Half-Yearly Report for the six months ended 30 June 2023

Fidelity[™]
INTERNATIONAL

Investment Objective and Overview

The Company aims to achieve long term growth in both capital and income by predominantly investing in equities (and their related securities) of continental European companies.

Fidelity European Trust PLC aims to be the cornerstone long term investment of choice for those seeking European exposure across market cycles.

With inflation remaining high, the war in Ukraine continuing, and energy and recession risks still around the corner, it is pleasing to see that since the beginning of the year European stocks have outperformed their US counterparts.

Sam Morse and Marcel Stötzel, your Portfolio Managers, continue to adopt a cautious investment approach, building a balanced portfolio which aims, among other things, to manage the risk of adverse developments. The focus on attractively valued dividend growers with strong balance sheets and a track record in cash generation remains an appealing feature of the Company. The Portfolio Managers' rigorous approach to stock selection has benefited shareholders in recent difficult years and should continue to do so in the future.

Portfolio Managers' Half-Yearly Review

Performance Review

During the first six months of the year the net asset value ("NAV") total return was +11.1% compared to a total return of +9.3% for the FTSE World Europe (ex UK) Index which is the Company's Benchmark Index. The share price total return was +9.3%, which is below the NAV total return because of a widening of the share price discount to NAV. (All figures in UK sterling.)

Market Review

Continental European markets were unexpectedly strong in the first half of this year, as investors concerns moderated regarding global economic growth and as corporate earnings proved more resilient than feared. UK sterling appreciated by +3% against the Euro during this six month period so in Euro terms, the continental European benchmark rose +12% which is impressive, however much less than the Nasdaq which rocketed +30% in equivalent terms!

The market recovery from the lows of October 2022 accelerated in January boosted by confirmation that China would relax its strict COVID policies and "re-open". This positive sentiment was tested by the collapse of the Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) in early March, and the subsequent demise of Credit Suisse, but the market shrugged these off and ended the first quarter at close to its highest levels for the period. First quarter corporate results were better than anticipated (despite a technical recession in Germany). There was also a flurry of excitement regarding the likely long term impact of generative Artificial Intelligence (AI) which boosted technology names (such as ASML), but overall, the market stalled in the second quarter as investors worried that central banks were still in tightening mode given the resilience of the global economy and the stickiness of inflation. Like the US stock market, the continental European markets were led higher by a narrow group of mega-cap companies, often in the technology or luxury sectors. The energy sector was the main laggard, as commodity prices fell from the elevated levels of 2022, despite China "re-opening" and the continued war in Ukraine.

Portfolio Managers' Report

The Company's NAV total return outperformed the Company's Benchmark Index over the six month period by almost 2%. Much of this outperformance was due to the gearing of the Company which was maintained throughout the period at around 13%. Shareholders of the Company will remember that, as mentioned in the 2021 Annual Report, the Board endorsed an intention to maintain a relatively fixed level of gearing within a range that is approximately double the 6% average gearing from the end of the global financial crisis until the global pandemic. Gearing is, of course, one of the great advantages of an investment trust, and although it may amplify volatility in the short term, we expect it to enhance long term returns. The agreed level of gearing takes into account our cautious investment approach and allows considerable headroom before published limits are reached in the event of a sharp sell-off in the markets.

The contribution from stock-picking was also positive during this period. The stand-out performer during the half-year was 3i Group which continued to impress with positive results updates and strong current trading figures from their largest investment, the continental European discount retail group, Action. Financials, which is the Company's largest sector overweight, was however rocked by the bankruptcy of SVB. Bankinter suffered as investors worried that it was a European equivalent of a US regional bank with a deposit base that might prove less sticky than other European banks, given its recent growth and more sophisticated customer base. Sampo, the Nordic insurance company, also performed poorly following disappointing results and conservative guidance regarding capital distributions to shareholders. Roche continued its lacklustre run, hampered by disappointing guidance for 2023 due to a drop-off in COVID-related revenues (in diagnostics and pharma) and the on-going impact of biosimilars (comparable biological medicines) on Rituxan, Herceptin and Avastin. On a more positive note, LVMH Moët Hennessy and Hermès International defied gravity, once again, on the growing hope that the Chinese consumers were embarking on so-called “revenge spending” that has been seen post “re-opening” in the US and Europe.

Outlook

There are plenty of reasons to be bearish. More than a year ago, the two-year treasury yields rose above the ten-year treasury yields in the US bond market (it is normally the other way around). This ‘yield curve inversion’ has, historically, been a lead indicator of recession about 80% of the time, but the lag between the date of inversion and recession can be six months to three years. It is a bit like seeing a big dark cloud on the horizon and predicting it will rain soon! To date, the global economy and corporate earnings have been resilient while stock markets have recovered quite dramatically since the lows in October, such that share prices are now back in the middle of their normal valuation ranges. It is hard to imagine that this will not be tested in the months ahead. Having said that, the pandemic and subsequent monetary and fiscal policies have made this an unusual cycle. At present, investors seem to be expecting a soft landing or no global recession at all. Earnings forecasts for 2023 are similar to earnings delivered for 2022 but analysts are still forecasting growth in 2024. The capacity of consumers (the most important contributors to GDP) to maintain spending levels has surprised many. But, in general, they still have jobs and pandemic savings to burn. The cost-of-living crisis may ease too as commodity prices lead general pricing downwards on goods and services. This disinflation may also be helped along by governments ‘encouraging’ corporates to abandon 'greedflation' (which might hinder company margins). So maybe the consumer will keep the global economy stumbling along. Having said that, credit conditions are tightening (post SVB) and the US Federal Reserve and government are draining liquidity via quantitative tightening and short term bond issuance, and there is a multi-year refinancing requirement ahead for consumers and corporates alike. Geopolitical risks remain elevated too with the war in Europe and continued tensions between the US and China. Whatever our views on the outlook, we will maintain the current level of gearing and will continue to focus on attractively valued companies with strong balance sheets that should be resilient and able to grow dividends, even in a more difficult economic environment.

Interim Management Report and Directors' Responsibility Statement

Interim Dividend

The Board does not influence the Portfolio Managers by imposing any income objective in any particular period, and the investment focus on companies capable of growing their dividends remains. The Board acknowledges that both capital and income growth are components of performance, as reflected in the investment objective of the Company. It therefore has a policy whereby it seeks to pay a progressive dividend in normal circumstances and to pay dividends twice yearly in order to smooth dividend payments for the reporting year. Unlike open-ended funds, investment trusts can hold back some of the income they receive in good years, thereby building up revenue reserves, which can then be used to supplement dividends during difficult times. The Board has over the past few years augmented revenue reserves by retaining a small proportion of earnings to be used in difficult times, as in the case of the final dividend paid in May 2021.

The Company's revenue return for the six months to 30 June 2023 was 7.38 pence per ordinary share (30 June 2022: 7.08 pence). The Board has declared an interim dividend of 3.26 pence per ordinary share which is an increase of 5.8% on the 3.08 pence per ordinary share paid as the interim dividend in 2022. This will be paid on 27 October 2023 to shareholders on the register at close of business on 22 September 2023 (ex-dividend date 21 September 2023).

Shareholders may choose to reinvest their dividends for additional shares in the Company.

Discount Management and Treasury Shares

The Board has an active discount management policy, the primary purpose of which is to reduce discount volatility. It seeks to maintain the discount in single digits in normal market conditions. Buying shares at a discount also results in an enhancement to the NAV per ordinary share.

In order to assist in managing the discount, the Board has shareholder approval to hold ordinary shares repurchased by the Company in Treasury, rather than cancel them. Shares in Treasury are then available to be re-issued at NAV per ordinary share or at a premium to NAV per ordinary share, facilitating the management of and enhancing liquidity in the Company's shares.

In the reporting period and up to the date of this report, the discount remained in single digits and the Company did not repurchase any ordinary shares into Treasury or for cancellation.

Principal Risks and Uncertainties

The Board, with the assistance of the Manager (FIL Investment Services (UK) Limited), has developed a risk matrix which, as part of the risk management and internal controls process, identifies the key existing and emerging risks and uncertainties faced by the Company.

The Board considers that the principal risks and uncertainties faced by the Company fall into the following categories: economic and geopolitical risks; market risk; discount control risk; operational risk; cybercrime risk; investment performance risk (including the use of derivatives and gearing); environmental, social and governance (ESG) risks; key person risk; operational resilience risk; and tax and regulatory risks. Information on each of these risks is given in the Strategic Report section of the Annual Report for the year ended 31 December 2022. A copy of the Annual Report can be found on the Company's pages of the Manager's website at www.fidelity.co.uk/europe.

Interim Management Report and Directors' Responsibility Statement continued

While the principal risks and uncertainties are the same as those at the previous year end, the uncertainty continues to be heightened by the ongoing Russia and Ukraine conflict dominating political risks and industry concerns. There is geopolitical and economic uncertainty, in particular concerns over global economic growth, inflation and financial distress. Earlier in the year, the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank and the buyout of Credit Suisse caused turmoil in the global banking sector and volatility in the markets. The quantum of risks continues to change, and the Board remains vigilant in monitoring such risks.

Climate change continues to be a key emerging issue, as well as a principal risk, that is confronting asset managers and their investors. The Board notes that the Manager has integrated ESG considerations, including climate change, into the Company's investment process. The Board will continue to monitor how this may potentially impact the Company, the main risk being the impact on investment valuations and shareholder returns.

Investors should be prepared for market fluctuations and remember that holding shares in the Company should be considered to be a long term investment. Risks are mitigated by the investment trust structure of the Company which means that no forced sales need to take place to deal with any redemptions. Therefore, investments in the Company's portfolio can be held over a longer time horizon.

The Manager has appropriate business continuity and operational plans in place to ensure the uninterrupted provision of services, including investment team key activities, including those of portfolio managers, analysts and trading/support functions. It reviews its operational resilience strategies on an ongoing basis and continues to take all reasonable steps in meeting its regulatory obligations and protecting its ability to continue operating and to serve and support its clients, including the Board.

The Company's other third-party service providers also have similar measures to ensure that business disruption is kept to a minimum.

Transactions with the Manager and Related Parties

The Manager has delegated the Company's portfolio management and company secretariat services to FIL Investments International. Transactions with the Manager and related party transactions with the Directors are disclosed in Note 14 to the Financial Statements on page 26.

Going Concern Statement

The Directors have considered the Company's investment objective, risk management policies, liquidity risk, credit risk, capital management policies and procedures, the nature of its portfolio and its expenditure and cash flow projections. The Directors, having considered the liquidity of the Company's portfolio of investments (being mainly securities which are readily realisable) and the projected income and expenditure, are satisfied that the Company is financially sound and has adequate resources to meet all of its liabilities and ongoing expenses and can continue in operational existence for a period of at least twelve months from the date of this Half-Yearly Report.

This conclusion also takes into account the Board's assessment of the ongoing risks from the war in Ukraine, significant market events and regulatory changes.

Accordingly, the Financial Statements of the Company have been prepared on a going concern basis.

Continuation votes are held every two years and the next continuation vote will be put to shareholders at the Annual General Meeting in 2025.

Collateral

Asset provided as security for the unrealised gain or loss under a contract for difference.

Contract for Difference (CFD)

A contract for difference is a derivative. It is a contract between the Company and an investment house at the end of which the parties exchange the difference between the opening price and the closing price of an underlying asset of the specified financial instrument. It does not involve the Company buying or selling the underlying asset, only agreeing to receive or pay the movement in its share price. A contract for difference allows the Company to gain access to the movement in the share price by depositing a small amount of cash known as collateral. The Company may reason that the asset price will rise, by buying (“long” position) or fall, by selling (“short” position). If the Company holds long positions, dividends are received and interest is paid. If the Company holds short positions, dividends are paid and interest is received.
