costs and Expenses" section of the ICAV's Prospectus and "Fees and Expenses" section of the Supplement to the Prospectus for further detail on charges and fees for the relevant share classes.
