Commentary

Global markets in general had a strong start to 2023 and notably the US (mainly in large-cap growth and Artificial Intelligence “AI” exposed names) and Japan (mainly in large-cap industrial trading conglomerates which have garnered famed investor optimism) continued to push higher in the second quarter. There has been no significant and material change to the macro backdrop through the year. We are awaiting the impending and ‘most anticipated recession of all time’. Global central banks continue to tighten by both reducing liquidity and hiking rates (despite a single pause in June by the US Federal Reserve and Bank of Japan), the contagion risk from US and European regional bank stress (albeit more muted now) remains a concern, inflation continues to be stubbornly high (albeit slowing thanks to cooling energy markets) and Chinese economic data seems weak with little substantive fiscal support of any meaningful size.

Your portfolio outperformed its reference index in H1’23 thanks to stock selection across most markets. Strong contributors included Eli Lilly, Microsoft and ASML. Eli Lilly, a leader in multiple therapeutics and most notably in diabetes and obesity, posted strong quarterly results with excitement and fundamental growth materialising across its diabetes franchise where Trulicity and Mounjaro (which combined represent 37% of sales) grew a staggering 59% year-on-year (YoY). Once Mounjaro is approved for weight loss later this year the growth momentum should continue. Microsoft requires no introduction and continues to benefit from growth across its cloud platform (Azure) which, whilst guided to decelerate with the wider industry, benefitted specifically from AI services. The cross sell/revenue synergies and implications of utilising AI across the rest of the productivity suite is a powerful driver for further pricing gains. ASML, the de facto monopoly maker of EUV lithography machines for the semiconductor industry, posted solid first quarter results which saw sales grow a staggering 90% YoY. The company maintained its guidance to grow sales by 25% for the full year 2023.

Detractors over the first half-year included Johnson & Johnson, Inner Mongolia Yili and AIA. Johnson & Johnson, the global pharmaceutical behemoth, was impacted by slowing sales in the near-term but we find the company's medium-term guidance reassuring. The market is however still sceptical that it will hit its 2025 pharmaceutical division revenue target of $60bn whereas we are more confident of this. The company's recent Q1'23 results were solid, seeing organic revenue growth of 5% in Pharmaceuticals and 6% in Medtech. Inner Mongolia Yili, the leading dairy producer in China, has lagged as it is perceived as less of a "reopening play". The company posted sanguine Q1'23 results which disappointed (sales +8% YoY and profits +4% YoY) but full-year guidance implies mid-teens profit growth and we remain convinced that this will be delivered. Lastly AIA, the pan-Asian life insurer, pared back initial China/Hong Kong "reopening" gains experienced at the tail end of 2022.

We sold our position in Align Technology, the global leader in clear aligners, taking advantage of its significant year-to-date rebound (up almost 50% in USD). We have conducted extensive due diligence on the name in recent quarters, including attending the International Dental Show in Cologne in March, and concluded that the company is too complacent regarding upcoming competition. We reduced our positions in Alphabet (on slowing growth and potential advertising market share erosion), Tencent (to better reflect our conviction overall versus the wider portfolio), Housing Development Finance Corporation "HDFC" (due to higher complexity and lower visibility of earnings post the impending merger with HDFC Bank) and lastly Church & Dwight as well as Hoya (both on valuation grounds). The proceeds were used to reinforce our positions in Lonza, Adyen, Recruit and S&P Global all on attractive valuations as we build these positions for the long-term. We also initiated positions in Zoetis (leading animal healthcare provider) and Accenture (premier IT Services consultant).

We highlight a recent ESG engagement held with Daikin, a leading global air conditioner manufacturer, sharing best practices and encouraging greater board diversity. We also followed up on environmental issues such as continued innovation and regulatory investigations.

The aggregate portfolio remains robust and well positioned with strong balance sheets, profitability and double-digit growth expectations over the long-term. Whilst uncertainty remains, we continue to trust in the quintessential quality growth profile that our clients and trusted partners have come to expect – that being favourable risk-adjusted absolute performance at or below levels of market volatility for the long-term through most market conditions.

Your portfolio outperformed its reference index in H1’23 thanks, in majority, to stock selection across most markets. Strong contributors included Microsoft, Amazon, and ASML. Microsoft requires no introduction and continues to benefit from growth across its cloud platform (Azure) which, whilst guided to decelerate with the wider industry, benefitted specifically from AI services. The cross sell/revenue synergies and implications of utilising AI across the rest of the productivity suite is a powerful driver for further pricing gains. Amazon, the e-commerce giant and incumbent cloud scaler, posted quarterly results which showed improved execution (stable revenues and improved margins) on the retail business including Advertising and third-party sales, but softer AWS cloud growth, margin and guidance (albeit with positive but cynical sentiment around AI monetisation potential versus Microsoft and Google). ASML, the de facto monopoly maker of EUV lithography machines for the semiconductor industry, posted solid first quarter results which saw sales grow a staggering 90% YoY. The company maintained its guidance to grow sales by 25% for the full year 2023.

Detractors over the first half-year included Johnson & Johnson, Inner Mongolia Yili and Nike. Johnson & Johnson, the global pharmaceutical behemoth, was impacted by slowing sales in the near-term but we find the company’s medium-term guidance reassuring. The market is however still sceptical that it will hit its 2025 pharmaceutical division revenue target of $60bn whereas we are more confident of this. The company posted sanguine Q1’23 results which disappointed (sales +8% YoY and profits +4% YoY) but full-year guidance implies mid-teens profit growth and we remain convinced that this will be delivered. Lastly Nike, the sports apparel maker, came under pressure as the market anticipates weaker results arising from read across in the wholesale distribution chain (Footlocker posted lacklustre results during the quarter).

We reduced our positions in Alphabet (on slowing growth and potential advertising market share erosion) and Tencent (to better reflect our conviction overall versus the wider portfolio). Meanwhile, Daikin and Hoya were exited on valuation grounds. The proceeds were used to reinforce our positions in Lonza, Accenture and S&P Global all on attractive valuations as we build these positions for the long-term. We also initiated positions in Zoetis (leading animal healthcare provider) and Assa Abloy (leading global provider of entrance systems, automation and security).

We highlight a recent ESG engagement held with Assa Abloy to discuss governance matters concerning the nomination and election of a new Chairman. This engagement is ongoing and we have confirmation over availability for further direct discussions with the newly elected Chairman regarding general governance matters.

The aggregate portfolio remains robust and well positioned with strong balance sheets, profitability and double-digit growth expectations over the long-term. Whilst uncertainty remains, we continue to trust in the quintessential quality growth profile that our clients and trusted partners have come to expect – that being favourable risk-adjusted absolute performance at or below levels of market volatility for the long-term through most market conditions.

Commentary

Global markets in general had a strong start to 2023 and notably the US (mainly in large-cap growth and Artificial Intelligence “AI” exposed names) and Japan (mainly in large-cap industrial trading conglomerates which have garnered famed investor optimism) continued to push higher in the second quarter. There has been no significant and material change to the macro backdrop through the year. We are awaiting the impending and ‘most anticipated recession of all time’. Global central banks continue to tighten by both reducing liquidity and hiking rates (despite a single pause in June by the US Federal Reserve Bank and Bank of Japan), the contagion risk from US and European regional bank stress (albeit more muted now) remains a concern, inflation continues to be stubbornly high (albeit slowing thanks to cooling energy markets) and Chinese economic data seems weak with little substantive fiscal support of any meaningful size.

The equity hedging contribution to performance was negative but limited in magnitude, a strong result given the performance of global equity markets in local currency. This was made possible by the relatively low average equity hedging rate of 32%, as the equity hedging model had started to decrease hedging rates as soon as October 2022. Indeed, the average hedging rate was already at 43% by the end of 2022 and pursued its gradual decrease to end H1’23 at 19%. This is the result of some of our strategies progressively improving their outlook on most regions, such as strategies based on long-term market trends, short-term volatility predictions, extreme risks or volatility regimes. Our credit and liquidity risk strategies sent positive signals months before 2023 and continued to do so with the exception of a few short-lived stress signals from credit data. Our contrarian strategy based on volatility risk premium tended to maintain some protection in most regions. Lastly, other strategies showed heterogeneous hedging levels across regions, this notably enabled our model to hedge our exposure to China (worst-performing region) the most, at an average of 43%, while hedging our exposures to Europe and Japan (best-performing regions) the least, at an average of 20% and 23% respectively.

The currency hedging contribution to performance was positive as our currency hedging model managed to identify well the reversal of the US and Hong Kong dollars towards the end of 2022 as well as the continuing downward trend of the Japanese yen against the euro. The yen, US and Hong Kong dollars all weakened against the euro, while our model hedged these currencies at a respective average of 65%, 86% and 84%. Their hedging rates at the beginning of the year were 50%, 88% and 88% respectively, and ended June at 100%, 75% and 75%. However, within H1’23, the dynamism of the model over these three currencies and the cost of hedging, notably for the US dollar, have reduced the potential gains. In June, the currency hedging model led to a moderate hedging of our Swiss franc exposure.

The equity portfolio outperformed its reference index in H1’23 thanks to stock selection across most markets. Strong contributors included Eli Lilly, Microsoft and ASML. We reduced our positions in Alphabet (on slowing growth and potential advertising market share erosion), Tencent (to better reflect our conviction overall versus the wider portfolio), Housing Development Finance Corporation "HDFC" (due to higher complexity and lower visibility of earnings post the impending merger with HDFC Bank) and lastly Church & Dwight as well as Hoya (both on valuation grounds). The proceeds were used to reinforce our positions in Lonza, Adyen, Recruit and S&P Global all on attractive valuations as we build these positions for the long-term. We also initiated positions in Zoetis (leading animal healthcare provider) and Accenture (premier IT Services consultant).

We highlight a recent ESG engagement held with Daikin, a leading global air conditioner manufacturer, sharing best practices and encouraging greater board diversity. We also followed up on environmental issues such as continued innovation and regulatory investigations.

The equity portfolio remains robust and well positioned with strong balance sheets, profitability and double-digit growth expectations over the long-term. Whilst uncertainty remains, we continue to trust both in the quintessential quality growth profile that our clients have come to expect and the robust risk mitigation provided by our hedging overlay.

Commentary

Global markets in general had a strong start to 2023 and notably the US (mainly in large-cap growth and Artificial Intelligence “AI” exposed names) and Japan (mainly in large-cap industrial trading conglomerates which have garnered famed investor optimism) continued to push higher in the second quarter. There has been no significant and material change to the macro backdrop through the year. We are awaiting the impending and ‘most anticipated recession of all time’. Global central banks continue to tighten by both reducing liquidity and hiking rates (despite a single pause in June by the US Federal Reserve and Bank of Japan), the contagion risk from US and European regional bank stress (albeit more muted now) remains a concern, inflation continues to be stubbornly high (albeit slowing thanks to cooling energy markets) and Chinese economic data seems weak with little substantive fiscal support of any meaningful size.

Your portfolio has outperformed its reference index since its inception in April 2023 thanks to stock selection across all regions except Japan. Strong contributors included Eli Lilly, Microsoft and Amazon. Eli Lilly, a leader in multiple therapeutics and most notably in diabetes and obesity, posted strong quarterly results with excitement and fundamental growth materialising across its diabetes franchise where Trulicity and Mounjaro (which combined represent 37% of sales) grew a staggering 59% year-on-year (YoY). Once Mounjaro is approved for weight loss later this year the growth momentum should continue. Microsoft requires no introduction and continues to benefit from growth across its cloud platform (Azure) which, whilst guided to decelerate with the wider industry, benefitted specifically from AI services. The cross sell/revenue synergies and implications of utilising AI across the rest of the productivity suite is a powerful driver for further pricing gains. Amazon, the e-commerce giant and incumbent cloud scaler, posted quarterly results which showed improved execution (stable revenues and improved margins) on the retail business including Advertising and third-party sales, but softer AWS cloud growth, margin and guidance (albeit with positive but cynical sentiment around AI monetisation potential versus Microsoft and Google).

Detractors since the portfolio’s inception include Nike, Pernod Ricard and Lonza. Nike, the sports apparel maker, came under pressure as the market anticipates weaker results arising from read across in the wholesale distribution chain (Footlocker posted lacklustre results during the quarter). Pernod Ricard, a global leader in premium spirits, posted quarterly results which suggested that the abnormally strong spirits growth in the US since the pandemic was trending down. Lastly, Lonza, the global leading outsource manufacturer for pharmaceuticals in Biologics, detracted as investors grew cautious on headwinds from pre-clinical and biotech funding challenges.

Since the portfolio’s inception, we have initiated positions in Zoetis (leading animal healthcare provider) and Accenture (premier IT Services consultant).

We highlight a recent ESG engagement held with Daikin, a leading global air conditioner manufacturer, sharing best practices and encouraging greater board diversity. We also followed up on environmental issues such as continued innovation and regulatory investigations.

The aggregate portfolio is robust and well positioned with strong balance sheets, profitability and double-digit growth expectations over the long-term. Whilst uncertainty remains, we continue to trust in the quintessential quality growth profile that our clients and trusted partners have come to expect – that being favourable risk-adjusted absolute performance at or below levels of market volatility for the long-term through most market conditions.

Global ex US markets in general had a strong start to 2023 and notably Japan (mainly in large-cap industrial trading conglomerates which have garnered famed investor optimism) continued to push higher in the second quarter. There has been no significant and material change to the macro backdrop through the year. We are awaiting the impending and 'most anticipated recession of all time'. Global central banks continue to tighten by both reducing liquidity and hiking rates (despite a single pause in June by the US Federal Reserve and Bank of Japan), the contagion risk from US and European regional bank stress (albeit more muted now) remains a concern, inflation continues to be stubbornly high (albeit slowing thanks to cooling energy markets) and Chinese economic data seems weak with little substantive fiscal support of any meaningful size.

Your portfolio outperformed its reference index in H1'23 thanks, in majority, to stock selection across markets. Strong contributors included ASML, LVMH and Novo Nordisk. ASML, the de facto monopoly maker of EUV lithography machines for the semiconductor industry, posted solid first quarter results which saw sales grow a staggering 90% year-on-year (YoY). The company maintained its guidance to grow sales by 25% for the full year 2023. LVMH, the global luxury giant, has enjoyed exceptional earnings momentum in recent years, fuelled by revenue growth at big profit contributors Louis Vuitton and Dior delivering tangible EBIT margin expansion. Q1'23 saw organic revenue growth of +17% and on a two-year stacked basis (adding Q1'22 growth of +23% YoY) it is a staggering +40%. We believe this will moderate (US) and be offset a little in some markets (China) but are comfortable that the valuation reflects this expectation. Novo Nordisk, a leader in the treatment of diabetes and obesity, started the year on a strong note with Q1'23 revenue growth of +25%, driven by anti-obesity and GLP-1 products. The FY'23 financial objectives were significantly raised in mid-April with the company expecting revenue growth of +24-30%.

Detractors over the first half-year included Inner Mongolia Yili, AIA and Recruit. Inner Mongolia Yili, the leading dairy producer in China, has lagged as it is perceived as less of a "reopening play". The company posted sanguine Q1'23 results which disappointed (sales +8% YoY and profits +4% YoY) but full-year guidance implies mid-teens profit growth and we remain convinced that this will be delivered. AIA, the pan-Asian life insurer, pared back initial China/Hong Kong "reopening" gains experienced at the tail end of 2022. Recruit, the owner of the global Indeed job search platform and a domestic Japan recruitment franchise, was (unsurprisingly) negatively impacted by slowing sales (mainly over 2022 where valuation came under pressure). Over 2023, earnings have started to stabilise and proven resilient (notwithstanding the backdrop) as depicted in the company's March 2023 quarterly results which saw sales up 9% and EBITDA at +20% YoY (conceding a benefit from FX tailwinds given the depreciated yen). Guidance has baked in further softness but illustrates improving cost control and margin protection. In the long-term, we believe the company is poised for continued market share gains and dynamic double-digit growth, but we appreciate this is a visible cyclical yet high quality growth position through economic cycles.

We reduced our positions in Tencent (to better reflect our conviction overall versus the wider portfolio), Housing Development Finance Corporation "HDFC" (due to higher complexity and lower visibility of earnings post the impending merger with HDFC Bank), Hoya (on valuation grounds), AIA (earlier in the year on "reopening" hype which extended the valuation a little) and lastly Shin-Etsu Chemical (taking advantage of recent strength and resilient PVC growth and margins which the valuation, we believe, reflected). The proceeds were used to reinforce our positions in Lonza, Adyen and Nestlé all on attractive valuations as we build these positions for the long-term. We also initiated a new position in Accenture (the premier IT services consultant).

We highlight a recent ESG engagement held with Daikin, a leading global air conditioner manufacturer, sharing best practices and encouraging greater board diversity. We also followed up on environmental issues such as continued innovation and regulatory investigations.

The aggregate portfolio remains robust and well positioned with strong balance sheets, profitability and double-digit growth expectations over the long-term. Whilst uncertainty remains, we continue to trust in the quintessential quality growth profile that our clients and trusted partners have come to expect – that being favourable risk-adjusted absolute performance at or below levels of market volatility for the long-term through most market conditions.

Commentary

The S&P 500 index surged 16.6% in USD (+14.1% in EUR) in the first half of 2023, driven by a more moderate pace of interest rate hikes, the resolution of the debt ceiling crisis and resilient earnings. Most of the rally was fuelled by large capitalisation technology companies and around the artificial intelligence (AI) theme.

At the June meeting, the Federal Reserve (Fed) paused rate increases on signs of a cooling US economy. Inflation dropped to a two-year low of 4% in May. The manufacturing sector experienced continued weakness, impacting the supply chain, while services started to show stagnation. There was a surge in initial jobless claims in mid-June, but off a low base with the unemployment rate still at 3.7%. On consumer spending, multiple retailers and consumer goods companies observed trade-downs, although US retail and food services sales (excluding gas) were still up 2.6% for the last three months.

The impact of the March banking crisis appears limited. There is sufficient capital for commercial real estate lending to weather repercussions.

Outside of the US, China's economic recovery post-lockdown has been disappointing. China's Purchasing Managers' Index unexpectedly fell to 49.2 in April from 51.9 in March, before further declining to 48.8 in May, suggesting a contraction in economic activity. While China has implemented measures to support some sectors like electric vehicles, significant stimulus policies to recharge the property market and the broader economy remain to be seen. However, this had a silver lining: the weak Chinese economy, combined with rising US fuel stockpiles, has led to a significant decline in the price of crude oil since the beginning of the year. This was beneficial to the portfolio which holds no investments in the energy sector. In addition, many of the portfolio holdings stand to benefit from lower inflation and hence lower interest rates.

Oracle, a top holding, saw cloud infrastructure and cloud applications grow over 70% and 20% respectively, despite decelerating IT budgets. Oracle is integrating its electronic health records acquisition (Cerner), emphasising cost management while investing in R&D and capital expenditures. Oracle's partnership with Nvidia and investment in Cohere, a leading AI platform, position it as a leading provider for generative AI start-ups. The cloud transformation thesis is playing out with next quarter's revenue growth guidance at 7-9% (excluding foreign exchange impacts), a significant acceleration compared to low-single-digit growth in the past.

Meta saw revenue reacceleration and cost reductions in Q1 2023. Advertising revenues grew by 7% (excluding foreign exchange impact), driven by a 26% increase in advertising impressions. Notably, Instagram gained user time share against TikTok thanks to the increasing popularity of Reels. Meta also showed pricing resilience, two years after Apple's data tracking policy change. The company continues to innovate with more advertising testing on Reels, expanded WhatsApp services and generative AI applications.

Apple exceeded revenue expectations in the latest quarter, fuelled by 2% iPhone sales growth despite currency headwinds and record-high services revenue. Emerging markets showed strong performance, and Apple is exploring strategic investments in India and Vietnam. On the new product side, Apple recently unveiled its mixed reality headset and products featuring its latest chips. Overall, Apple's growing and sticky user base, powerful ecosystem, increasing service monetisation and innovative product line-up position it for continued growth.

Notable detractors include Avery Dennison (leader in labelling materials and solutions), Service Corp (leader in death care products and services) due to cycle issues, Johnson & Johnson and BioMarin which were affected by rotation.

Affected by downstream destocking, Avery faced volume declines in line with the packaging and transportation industry. However, the company maintained a resilient margin, and management remains focused on expanding contactless chip (RFID) labels and implementing cost-saving initiatives.

Service Corp's advanced funeral booking grew 8%. However, following the Covid-19 pandemic current funeral demand has lessened. In addition, recent climatic conditions have affected the company's cemetery sales. We continue to like Service Corp which we believe is a resilient and non-discretionary investment.

The US Food and Drug Administration approved BioMarin's drug Roctavian, the first US-approved gene therapy product for the treatment of severe haemophilia A.

During the first half of the year we trimmed positions in Amazon, Idexx and Oracle on valuation grounds and liquidated our positions in Align Technology, Estée Lauder, Thermo Fisher and Nike on either reduced visibility or valuation concerns. The proceeds from these sales were used to rebalance our weightings in quality names impacted by idiosyncratic cycles, such as Avery Dennison and J.B. Hunt. The proceeds were also used to reinforce new positions in a leading contract logistics company, a high growth power semiconductor company and a leading animal health company.

Within our media holdings, we made some adjustments based on our evaluation of monetisation and profit potential.

While Fed Chairman Jerome Powell mentioned further rate hikes in 2023, a more moderate pace of increases seems likely: the impact of monetary restraint appears to be putting a lid on inflation helped by decreasing energy prices. There are also signs of cooling in the labour market. The main question is whether a "soft landing" of the economy – i.e. rate hikes while averting a recession – can be achieved.

As professional baseball player Yogi Berra once quipped: "it is tough to make predictions - especially about the future". Being bottom-up investors, we instead strive to construct an all-weather portfolio that achieves long-term sustainable earnings growth thanks to companies with unique value propositions, high barriers to entry and solid financial discipline. Your portfolio offers a balanced exposure to significant structural themes, such as AI, cloud computing, digitalisation, electrification, connectivity, health and wellbeing and sustainability.

Commentary

Japanese equities have come into focus again with the market at multi-decade highs, partly because of governance change but mainly because the market has been ignored for so long and offers an unparalleled combination of growth and value, in our view.

At the same time, the strong sectors within the MSCI Value index have been financials and commodities, reflecting global themes whose application to Japan is not obvious. We believe that the real Japan story - that of great companies trading at discounts to global peers - has not been revealed. This year saw the start of a reversion to growth stocks, but in fact we calculate that nearly half of the MSCI Japan Growth index's performance was explained by only 7% of stocks. This is a similar narrowness of performance to the S&P 500 index but could well announce a broader rediscovery of growth.

We met recently with Keyence which assured us that its sales productivity outside Japan is catching up with Japan; in other words, its penetration of its addressable markets is proceeding very well. Keyence also informed us that 20% of revenue typically is sustained by new products, a helpful indicator of its ability to maintain its growth rate. In addition, Keyence queried us about Science-Based Targets reporting for its supply chain, which is quite an evolution in the company's thinking.

We also met with Kosé which confirmed the recovery we had been hoping for in its drugstore channel, while reiterating the strength of its premium brands Albion and Decorté, buoyed by consistent and successful product launches and the success of its US brand Tarte.

During our meeting with Z Holdings the company explained that it is confident in its roughly 10% EBITDA growth guidance for this fiscal year as the many leading internet assets under its umbrella, especially Yahoo! Japan, LINE and PayPay, are able to share customer lists and address a wider range of users with targeted services.

We met Daifuku which anticipates its semiconductor wafer handling business inflecting within the coming months and sees significant market share gain potential in logistics equipment outside Japan. Companies with indispensable semiconductor supply chain roles like Daifuku are part of Japan's major investment opportunity along with consumer leaders and governance change stories such as Ajinomoto or Orix.

We added Ajinomoto over the first half of the year. The company is parrying its core strength in amino acid into microprocessor insulator substrate film, Ajinomoto Build-up Film, where it is globally dominant, and into Contract Development Manufacturing Outsourcing. More importantly, Ajinomoto has changed to focus more on capital return and growth, we believe. Governance change is often talked about in Japan, but we cannot invest in an empty theme; Ajinomoto is a specific example of governance change which we have watched for many years.

Japan's opportunity is in its globally leading companies, which capture the growth of Asia, the normalisation of the world economy, as well as the changes of Japan itself.

The growth of Asia, an opportunity for our companies with indispensable semiconductor and automation supply chain technology, and for our consumer brand companies, should be seen as part of the Japan story, in our view.

Regarding normalisation, as Covid restrictions eased completely from May, people are flocking back to the real economy to savour their favourite activities: shopping, eating out and travelling. International tourists are returning. Your portfolio is invested in several normalisation plays. We believe that these businesses' profitability should be boosted by a revival in consumer spending and international tourism.

More enduring changes are in governance, and the specific cases we have found of that, Ajinomoto earlier being an example, are highly rewarding for us.

We believe that companies which have chosen to change, realise core strengths and focus less on business with limited growth, and to share their aspirations with long-term shareholders, are natural investments for us - and Japan is increasingly providing examples of such companies.

Commentary

The MSCI Emerging Markets index has risen 2.6% in EUR (+4.9% in USD) year-to-date. Your portfolio outperformed its reference index in H1'23 and over the past 12 months.

US growth and inflation with the consequent outlook for interest rates were the overriding external factors for emerging markets (EM), with both proving to be stronger than expected. Of the major EMs, IT and export orientated Korea and Taiwan both rose on the anticipation of global growth resuming. The IT sector was further helped by the unprecedented DRAM capacity cut, while interest in artificial intelligence (AI) led to a sector rerating.

China meanwhile has been dancing to a different tune as concerns mounted over its growth outlook following a weaker-than-expected recovery in consumer sentiment, ongoing high unemployment, no meaningful recovery in the property sector, negative manufacturing PMIs and limited government support. These factors, combined with increasing geopolitical tensions, caused a compression in valuations. Our conversations with portfolio companies, such as LG H&H, have illustrated this and helped us to refine our exposure to defensive names such as Inner Mongolia Yili and medical companies. Holdings such as Midea, which has further consolidated its market, should benefit from lower input costs and in time from stronger consumption. Meanwhile, companies such as NetEase continue to be a global standard in the quality of games it produces.

The portfolio's two largest country overweights, Mexico and Brazil, performed well with each experiencing strongly appreciating currencies. Mexico's economy is stable and should increasingly benefit, at China's expense, from nearshoring and market concerns that afflicted Brazil when Lula was elected President have largely dissipated. India has also been a beneficiary of China's problems. Having made some beneficial reforms, economic growth is picking up and geopolitics are currently India's friend.

Throughout H1'23 we have been increasing the growth element of the portfolio in anticipation of improving EM domestic and global economic fundamentals, taking advantage of market volatility to buy good quality companies cheaply. Generally, patience has paid off with examples such as ASML and Globant.

In China, we have maintained high exposure to some more defensive companies such as those in the medical space which we believe will benefit from the aging Chinese population. Conversely, we maintained underweight positions to the Chinese IT sector and new economy, where government interference remains, albeit lighter than before, and where EPS growth has deteriorated. Only Tencent stands apart, with the company implementing a vigorous cost cutting programme and more recently a recovery in the growth of gaming, fintech and advertising, in ascending order. Leading white spirit company, Kweichow Moutai, was re-introduced to the portfolio. The company, which is unlikely to be affected by geopolitics in our view, has consistently delivered good returns by offering a premium product in its sector. With China relatively out of favour, we have been afforded attractive valuation entry points which have not been seen for some time.

China Resources Gas was significantly reduced during the year. The company benefits from connections for new apartments, however China's property recovery is proving weak. At the same time, we consider the lack of control over its gas purchase and sales prices as eroding the value of its franchise.

NCsoft, the Korean gaming company, was sold. Results have been disappointing with the first quarterly loss in 10 years due to high employee bonuses and Lineage games normalising post the launch of Lineage W. In addition, the competitive landscape in a fairly saturated domestic market has become fiercer, while the company's international ambitions are unproven. The earnings have become increasingly unpredictable, thereby eroding the quality.

LG H&H, also in Korea, was among the largest detractors from performance in H1'23. A combination of weak Chinese consumption, concern over the company's core Whoo cosmetics brand, issues with its distributors and limited travel by the Chinese population to Korea have each affected the business. The position was reduced over the period.

Inflation rates are declining throughout EMs. This means that interest rates too will be cut while economic growth estimates will be increased. At the same time FX risk is low with strong positive real yields and generally solid economies. We believe this bodes well for the EPS growth of EM companies. Your portfolio shows strong mid-teens EPS growth in both 2023 and 2024, while the index is estimated to have negative EPS growth for 2023.

China will recover in time and perhaps the longer the government delays some form of serious stimulus, the more profound it will eventually be. In anticipation of such an event, we initiated a position in Sany Heavy, a dominant and high-quality Chinese construction machinery manufacturer, on the expectation that sometime later in 2023 the Chinese property market will show signs of recovery in a manner that will benefit the company's sales. At the same time, Sany derives 50% of its revenue from sales outside China.

Some good quality EM stocks have been shunned, often due to weak macro environments. Illustrative of this is Mobile World in Vietnam, the leading retailer in the country with exceptional logistics for e-commerce. Vietnam has been out of favour but the company remains good albeit overlooked for nearly a year. We will continuously take advantage of such situations when good companies trade at depressed valuations while the EPS growth year-on-year is likely to rise.

From a fundamental earnings standpoint, we believe the portfolio companies are well positioned. For the most part they have no or low debt meaning they are less affected by the cost of financing. We continue to believe that in the long term it is sustainable earnings growth that will prove the most important driver of shareholder returns and are prepared to take advantage of any short-term weakness to continue repositioning the portfolio towards the most exciting long-term growth franchises.

Commentary

The MSCI Emerging Markets ex China index has risen 9.9% in USD year-to-date. Your portfolio outperformed its reference index in H1'23 and over the past 12 months.

US growth and inflation with the consequent outlook for interest rates were the overriding external factors for the asset class, and both proved stronger than expected. Of the major countries, IT and export orientated Taiwan rose on the anticipation of global growth resuming. The IT sector was further helped by the unprecedented DRAM capacity cut, while interest in artificial intelligence (AI) led to a sector rerating. Brazil, one of the markets where we happen to be overweight, also rose during the year. Despite initial market concerns, political developments during the first six months of the year have overall been positive. A new fiscal framework bill was approved by the Lower House and is now being discussed by Senate. Brazilian inflation has been consistently below expectations, bringing forward the timeline for monetary easing and the extent of rate cuts. This is boosting GDP estimates for 2023 and 2024. Consequently, Brazilian markets have rallied since the end of April, driven predominantly by domestic cyclical names.

Another country that the portfolio has been overweight to is Mexico, which has experienced a strongly appreciating currency. Mexico's economy is stable and should increasingly benefit, at China's expense, from nearshoring. India has also been a beneficiary of China's problems. Prime Minister Modi is popular and looks likely to be re-elected next year. Having made some beneficial reforms, economic growth is picking up and geopolitics are currently India's friend. We are currently monitoring a few select Indian quality growth franchises closely, yet remain underweight the country given the high valuation premium.

Throughout H1'23 we have been increasing the growth and quality elements of the portfolio in anticipation of improving emerging market (EM) domestic and global economic fundamentals, taking advantage of market volatility to increase our exposure to good quality companies at attractive prices. Generally, patience has paid off with examples such Localiza and Mobile World. Considering the uncertainty about the timing of global growth and still tightening monetary policy, we have remained disciplined on valuations and have not yet meaningfully increased the portfolio's exposure to attractive long-duration franchises where near term valuations remain elevated.

During the period we added Tokai Carbon Korea (TCK) to the portfolio. TCK is the dominant (over 80% market share) provider of silicon carbide rings used in the more advanced NAND manufacturing processes. As the number of layers in NAND memory chips increases, the need for more resilient materials increases, thus benefitting TCK. Recent memory cyclicality has weighed on share price significantly while the company's earnings trajectory is only mildly impacted. Unlike some tech companies which may see a short-term earnings boost from "AI-related tech demand," we see the long-term solid state memory market as a structural winner and TCK as a clear value added leader in the sector.

Another position that was increased was the leading Brazilian car rental company Localiza. The company has been gaining market share recently as it benefits from a weakening competitive environment, with no room to grow for Movida due to high leverage and Oroveerde as it digests a relatively large acquisition. We believe Localiza remains attractively valued, at 17x 2024-PER while the company should be growing its EPS in the high teens over the next few years.

NCsoft, the Korean gaming company, was sold. Results have been disappointing with the first quarterly loss in 10 years due to high employee bonuses and Lineage games normalising post the launch of Lineage W. In addition, the competitive landscape in a fairly saturated domestic market has become fiercer, while the company's international ambitions are unproven. The earnings have become increasingly unpredictable, thereby eroding the quality.

The portfolio's largest contributor during the period was the Mexican holding company FEMSA with its largest asset, OXXO, the dominant convenience stores player in Mexico. The share price continued to rally post the strategic review that was announced in February 2023. The market appreciates simplicity and strong capital allocation, both of which were key outcomes of the review. Despite the company's strong year-to-date performance, we continue to hold the share at a high position as we believe that the improved quality and strong growth prospects are not yet fully discounted in the current share price.

LG H&H was among the largest detractors from performance in H1'23. A combination of weak Chinese consumption, concern over the company's core Whoo cosmetics brand, issues with its distributors and limited travel by the Chinese population to Korea have each affected the business. The position was reduced over the period.

Inflation rates are declining throughout EMs. This means that interest rates too will be cut while economic growth estimates will be increased. At the same time FX risk is low with strong positive real yields and generally solid economies. We believe this bodes well for the EPS growth of EM companies. Your portfolio is projected to grow EPS by low teens over the next 12 months. In comparison the index's EPS is projected to decline.

Some good quality EM stocks have been shunned, often due to weak macro environments. Illustrative of this is Mobile World in Vietnam, the leading retailer in the country with exceptional logistics for e-commerce. Vietnam has been out of favour but the company remains good albeit overlooked for nearly a year. We recently increased the position to a top five holding. We will continuously take advantage of such situations when good companies trade at depressed valuations while the EPS growth year-on-year is likely to rise.

From a fundamental earnings standpoint, we believe the portfolio companies are well positioned. For the most part they have no or low debt meaning they are less affected by the cost of financing. We continue to believe that in the long term it is sustainable earnings growth that will prove the most important driver of shareholder returns and are prepared to take advantage of any short-term weakness to continue repositioning the portfolio towards the most exciting long-term growth franchises.

Commentary

The MSCI Emerging Markets index has risen 2.6% in EUR (although declined 0.8% in GBP) year-to-date. Your portfolio outperformed its reference index in H1'23 and over the past 12 months.

US growth and inflation with the consequent outlook for interest rates were the overriding external factors for emerging markets (EM), with both proving to be stronger than expected. Of the major EMs, IT and export orientated Korea and Taiwan both rose on the anticipation of global growth resuming. The IT sector was further helped by the unprecedented DRAM capacity cut, while interest in artificial intelligence (AI) led to a sector rerating.

China meanwhile has been dancing to a different tune as concerns mounted over its growth outlook following a weaker-than-expected recovery in consumer sentiment, ongoing high unemployment, no meaningful recovery in the property sector, negative manufacturing PMIs and limited government support. These factors, combined with increasing geopolitical tensions, caused a compression in valuations. Our conversations with portfolio companies, such as LG H&H, have illustrated this and helped us to refine our exposure to defensive names such as Inner Mongolia Yili and medical companies. Holdings such as Midea, which has further consolidated its market, should benefit from lower input costs and in time from stronger consumption. Meanwhile, companies such as NetEase continue to be a global standard in the quality of games it produces.

Two of the portfolio's largest country overweights, Mexico and Brazil, performed well with each experiencing strongly appreciating currencies. Mexico's economy is stable and should increasingly benefit, at China's expense, from nearshoring and market concerns that afflicted Brazil when Lula was elected President have largely dissipated. India has also been a beneficiary of China's problems. Having made some beneficial reforms, economic growth is picking up and geopolitics are currently India's friend. The portfolio is underweight India although stock selection has been good. We await better company valuations before adding to this promising long-term growth economy.

Throughout H1'23 we have been increasing the growth element of the portfolio in anticipation of improving EM domestic and global economic fundamentals, taking advantage of market volatility to buy good quality companies cheaply.

In China, we have maintained high exposure to some more defensive companies such as those in the medical space which we believe will benefit from the aging Chinese population. Conversely, we maintained underweight positions to the Chinese IT sector and new economy, where government interference remains, albeit lighter than before, and where EPS growth has deteriorated. The leading white spirit company, Kweichow Moutai, was introduced to the portfolio. The company, which is unlikely to be affected by geopolitics in our view, has consistently delivered good returns by offering a premium product in its sector. With China relatively out of favour, we have been afforded attractive valuation entry points which have not been seen for some time.

The portfolio has maintained an underweight exposure to the direct Chinese market, with positive stock selection attribution. Consequently, China was one of the top contributors to performance despite many of the top 10 underperforming stocks being either Chinese listed or companies related to the Chinese economy.

In Korea, LG Chem and LG Energy Solutions are increasingly benefitting from the expanding State-backed support for switching to green energy and its subsequent impact on the car market. This development is at an early stage in the US compared to Europe and China. LG Chem, for geopolitical reasons is the favoured partner to build battery producing facilities in the US. LG Energy Solution, in which LG Chem holds an 82% stake, guided for top line growth of 25% to 30% in 2023 with continuous margins improvement.

NCsoft, the Korean gaming company, was sold. Results have been disappointing with the first quarterly loss in 10 years due to high employee bonuses and Lineage games normalising post the launch of Lineage W. In addition, the competitive landscape in a fairly saturated domestic market has become fiercer, while the company's international ambitions are unproven. The earnings have become increasingly unpredictable, thereby eroding the quality.

LG H&H, also in Korea, was among the largest detractors from performance in H1'23. A combination of weak Chinese consumption, concern over the company's core Whoo cosmetics brand, issues with its distributors and limited travel by the Chinese population to Korea have each affected the business. The position was reduced over the period.

Inflation rates are declining throughout EMs. This means that interest rates too will be cut while economic growth estimates will be increased. At the same time FX risk is low with strong positive real yields and generally solid economies. We believe this bodes well for the EPS growth of EM companies. Your portfolio shows strong mid-teens EPS growth in both 2023 and 2024, while the index is estimated to have negative EPS growth for 2023.

China will recover in time and perhaps the longer the government delays some form of serious stimulus, the more profound it will eventually be. In anticipation of such an event, we initiated a position in Sany Heavy, a dominant and high-quality Chinese construction machinery manufacturer, on the expectation that sometime later in 2023 the Chinese property market will show signs of recovery in a manner that will benefit the company's sales. At the same time, Sany derives 50% of its revenue from sales outside China.

Some good quality EM stocks have been shunned, often due to weak macro environments. Illustrative of this is Mobile World in Vietnam, the leading retailer in the country with exceptional logistics for e-commerce. Vietnam has been out of favour but the company remains good, albeit overlooked, for nearly a year. We will continuously take advantage of such situations when good companies trade at depressed valuations while the EPS growth year-on-year is likely to rise.

Commentary

After a tough 2022, the MSCI Europe index rebounded in the first half of 2023. Your portfolio, having fallen more than the index in 2022, has outperformed so far this year. Inflation and interest rates continue to dominate the narrative, with easing inflationary pressures leading to a more optimistic than expected path for interest rates. This supported equity markets in general, and your portfolio even more so given the long-term and hence more interest rate-sensitive nature of the earnings streams of the companies that constitute it. The economic outlook has also improved, albeit from a low base, with the European Commission now expecting the European Union GDP to grow 1% this year. The consumer has proved surprisingly resilient despite a material squeeze on household budgets. That is not to say the horizon is cloud free. The collapse of Silicon Valley Bank and the demise of Credit Suisse acted as timely reminders of the fragility of the banking system (a sector we have avoided since the strategy's inception over 30 years ago). While headline inflation is easing (thanks to falling raw material and energy prices), core inflation has remained stubbornly high. In the context of lacklustre economic growth and elevated cost pressures, the MSCI Europe index's earnings are forecast to barely grow this year and do little better next year. Your portfolio, by contrast, is expected to grow its earnings by double digits both this year and next. The marked outperformance reflects on the one hand the idiosyncratic nature of the portfolio's growth (e.g. obesity for Novo Nordisk) and on the other the ability of our portfolio companies to push through inflationary price increases, without impacting margins. In other words, quality and growth.

In the first quarter of 2023 the portfolio delivered double-digit organic sales growth, continuing its above-trend trajectory and supported by inflationary price increases. ASML reported strong first quarter sales and reiterated its full-year guidance for more than 25% sales growth, despite being in the midst of a semiconductor downturn. ASML's shares have recovered strongly this year, supported by excitement around Artificial Intelligence (AI). In our view there is good reason to be optimistic as AI will only accelerate the need for enhanced compute power, which ultimately will require chips manufactured using ASML's machines. LVMH reported another quarter of stellar organic revenue growth driven by continued strong momentum in the Louis Vuitton and Dior brands. A combination of price increases, improved mix and the reopening of China also helped.

In the healthcare space, Novo Nordisk started the year strongly delivering +25% constant currency growth in the first quarter and materially upgrading full-year guidance from +13-19% constant currency revenue growth to +24-30%. The company is struggling to keep up with demand for its blockbuster anti-obesity product Wegovy and we continue to see substantial long-term potential for the product, not least because the secondary effects of obesity are a costly priority for healthcare systems.

Among the detractors from performance, Sartorius Stedim reduced its full-year revenue and profit guidance following greater-than-expected customer de-stocking, having experienced an exceptionally strong period of above-average growth during the Covid-19 pandemic. We remain convinced by the long-term prospects but expect short-term volatility to weigh until the situation stabilises. Carl Zeiss Meditec, a new position from the turn of the year, reduced its full-year guidance as a result of production bottlenecks in its manufacturing facilities. Here too, we expect the problem to be short-lived.

We made fewer portfolio changes than usual over the period under review. We added to Carl Zeiss, Sika, Accenture and Heineken on weakness. We continued to build our position in Halma and added back the part of ICON we had sold last year on leverage fears. We built a new position in RELX, a company we first added to our investment universe in 2019. The company's organic growth profile has steadily improved in recent years as the company has successfully developed and monetised its data analytic capabilities across each of its divisions. In addition, the strong cash flow generation of the company allows it to supplement the organic growth with bolt on acquisitions and buybacks. We took advantage of a share price dip to build the position.

The market is likely to continue to be dominated for the foreseeable future by inflation and interest rate prospects. While inflation is coming down, it is still not clear at what level it will settle, and hence at what level central bankers will deem it appropriate to set interest rates. From a fundamental earnings standpoint, we believe the portfolio companies are well positioned to prosper whichever the scenario. For the most part, these companies have no or low debt meaning they are less affected by the cost of financing. They also enjoy high gross margins and strong pricing power, which will help protect them from inflationary cost pressures. As such, the greatest risk we believe is not on fundamentals, but rather on valuations. From this point of view the portfolio is less expensive than it was in December 2021, albeit still at a premium to its long-term average. We continue to believe that in the long term it is sustainable earnings growth that will prove the most important driver of shareholder returns, and remain prepared to take advantage of any short-term weakness to continue repositioning the portfolio towards the most exciting long-term growth franchises.

Roche shares retreated in H1'23 as the large pharmaceuticals company delivered a slight increase in 2022 profits and indicated that it expects a slight decrease in 2023 group sales due to the sharp decline in sales of Covid-19 products. First quarter activity was consistent with this picture, as sales growth of 9% in the Pharmaceuticals division was more than offset by a 28% decline in the Diagnostics division business.

We made only minor changes to the portfolio during the first half of 2023. We added to our positions in Heineken and Accenture on weakness and trimmed a few other positions on valuation grounds.

In the healthcare space, other key portfolio holding Novo Nordisk started the year strongly delivering +25% constant currency growth in the first quarter and materially upgrading full-year guidance from +13-19% constant currency revenue growth to +24-30%. The company is struggling to keep up with demand for its blockbuster anti-obesity product Wegovy and we continue to see substantial long-term potential for the product, not least because the secondary effects of obesity are a costly priority for healthcare systems.

Among the detractors from performance, Sartorius Stedim reduced its full-year revenue and profit guidance following greater-than-expected customer de-stocking, having experienced an exceptionally strong period of above-average growth during the Covid-19 pandemic. We remain convinced by the long-term prospects but expect short-term volatility to weigh until the situation stabilises. Carl Zeiss Meditec, a new position from the turn of the year, reduced its full-year guidance as a result of production bottlenecks in its manufacturing facilities. Here too, we expect the problem to be short-lived.

We made fewer portfolio changes than usual over the period under review. We added to Carl Zeiss and Nemetschek on weakness whilst Hermès, Novo Nordisk and ASML were reduced on strength.

We believe the market is likely to continue to be dominated for the foreseeable future by inflation and interest rate prospects. While inflation is coming down, it is still not clear at what level it will settle, and hence at what level central bankers will deem it appropriate to set interest rates. From a fundamental earnings standpoint, we believe the portfolio companies are well positioned to prosper whichever the scenario. Of course, the companies have no significant debt meaning they are less affected by the cost of financing, but they also enjoy high gross margins and strong pricing power, both of which will help protect them from inflationary cost pressures. As such, the greatest risk we believe is not on fundamentals, but rather on valuations. From this point of view the portfolio is less expensive than it was in December 2021, albeit still at a premium to its long-term average. We continue to believe that in the long term it is sustainable earnings growth that will prove the most important driver of shareholder returns, and remain prepared to take advantage of any short-term weakness to continue repositioning the portfolio towards the most exciting long-term growth franchises.

Commentary

After a tough 2022, the MSCI Europe index rebounded in the first half of 2023. Inflation and interest rates continue to dominate the narrative, with easing inflationary pressures leading to a more optimistic than expected path for interest rates. This supported equity markets in general, and your portfolio even more so given the long-term and hence more interest rate-sensitive nature of the earnings streams of the companies that constitute it. The economic outlook has also improved, albeit from a low base, with the European Commission now expecting the European Union GDP to grow 1% this year. The consumer has proved surprisingly resilient despite a material squeeze on household budgets. That is not to say the horizon is cloud free. The collapse of Silicon Valley Bank and the demise of Credit Suisse acted as timely reminders of the fragility of the banking system (a sector we have avoided since the strategy's inception). While headline inflation is easing (thanks to falling raw material and energy prices), core inflation has remained stubbornly high. In the context of lacklustre economic growth and elevated cost pressures, the MSCI Europe index's earnings are forecast to barely grow this year and do little better next year. Your portfolio, by contrast, is expected to grow its earnings by double digits both this year and next. The marked outperformance reflects on the one hand the idiosyncratic nature of the portfolio's growth and on the other the ability of our portfolio companies to push through inflationary price increases, without impacting margins. In other words, quality and growth.

ASML reported strong first quarter sales and reiterated its full-year guidance for more than 25% sales growth, despite being in the midst of a semiconductor downturn. ASML's shares have recovered strongly this year, supported by excitement around Artificial Intelligence (AI). In our view there is good reason to be optimistic as AI will only accelerate the need for enhanced compute power, which ultimately will require chips manufactured using ASML's machines.

Wizz Air's shares rebounded significantly as demand remains strong and unit economics are expected to gradually return to pre-pandemic levels, paving the way for a profit recovery in fiscal year 2024. ICON reported solid first quarter results despite a difficult biotech funding environment, with 5.3% organic sales growth along with another strong quarter of adjusted EBITDA growth, increasing 17.2%.

Among the detractors from performance, Sartorius Stedim reduced its full-year revenue and profit guidance following greater-than-expected customer de-stocking, having experienced an exceptionally strong period of above-average growth during the Covid-19 pandemic. We remain convinced by the long-term prospects but expect short-term volatility to weigh until the situation stabilises.

While Alfen provided a dynamic sales outlook for the medium term on its Capital Markets Day, the company's shares retreated as medium-term EBITDA margin targets were not revised upwards and remained between the 15-20% range. This can be explained by the change in the mix of the group's activities, with less growth from higher-margin EV (electric vehicle) charging and higher growth from the lower margin EV storage business.

Shares of Keywords Studios fell on concerns over the potential impact from AI based capabilities on its business model and the broader video gaming industry. The company acknowledges the potential of AI to transform the industry but sees many opportunities coming from it. Tech has long been a key feature of Keyword's business and it already deploys AI successfully for a while.

In the first half of the year, we added to Alfen and Moncler on weakness and continued to build our position in VAT. We built a new position in ASM International, a market leader in deposition technology for semiconductors, Dechra Pharmaceuticals, a niche player in the animal health market, Abcam, a leading supplier of antibodies and protein research for life scientists, and Novo Nordisk, a market leader in diabetes care.

The portfolio exited its position in GN Store Nord following the company's announcement that it was targeting a significant capital increase. We took profits in Spotify, DSV and TKH after the strong rebound in their share prices. SalMar and Zalando were also reduced due to lower visibility.

The market is likely to continue to be dominated for the foreseeable future by inflation and interest rate prospects. While inflation is coming down, it is still not clear at what level it will settle, and hence at what level central bankers will deem it appropriate to set interest rates. From a fundamental earnings standpoint, we believe the portfolio companies are well positioned to prosper whichever the scenario. For the most part, these companies have no or low debt meaning they are less affected by the cost of financing. They also enjoy high gross margins and strong pricing power, which will help protect them from inflationary cost pressures. While headline inflation is easing (thanks to falling raw material and energy prices), core inflation has remained stubbornly high. Despite lacklustre economic growth and elevated cost pressures, your portfolio is expected to grow its earnings by double digits both this year and next, reflecting on the one hand the idiosyncratic nature of the portfolio's growth and, on the other, the ability of our portfolio companies to push through inflationary price increases, without impacting margins. In other words, quality and growth.

Among the top performers to performance were Dechra and SimCorp which rose sharply during the period as both companies received takeover bids recommended by their respective Boards. Nemetschek's shares also performed strongly, supported by better-than-expected Q1'23 results. Following the good start to the year, the company reiterated its FY'23 guidance and its ambitions to deliver double-digit sales growth in 2024 and at least mid-teens sales growth in FY'25, as well as the return of an EBITDA margin higher than 30% in 2024.

Among the detractors from performance, Alfen provided a dynamic sales outlook for the medium-term at its Capital Markets Day. However, the company's shares retreated as medium-term EBITDA margin targets were not revised upwards, remaining between the 15-20% range as the mix of the group's activities evolves with less growth from higher margin electric vehicle (EV) charging and higher growth from the lower margin EV storage business.

The company acknowledges the potential of AI to transform the industry but also sees many opportunities coming from it; tech has long been a key feature of Keywords' business and it has already successfully deployed AI for a while.

Genus' share price weakened after the company released a trading update announcing the downgrade of its FY'23 (June year-end) expectations due to its Chinese business being weaker than expected compared to when Genus reported strong H1'23 results in February. The Chinese recovery has been pushed out by a couple of months with experts expecting the market to recover in the summer.

During the period under review, we added to Carl Zeiss and Icon on weakness, and we continued to build our position in VAT and Rational. We built new positions in SOL SpA, an Italian family-owned industrial gases company with high exposure to medical gases and homecare services, and Abcam, a leading supplier of antibodies and protein research for life scientists.

The portfolio exited its position in GN Store Nord following the company's announcement that it was targeting a significant capital increase. We reduced Edenred, Jeronimo Martins, Dechra and SimCorp after the strong performance in their share prices.

The market is likely to continue to be dominated for the foreseeable future by inflation and interest rate prospects. While inflation is coming down, it is still not clear at what level it will settle, and hence at what level central bankers will deem it appropriate to set interest rates. After a tough 2022, the MSCI Europe ex Switzerland 100% Hedged to CHF index rebounded in the first half of 2023. Your portfolio, having fallen more than the index in 2022, has outperformed so far this year. Inflation and interest rates continue to dominate the narrative, with easing inflationary pressures leading to a more optimistic than expected path for interest rates. This supported equity markets in general, and your portfolio even more so given the long-term and hence more interest rate-sensitive nature of the earnings streams of the companies that constitute it. The economic outlook has also improved, albeit from a low base, with the European Commission now expecting the European Union GDP to grow 1% this year. The consumer has proved surprisingly resilient despite a material squeeze on household budgets. That is not to say the horizon is cloud free. While headline inflation is easing (thanks to falling raw material and energy prices), core inflation has remained stubbornly high. Despite the backdrop of lacklustre economic growth and elevated cost pressures, your portfolio is expected to grow its earnings by double digits both this year and next. This reflects on the one hand the idiosyncratic nature of the portfolio's growth, such as obesity for Novo Nordisk, and on the other the ability of our portfolio companies to push through inflationary price increases, without impacting margins. In other words, quality and growth.

In the first quarter of 2023 the portfolio delivered double-digit organic sales growth, continuing its above-trend trajectory and supported by inflationary price increases. ASML reported strong first quarter sales and reiterated its full-year guidance for more than 25% sales growth, despite being in the midst of a semiconductor downturn. ASML's shares have recovered strongly this year, supported by excitement around Artificial Intelligence (AI). In our view there is good reason to be optimistic as AI will only accelerate the need for enhanced compute power, which ultimately will require chips manufactured using ASML's machines. LVMH reported another quarter of stellar organic revenue growth driven by continued strong momentum in the Louis Vuitton and Dior brands. A combination of price increases, improved mix and the reopening of China also helped. In the healthcare space, Novo Nordisk started the year strongly delivering +25% constant currency growth in the first quarter and materially upgrading full-year guidance from +13-19% constant currency revenue growth to +24-30%. The company is struggling to keep up with demand for its blockbuster anti-obesity product Wegovy and we continue to see substantial long-term potential for the product, not least because the secondary effects of obesity are a costly priority for healthcare systems.

Carl Zeiss Meditec, a new position from the turn of the year, reduced its full-year guidance as a result of production bottlenecks in its manufacturing facilities. Here too, we expect the problem to be short-lived.

During the first half of the year we added to Carl Zeiss on weakness and sold the position in GN Store Nord. We built a new position in RELX, a company we first added to our investment universe in 2019. The company's organic growth profile has steadily improved in recent years as the company has successfully developed and monetised its data analytic capabilities across each of its divisions. In addition, the strong cash flow generation of the company allows it to supplement the organic growth with bolt on acquisitions and buybacks. We took advantage of a share price dip to build the position.

The market is likely to continue to be dominated for the foreseeable future by inflation and interest rate prospects. While inflation is coming down, it is still not clear at what level it will settle, and hence at what level central bankers will deem it appropriate to set interest rates. From a fundamental earnings standpoint, we believe the portfolio companies are well positioned to prosper whichever the scenario. Commentary

The MSCI AC Asia index rose 6.6% in USD (+4.3% in EUR) in H1'23 but there was a wide divergence across the regional markets, with Taiwan and Japan both rising double-digits whilst China fell 5.4% in USD terms.

Japanese equities have come into focus again with the market at multi-decade highs, partly because of governance change but mainly because the market has been ignored for so long and offers an unparalleled combination of growth and value, in our view. The strong sectors within Japan, as illustrated by the MSCI Value index, have been financials and commodities, reflecting global themes whose application to Japan is not obvious. We believe that the real Japan story - that of great companies trading at discounts to global peers - has not been revealed. This year saw the start of a reversion to growth stocks, but in fact we calculate that nearly half of the MSCI Japan Growth index's performance was explained by only 7% of stocks. This is a similar narrowness of performance to the S&P 500 index but could well announce a broader rediscovery of growth.

Meanwhile, the market swung from excitement over China's reopening to disappointment that the reopening was not stronger and faster. Retail sales in the country are improving and the consumer is rebounding, although not as quickly as some had hoped but nevertheless undoubtedly so, with retail sales up 18% and 13% in April and May respectively. Perhaps the market is right in its assumption that Chinese consumption is weak. Structurally the market should return to growth, but the debate is to what extent and how quickly this will be achieved.

Excitement in global markets has led to enthusiasm for markets most exposed to global trade such as Korea and Taiwan which rose strongly over the six-month period. The most excited portion of the market has been anything even peripherally related to Artificial Intelligence (AI) and the server market, which includes some large parts of the Taiwanese technology hardware sector.

Elsewhere, the elections in Thailand had a very positive outcome for democracy and free markets, with the incumbent military government losing the election despite having stacked the odds in their favour with the political structure. However, at the time of writing, the winner of the elections has still not been able to form a government, six weeks after the results. Thai politics remain complicated.

Lastly of note, the relative winner of investor malaise with China seems to remain India which registered a positive market performance over the six-month period. Chinese equities on the other hand were relatively weak; the two markets seem to be counter-cyclical to each other. Fundamentally recent government interactions between Washington and Delhi suggests improving relations. The markets took this positively.

During the period we met with a number of our Japanese names including Keyence which assured us that its sales productivity outside Japan is catching up with Japan; in other words, its penetration of its addressable markets is proceeding very well. Keyence also informed us that 20% of revenue typically is sustained by new products, a helpful indicator of its ability to maintain its growth rate. In addition, Keyence queried us about Science-Based Targets reporting for its supply chain, which is quite an evolution in the company's thinking. Meanwhile, Kosé confirmed to us the recovery we had been hoping for in its drugstore channel, while reiterating the strength of its premium brands Albion and Decorté, buoyed by consistent and successful product launches and the success of its US brand Tarte. During our meeting with Z Holdings the company explained that it is confident in its roughly 10% EBITDA growth guidance for this fiscal year as the many leading internet assets under its umbrella, especially Yahoo! Japan, LINE and PayPay, are able to share customer lists and address a wider range of users with targeted services. Lastly, we met Daifuku which anticipates its semiconductor wafer handling business inflecting within the coming months and sees significant market share gain potential in logistics equipment outside Japan.

In China, NetEase was strong over the month. The company continues to have strong success with its game releases, the most recent being Racing Master which launched in mid-June to significant early success, particularly in the Chinese iOS market. The game launch pipeline remains strong and diverse, however it is obviously hard to predict precisely how much success each game will have until it is released. Conversely, shares in Ping An were weak despite regulatory monthly filings indicating the recovery in insurance demand is continuing to improve month by month, in line with management's guidance. The shares however did not react to the incremental news flow in the period.

In the first half of the year we built a position in the Korean group LG Chem, one of the world's leaders in the production of batteries for electrical vehicles that is favoured by Western OEMs (original equipment manufacturer). We also used market sentiment to further accumulate some long-term holdings of the portfolio. One such example is Inner Mongolia Yili (China's leading consumer dairy company) which we believe should benefit from the recovery in China's local consumption. We sold Pigeon due to disappointing earnings and outlook.

Japan's opportunity is in its globally leading companies, which capture the growth of Asia, the normalisation of the world economy, as well as the changes of Japan itself. Regarding normalisation, as Covid restrictions eased completely from May, people are flocking back to the real economy to savour their favourite activities: shopping, eating out and travelling. International tourists are returning. Your portfolio is invested in several normalisation plays. We believe that these businesses' profitability should be boosted by a revival in consumer spending and international tourism.

In Asia and Japan, where governments did not provide the same level of stimulus as Western governments did post pandemic, we have not seen 'revenge spend' as we did in more developed markets. We believe the market is being overly short-term in focusing on near-term noise when it comes to China, which should recover albeit at a slower pace than the market anticipated at the start of 2023.

We continue to stick to the Comgest philosophy and buy the best businesses we can find, preferably at the most interesting prices, and allow their structural drivers and long-term growth opportunities to drive the share prices in the longer term.

Commentary

The MSCI AC Asia ex Japan index declined 1.3% in USD (-1.7% in EUR) in the second quarter of 2023. This followed the mild moves of the first quarter and left the region up just a mere 3.0% in USD (+0.8% in EUR) year to date. This performance is clearly in stark contrast to the returns registered by global, US and Japanese equity markets which rose strongly over the first six months of the year.

The aggregate data understates the underlying divergences, with the market swinging from excitement over China's reopening to disappointment that the reopening was not stronger and faster. There has been plenty written by the press and the sell side on the precise make-up of the Chinese consumer rebound. The long story short is that retail sales are improving and the consumer is rebounding, although not as quickly as some had hoped but nevertheless undoubtedly so, with retail sales up 18% and 13% in April and May respectively. Perhaps the market is right in its assumption that Chinese consumption is weak, however we will reserve judgement at this time. Structurally the market should return to growth, but the debate is to what extent and how quickly this will be achieved. The result is that the MSCI China index declined -9.7% in USD (-10.1% in EUR) in the second quarter leading to a negative performance year to date. This strikes us as illogical given that valuations were already fairly depressed at the start of the year.

Meanwhile, excitement in global markets has led to enthusiasm for markets most exposed to global trade such as Korea and Taiwan which rose strongly over the six-month period. The most excited portion of the market has been anything even peripherally related to Artificial Intelligence (AI) and the server market, which includes some large parts of the Taiwanese technology hardware sector.

The elections in Thailand had a very positive outcome for democracy and free markets, with the incumbent military government losing the election despite having stacked the odds in their favour with the political structure. However, at the time of writing, the winner of the elections has still not been able to form a government, six weeks after the results. Thai politics remain complicated.

Lastly of note, the relative winner of investor malaise with China seems to remain India which registered a positive market performance over the six-month period. Chinese equities on the other hand were relatively weak; the two markets seem to be counter-cyclical to each other. Fundamentally recent government interactions between Washington and Delhi suggests improving relations. The markets took this positively.

No new positions were added to the portfolio over the period under review, however we have been steadily accumulating some holdings opportunistically. It seems like a good time to dive into some of these names as they become more material to the portfolio.

In our Q1'23 report we touched upon our small but growing exposure to Tokai Carbon Korea (TCK). Over the second quarter we further reinforced our position, bringing it to a circa 2% weighting. As TCK is a relatively small company today our position size is somewhat constrained, but equally we believe this is precisely the sort of company that we want to own for the long term. TCK is the dominant (over 80% market share) provider of silicon carbide rings used in the more advanced NAND manufacturing processes. As the number of layers in NAND memory chips increases, the need for more resilient materials increases, thus benefitting TCK. Unlike some tech companies which may see a short-term earnings boost from "AI-related tech demand," we see the long-term solid state memory market as a structural winner and TCK as a clear value added leader in the sector.

Equally, while the market may be overly focused on the precise level of rebound in Chinese consumption (as touched upon above), we see Shenzhen Mindray as a structural winner of the Chinese population's demand for more and improved healthcare systems. Mindray is the leading patient monitoring equipment player in China (amongst other products). Structurally its products are in strong demand and should continue to be, irrespectively of month-by-month retail sales noise. The company was delisted offshore and relisted in China in late 2018. However, as is often the way, once the excitement of a new listing has lessened, the valuations have returned to levels that we believe can justify a position increase.

Not all portfolio increases were newer names. We also used market sentiment to accumulate some of the portfolio's long-term holdings on price weakness but solid fundamental performance. Examples include TSMC (the global semiconductor logic manufacturer), Inner Mongolia Yili (China's leading consumer dairy company) and Mobile World (a leading Vietnamese retail operator).

We exited TravelSky in Q1'23 and sold the last of our positions in NCsoft and Samsonite in Q2'23. In the case of TravelSky and Samsonite, we found that the market was simply too excited about how quickly travel demand will accelerate. Clearly post Covid-19 there is demand for holidays and travel, but in both cases we found that the expectations implied in the market and reflected in valuations were excessive. NCsoft is more complex and we were invested in the company for many years. NCsoft has been an excellent operator of online role-playing games in Korea. However, the Korean market is maturing and while the company is having some success in Japan and Taiwan, overall we are disappointed in the scale and scope of NCsoft's international expansion. With disappointing recent beta testing results on its latest game offering, we decided to exit the last of our position in the second quarter of the year.

Coming back to the starting point of this update, our base case assumption is that the consumption has not fundamentally shifted in the emerging markets of Asia for the portfolio that is focused on China, Vietnam and India. We believe the market is being overly short-term in focusing on near-term noise. When we look across emerging market consumers as the economy picks up, we have significant sympathy that their first course of action is not to buy a new car in the first month. Simple human nature leads to a consumer less willing and less able to 'revenge spend' than we see in more developed markets. Therefore, as frustrating as it is to see our portfolio still trading in line with market valuations despite higher returns, stronger growth, lower leverage and (we believe) stronger business models, less exposed to interest rate movements, we will continue to stick to the Comgest philosophy and buy the best businesses we can find, preferably at the most interesting prices, and allow their structural drivers and long-term growth opportunities to drive the share prices in the longer term.

Commentary

The MSCI AC Asia Pacific ex Japan index declined 1.0% in USD (-1.5% in EUR) in the second quarter of 2023. This followed the mild moves of the first quarter and left the region up just a mere 3.0% in USD (+0.8% in EUR) year to date. This performance is clearly in stark contrast to the returns registered by global, US and Japanese equity markets which rose strongly over the first six months of the year.

The aggregate data understates the underlying divergences, with the market swinging from excitement over China's reopening to disappointment that the reopening was not stronger and faster. There has been plenty written by the press and the sell side on the precise make-up of the Chinese consumer rebound. The long story short is that retail sales are improving and the consumer is rebounding, although not as quickly as some had hoped but nevertheless undoubtedly so, with retail sales up 18% and 13% in April and May respectively. Perhaps the market is right in its assumption that Chinese consumption is weak, however we will reserve judgement at this time. Structurally the market should return to growth, but the debate is to what extent and how quickly this will be achieved. The result is that the MSCI China index declined -9.7% in USD (-10.1% in EUR) in the second quarter leading to a negative performance year to date. This strikes us as illogical given that valuations were already fairly depressed at the start of the year.

Meanwhile, excitement in global markets has led to enthusiasm for markets most exposed to global trade such as Korea and Taiwan which rose strongly over the six-month period. The most excited portion of the market has been anything even peripherally related to Artificial Intelligence (AI) and the server market, which includes some large parts of the Taiwanese technology hardware sector.

Commentary

China started the year by finally giving up its zero-Covid measures and reopening the country. Soon after the announcement, the Comgest team met with companies in various cities and found that production and offline services sectors had resumed smoothly within the first few weeks. China's death ratio remained low while the impact of the second Covid-19 wave was also limited. However, the country's consumption recovery has been slow and weak as government stimulus policies remain largely absent. Your portfolio outperformed the MSCI China index which fell 5.5% in USD (-7.5% in EUR) in the first half of the year.

A weak property sector has had a direct impact on the overall economy. Sales of new homes were weak, however as the government pushed property developers to meet their delivery commitments, housing completion had a better recovery. Given the importance of the property sector in China, more discipline in capital management and pre-sale activities should improve overall economic growth and the credit situation in China, despite causing some short-term pain.

There have been some small improvements in geopolitical communications. After China reopened, direct communication and visits with the US improved, with American entrepreneurs such as Elon Musk and Bill Gates carrying out visits in the country. US government official Antony Blinken's Beijing trip also yielded positive results. As time goes by, there is rising conviction suggesting that China does not support Russia in the war, nor plans to start a war with Taiwan.

A positive highlight for H1'23 is the return of domestic travel to pre-Covid levels. International travel meanwhile is still recovering as visa applications and flight capacity take longer to normalise.

From a sector standpoint, consumer discretionary and consumer staples contributed positively to portfolio performance. The portfolio's lack of exposure to real estate and materials were small positive attributors to performance. Health care was the main detractor, along with financials and energy. Historically we have had little to no exposure to Chinese real estate, materials, energy or banking as strong franchises are difficult to find in these sectors.

Top portfolio contributors during the period included NetEase, Li Auto and Vipshop. NetEase reported robust gaming revenue growth thanks to its strong set of self-developed games compensating for the loss of Blizzard games. The company's gaming gross margin reached a seven-year record, and we believe that this long-held friend can grow its product expansion and have promising potential in overseas markets. Li Auto enjoyed the tailwind from strong electric vehicle (EV) demand growth. Total EV sales increased by 47% in the first five months of 2023. Despite China being in the early days of EV adoption, Li Auto has demonstrated its quality execution in model launches and cost control which underpin a more favourable volume and margin outlook. Lastly, Vipshop benefits from its unique exposure to inventory build-up and destocking cycles during this consumption trade down period. Furthermore, the business was little impacted by the intensified competition in e-commerce from livestreaming platforms.

Detractors from performance in H1'23 included Man Wah, Shandong Weigao and Wuxi Biologics. Man Wah reported slower-than-expected growth in the half year, as a drop in domestic revenue makes sense given the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic. European furniture sales actually grew, whilst North America was temporarily weak as result of recent management changes that will be rectified. We met with the company's founder in person and believe Man Wah's margin should continue to improve. Cashflow is strong and working capital is well managed. Shandong Weigao experienced a derating as its orthopaedics division was slightly weaker during the period. We attended the company's investor day at its headquarters in Weihai. We continue to like Weigao's exposure to clinical nursing which has steady growth with average selling price (ASP) uplift in years to come. Wuxi Biologics was weak on geopolitical concerns and diminishing biotech funding which drives long-term research demand. We met with the company's chairman and key management team at its investor day and are not concerned by the company's low-teens revenue growth in the first half and slower growth in new projects signed. Management has retained its 30% revenue guidance for the full year, as a strong backlog should be able to help defend the firm's growth target.

We used the recent market weakness as an opportunity to buy strong franchises. New names include Inovance, the number one servo and third largest AC drive maker in China offering promising exposure to industrial automation, solar, electric vehicles and industrial robots. CATL (Contemporary Amperex Technology Co.) is a dominant EV and storage battery manufacturer in China and overseas. H World is the largest hotel group showing strong hotel management capabilities. Meanwhile, Shenzhou International is a strong OEM (original equipment manufacturer) supplier to leading global sports brands including Nike and Adidas.

Portfolio holdings Centre Testing, Li Auto, Man Wah, Wuxi AppTech, Wuxi Biologics and Xinyi Solar were increased, whilst Samsonite, NetEase, Midea, Ping An Insurance and Vipshop were reduced.

Short-term macro weakness is disappointing. However, the country continues to steer its growth engine towards domestic consumption and innovation which should pave the way for better quality long-term growth. Inflation will remain low in 2023 and 2024, differentiating China from other major developed markets. It is hard to forecast when more meaningful pro-growth measures will be implemented, however we believe that China does not need a 'big bang' stimulus package - like 2009 - given that the quality of GDP growth is more important than speed.

With that said, a small 10bps rate cut was made in June. The Chinese Prime Minister Mr. Li Qiang also recently hosted a State Council executive meeting and plans to take measures to promote household consumption. Possible pro-growth measures include fiscal support via further rate cuts, property policy easing via mortgage rate cuts or second home downpayment ratios, as well as additional subsidies to support consumption. One example includes the government's announcement in June that EV purchase tax will be exempt for purchases in 2024-25 and will be halved (5%) in 2026-27. The path to pro-growth and innovation is clear.

As the market focuses on short-term weakness, Chinese equities continue to trade at low valuations. Looking at the long term, China appears to be underrepresented in global capital markets when compared to its presence in global GDP share or trade share. The current low valuations give investors good opportunities to position within some promising businesses.

We are introducing a few strong franchises with solid innovation to the portfolio, such as automation, electric vehicles and supply chain, solar power and health care. We are also seeing several interesting consumer and semiconductor names coming to our investment universe and portfolio when prices are attractive.

Commentary

A sharp rally in Indian equities over the past few months led the Sensex benchmark to an all-time high at the end of June. Your portfolio kept pace, outperforming its reference benchmark, the MSCI India index, in H1'23.

Indian market fundamentals appear to remain strong with robust macro data. GDP growth surprised positively in the March 2023 quarter, at 6.1% versus market expectations of closer to 5%. Consensus estimates do not expect 6%+ GDP growth in FY'24 (year ending March). Headline CPI inflation slowed to 4.3% in May (its lowest level in 25 months) while core inflation moderated to 5.1% (its lowest level since July 2020). This led the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to pause rate hikes in its April policy meeting. India's external account also surprised positively, with current account deficit of 0.2% of GDP in 4QFY'23 compared to 2% for the full year FY'23.

The government remains investment focused with its FY'24 budget forecasting a 15% year-on-year increase in adjusted government capex spending, while the fiscal deficit is to be decreased by 0.5% of GDP to 5.9%. There were no populist measures despite this being the last budget ahead of the upcoming national elections in 2024.

The recent meeting between the US President and Indian Prime Minister was also positive, with significant agreements signed in the fields of defense, technology, and business. Meanwhile, Micron Technology announced plans to build a $2.7bn semiconductor testing and packaging unit in India thereby adding to government efforts to boost manufacturing in the country.

The first half of 2023 has been encouraging for the portfolio with the majority of sectors contributing positively to performance. Financials and consumer discretionary were among the largest contributors while industrials, communication services and information technology lagged.

A few financial services stocks, which had not performed well previously, finally contributed with REC Ltd and Shriram Finance among the portfolio's top contributors to performance in H1'23. Both stocks are inexpensive and continue to deliver good earnings growth. Furthermore, REC Ltd benefits as the government allows it to invest in infrastructure-related projects along with its earlier mandate of investing in power sector projects. Shriram performed well over the past month as private equity investors sold their remaining stake, thereby lifting the supply overhang.

Varun Beverages, the bottler for Pepsi in India, continued its stellar performance and was among the top five portfolio contributors in the first half of the year. The company has reported strong results and seen consistent earnings upgrades. Varun recently received the Bottler of the Year award from Pepsi, raising the possibility of additional territory awards to the company.

Infosys' performance was weak in H1'23 as the company faces slowdown from its key clients in the US. While we continue to monitor the company's performance, we are comfortable with its longer-term quality and growth characteristics and remain a holder of the stock.

PVR, India's largest multiplex operator, continues to remain weak as a lack of good content has impacted the company's earnings while valuations have also come down. We continue to believe that as new content is released in H2'23, the performance of the company should turn around.

Cipla, a generic pharmaceutical company in India, underperformed due to adverse observations made by the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) which could impact its exports to the country. While this is a short-term negative, and we have accordingly adjusted our position, we believe that the management could take corrective action which should return the company to its growth trajectory.

New positions initiated in the first half of 2023 included JB Chemicals, VIP Industries and Axis Bank. JB Chemicals, a manufacturer of pharmaceuticals and chemicals products, has seen its domestic business expand along with increased utilisation for contract manufacturing and steady growth in exports which should result in high-teens growth for the company. VIP Industries, a luggage manufacturer in India, is launching new products and working to improve its online presence which we believe should lead to strong growth going forward. Lastly, we expect Axis Bank's valuations to catch up with other private bank stocks, with consistent performance on asset quality and growth in coming quarters.

SBI Life Insurance and UltraTech were increased over the period. We believe SBI Life should exhibit consistent growth on the back of improving penetration of life insurance products. We believe UltraTech should benefit from a recovery in the residential real estate market and infrastructure spending in the country.

The portfolio's position in Max Financial Services (a life insurance company) was sold as we switched to SBI Life, whilst Larsen & Toubro was exited due to ESG concerns. Housing Development Finance Corporation was reduced for risk management reasons in light of the pending merger with portfolio holding HDFC Bank. Shriram Finance was also reduced following strong performance.

The Indian economy has navigated the volatility of the last four years well. The government has kept its strong focus on improving the business climate in the country through business-friendly policies, investments in infrastructure and targeted incentives. Geopolitics are also supportive with India benefitting from the diversification of supply chains. Going forward, an increase in capex by the private sector and an improvement in sentiment towards residential real estate could be two key factors which may lead to multi-year earnings growth for the market.

Another factor to watch would be the fight against inflation by the Indian and global central banks. Inflation in India seems to be under control and the RBI has paused its rate hikes. This bodes well for the cyclical part of the economy and especially for the portfolio's investments in financials. Risks here could come more from external factors such as a sudden jump in crude oil prices or events such as El Niño impacting agricultural production in India.

Lastly, India will have various state elections over the next 12 months followed by a general election in the summer of 2024, in which current opinion polls signal for the re-election of Prime Minister Modi. A continuity of the government could be another positive for the market.

Valuations of Indian equities are not cheap, however they are backed by consensus expectations of strong earnings growth for the next two years. Our strategy remains bottom up and focused on picking what we consider to be high quality companies with robust earnings growth and reasonable valuations.

Commentary

The MSCI Emerging Markets Latin America index registered strong Q2'23 and H1'23 performance, up 14.0% and 18.5% in USD terms respectively and outperforming both the MSCI Emerging Markets and MSCI AC World indices over the same period.

Mexico has been benefitting from the China/geopolitical related changes in supply chains, with nearshoring becoming an important long-term positive, attracting foreign direct investment in the country (up from a run rate of $1-1.5bn/month in 2022 to $3-4bn/month year-to-date). This, together with a strong real yield, has helped the currency and should in time lead to a higher growth prospect.

In Brazil, despite initial market concerns, political developments during the first six months of the year have overall been positive. A new fiscal framework bill was approved by the Lower House and is now being discussed by Senate. Brazilian inflation has been consistently below expectations, bringing forward the timeline for monetary easing and the extent of rate cuts. This is boosting GDP estimates for 2023 and 2024. Consequently, Brazilian markets have rallied since the end of April, driven predominantly by domestic cyclical names.

Chile, where we are underweight relative to the index, is still in a technical recession due to a hangover from the massive fiscal stimulus implemented during the Covid-19 pandemic. However, weaker economic activity in the country is supporting a quick disinflation which should pave the way for interest rate cuts. There were also positive political developments including the appointment of a more market friendly committee who will prepare a new constitution draft.

Despite a small underperformance in Q2'23, your portfolio's performance remains meaningfully above its reference index over H1'23 driven largely by strong selection in both Brazil and Mexico. From an allocation perspective, our underweight to both Chile and Colombia was positive to relative performance.

Throughout H1'23, we have been repositioning the portfolio. We cut some of our more defensive stocks which had been notable outperformers in 2022 and Q1'23 (BBSE, WEG). We also took advantage of exaggerated negative market sentiment and depressed valuation towards Brazilian domestic cyclical franchises to add solid, high growth, and back then highly discounted franchises (Localiza, Arezzo, Mills and reintroduce Dexco). This repositioning has been made while maintaining the quality and long-term growth potential of the portfolio.

The majority of the top five performance contributors in Q2'23 were positions with a large weighting (above 4.5%). Notable names include B3, the Brazilian stock exchange, Localiza, a leading Brazilian car rental company and Raia Drogasil, a leading Brazilian drugstore company.

The improved sentiment in Brazil and the anticipation of lower interest rates have boosted average daily trading volumes. Indeed, volumes have increased from their R$25bn April lows to R$27bn in May and around R$30bn in June. Portfolio holding B3 has benefitted from volume growth and the reallocation of investors to equities.

Localiza has been gaining market share recently as it benefits from a weakening competitive environment, with no room to grow for Movida due to high leverage and Oroverde as it digests a relatively large acquisition. We believe Localiza remains attractively valued, at 17x 2024-PER while the company should be growing its EPS in the high teens over the next few years.

Raia Drogasil is operationally in a good place and is gaining market share from struggling competition. The company, being a 'long-duration' stock, has re-rated in anticipation of lower interest rates.

Within the Q2'23 detractors, we find Mercado Libre and WEG. Both stocks displayed strong performance in Q1'23 and we took some profits during the period. They remain top 10 positions in the portfolio as we are confident in their franchise quality and on the short and long-term growth potential. Embraer was another detractor in Q2. After a strong rally in Q1'23 (we also booked profits then), the market was disappointed by the low number of commercial aviation orders during the Paris Air Show in June. However, we are not worried as the backlog order for commercial aviation is full for the next few years and Embraer has an excellent long-term outlook for executive aviation, defense and eVTOL. There is also a clear path for profitability increase and cash flow generation improvement while valuation remains, despite strong year-to-date performance, attractive as it trades at 6x EV/EBITDA for 2024.

New positions introduced to the portfolio in Q2'23 include Dexco and SMU. Dexco is the Brazilian market leader in wood panels, sanitary ware, bathroom fixtures and ceramic tiles. The stock used to be in the portfolio up until Q4'21. The stock has performed poorly since then, but the franchise remains strong, having delivered robust results and returns through business cycles. SMU is one of the largest food retailers in Chile. After years of successful turnaround with a focus on efficiency, SMU has more recently embarked on a growth journey, with a focus on its soft discount format. We believe the company can grow EPS in the high teens while giving back an attractive 9% dividend yield.

In Mexico, while the easing cycle should start in Q4'23, investors seem to be more focused on the June 2024 general elections (President, Lower Chamber, Senate and a few local authorities). The electoral process is starting in September with the announcement of some of the candidates. As of today, polls suggest that the ruling party coalition is the preferred party considering the rather weak opposition, which means there is little reason not to expect policy continuity and potentially lower asset-price volatility.

In Brazil, the focus will continue to be on monetary policy and the timing and scope of the easing cycle – most market participants expect a 25bps to 50bps cut starting from August 2023. There is also an ongoing tax reform being discussed currently in the Senate which is aimed at simplifying and adding efficiency to the tax payment process for companies (a highly complex, inefficient and time-consuming process today) which, in time, should lead to a structurally higher economic growth.

In Chile, all eyes will be on the national referendum for the constitution, scheduled for December 17th, and on the extent of the upcoming easing cycle. Chile is the country which should have the highest number of rate cuts in the next 18 months.

Amid a dynamic and evolving macroeconomic context, we remain focused on identifying the best franchises within the region. Our long-term focus allows us to be patient when it comes to price and valuation, and to be contrarian when the market is overly focused on near-term noise. We continuously attempt to populate the portfolio with companies that have strong and widening competitive advantages as well as solid and durable growth prospects whilst constantly revaluating positions and sizing based on a combination of quality, growth and valuation levels.

2. Principal Accounting Policies*Basis of Accounting

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRS”) as adopted by the International Accounting Standards Board (“IASB”) and interpretations issued by the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee of the IASB and adopted by the European Union.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with IFRS requires management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions which affect the application of policies and the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, income and expense. The estimates and associated assumptions are based on historical experience and various other factors which are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances, the results of which form the basis of making the judgements about carrying values of assets and liabilities which are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates. The accounting policies have been applied consistently by the Company and are consistent with those used in the previous financial period.

The financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention as modified by the revaluation of financial assets and financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss.

Net Asset Value

The Net Asset Value of a Fund and the Net Asset Value per Share of each class in each Fund are calculated on each Dealing Day by ascertaining the value of the assets of the Fund attributed to the class on such Dealing Day and deducting from such value the liabilities of the Fund attributed to the class on such Dealing Day.

Redeemable Participating Shares

All redeemable shares issued by the Company provide the investors with the right to require redemption for cash at the value proportionate to the investor’s share in the Company’s net assets at the redemption date. In accordance with IAS 32 such instruments give rise to a financial liability for the present value of the redemption amount.

Investment Income

Income received arising on fixed income securities and liquidity investments is recognised as a component of the net gains on financial assets and liabilities held for trading. Dividends are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Income is shown gross of withholding tax.

Other Income

Other income includes miscellaneous items such as tax refunds or amounts paid into the Company in compensation.

Operating Expenses

The Company pays out of the assets of each Fund all normal operating expenses including Depositary fees, Administration fees, Investment Manager fees, Directors’ fees, NAV publication and circulation fees, secondment fees, audit and other professional fees, stamp duties and charges incurred on the acquisition and realisation of investments. Such costs are expensed in the period to which they relate.

All expenses, including management fees, are recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income on an accrual basis.

Offsetting Financial Instruments

Financial assets and liabilities can be offset and the net amount reported in the Statement of Financial Position when there is a legally enforceable right to offset the recognised amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis or realise the asset and settle the liability simultaneously.

Transaction fees

Transaction fees include fees and commissions paid to agents, advisers, brokers and dealers, levies by regulatory agencies and security exchanges, and transfer taxes and duties. Transaction fees do not include debt premiums or discounts, financing costs or internal administrative or holding costs. Transaction fees relate to the purchase and sale of investments.

No research costs are applied to the Funds.

Financial Assets and Liabilities at Fair Value through Profit or Loss(i) Classification*

Prior to the adoption of IFRS 9, under the guidance of IAS 39 – Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement (“IAS 39”), the Company classified its investment in securities as financial assets and liabilities at fair value through profit or loss: held for trading, in accordance with IAS 39. Financial assets and liabilities held for trading include equities, investment funds and exchange traded funds, forwards and futures which are acquired principally for the purpose of generating a profit from short term fluctuations in price.

Pursuant to the provisions of IFRS 9 the Company classifies its investments based on both the Company's business model for managing those financial assets and the contractual cash flow characteristics of the financial assets. The portfolio of financial assets is managed and performance is evaluated on a fair value basis. The Company is primarily focused on fair value information and uses that information to assess the assets' performance and to make decisions.

All equity instruments and derivatives are measured at fair value through profit or loss unless, for equity instruments not held for trading, an irrevocable option is taken to measure at fair value through other comprehensive income. The Company has not taken the option to irrevocably designate any equity securities as fair value through other comprehensive income.

2. Principal Accounting Policies (continued)Financial Assets and Liabilities at Fair Value through Profit or Loss (continued)(ii) Initial Measurement

Purchases and sales of financial instruments are accounted for at trade date. Realised gains and losses on disposals of financial instruments are calculated using the average cost method.

Financial instruments categorised at fair value through profit or loss are measured initially at fair value with transaction costs for such instruments being recognised directly in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

(iii) Subsequent Measurement

After initial measurement, the Company measures financial instruments, which are classified as at fair value through profit or loss at their fair values. Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The fair value of financial instruments traded in active markets is based on their quoted market prices on a recognised exchange or sourced from a reputable broker/counterparty in the case of non-exchange-traded instruments, at the financial period end, without any deduction for estimated future selling costs. The Funds invested in other Collective Investment Schemes and Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities managed by the Investment Manager or an associated company are displayed in note 16. The fair value of these securities is based on the Net Asset Values as supplied by the administrators of these funds.

If a quoted market price is not available on a recognised stock exchange or from a broker/counterparty, the fair value of the financial instruments may be estimated by a competent person using valuation techniques, including the use of recent arm's length market transactions, reference to the current fair value of another instrument that is substantially the same, discounted cash flow techniques, option pricing models or any other valuation technique that provides a reliable estimate of prices obtained in actual market transactions.

Comgest Growth Emerging Markets, Comgest Growth Emerging Markets Plus and Comgest Growth Emerging Markets ex China continue to have exposure to Russian securities which cannot be liquidated until trading restrictions are lifted.

During the period ended 30 June 2022, the competent person made estimations in relation to the valuation of the Russian securities. Upon consideration of the competent person recommendations, the Board approved same. The value of the Russian securities has been adjusted to "nil" and this valuation will remain in place until such time as trading of the securities for foreign investors resumes, and a price can be defined by the market. Prior to reducing the value of these positions to "nil", the average exposure of those Funds to Russian securities was between 0.5% and 4.5%. Unrealised losses on valuation were recorded in the Statement of Comprehensive Income for June 2022. There were no changes to those valuations in the period to 30 June 2023 (or indeed in the six months period to 31 December 2022). The securities continue to be classified as level 3 as at June 2023.

There were no competent person estimations on valuations during the period ended 30 June 2023.

Forward Foreign Exchange Contracts

The fair value of open forward foreign exchange contracts is calculated as the difference between the contracted rate and the current forward rate that would close out the contract on the valuation date for a forward foreign exchange contract or the spot rate for an FX spot contract. For each relevant Fund, gains or losses on open forward foreign exchange contracts and foreign exchange swap contracts are included in unrealised gain/(loss) on forward foreign exchange contracts in the Statement of Financial Position and are shown in Note 6.

Futures Contracts

A futures contract is an agreement between two parties to buy or sell a financial instrument for a set price on a future date. Initial margin deposits are made in cash upon entering into futures contracts. During the financial period the futures contract is open, changes in the value of the contracts are recognised as unrealised gains or losses by "marking to-market" on a daily basis to reflect the market value of the contract at the end of each day's trading. Variation margin payments are made or received, depending on whether unrealised losses or gains are incurred. When the contract is closed or expires, the Company records a realised gain or loss equal to the difference between the proceeds from (or cost of) the closing transaction and the Company's basis in the contract.

Swing Pricing

The Prospectus provides the Company with the flexibility to engage in swing pricing for all of its Funds.

Swing pricing operates in a manner that ensures that when, on any particular Dealing Day, the net dealing position exceeds a certain threshold (the "Swing Threshold"), the Company will have the discretion to adjust the price for the relevant Fund's Shares on that day so as to include a provision for the relevant costs incurred when buying or selling portfolio assets in order to satisfy or give effect to the dealing requests received. In this way, on any Dealing Day on which such an adjustment is applied (the "Swing Adjustment"), investors dealing in a Fund's Shares on that day, rather than the Fund itself (i.e. not the then existing or continuing Shareholders of that Fund), will bear the costs incurred.

The Swing Adjustment is a percentage factor determined by the Company from time to time at its sole discretion. The Swing Adjustment, where applied to a Fund, shall at no time exceed 0.5% of the relevant Net Asset Value per Share.

Where a Fund is in a net subscription position on any particular Dealing Day (i.e. where total purchases of the Fund's Shares exceeds total redemptions) and that net position exceeds a certain threshold determined by the Company at its discretion, the Net Asset Value per Share may be increased by an appropriate percentage factor (not exceeding 0.5% of the Net Asset Value per Share) to account for duties and charges and spreads. Investors subscribing and/or redeeming Shares of a Class in the Fund on that particular Dealing Day will deal at this single price.

Where the Fund is in a net redemption position on a particular Dealing Day (i.e. where total redemptions of the Fund's Shares exceeds total subscriptions), and that net position exceeds a certain threshold determined by the Company at its discretion, the Net Asset Value per Share may be decreased by an appropriate percentage factor (not exceeding 0.5% of the Net Asset Value per Share) to account for duties, charges and spreads. Investors subscribing and/or redeeming Shares of a Class in the Fund on that particular Dealing Day will deal at this single price.

As at 30 June 2023, there were no Net Asset Value adjustments for swing pricing.

New Standards, Amendments and Interpretations effective from 1 January 2023

There were no new standards, amendments to standards or interpretations effective from 1 January 2023 that have a material impact on the financial statements.

3. Taxation

Under current law and practice the Company qualifies as an investment undertaking as defined under Section 739B of the Taxes Consolidations Act, 1997, as amended. On that basis it is not chargeable to Irish tax on its income or gains.

However, Irish tax may arise on the happening of a “chargeable event”. A chargeable event includes any distribution payments to Shareholders or any encashment, redemption, cancellation or transfer of shares.

No Irish tax will arise on the Company in respect of chargeable events in respect of:

- a) A Shareholder who is neither Irish resident nor ordinarily resident in Ireland for tax purposes, at the time of the chargeable event, provided appropriate valid declarations in accordance with the provisions of the Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997, as amended, are held by the Company; and
- b) Certain exempted Irish tax resident Shareholders who have provided the Company with the necessary signed statutory declarations.

Dividends, interest and capital gains (if any) received on investments made by the Company may be subject to withholding taxes imposed by the country from which the investment income/gains are received and such taxes may not be recoverable by the Company or its Shareholders. Gains on disposal of equities held by the Company may be subject to capital gains taxes imposed by the country in which such capital gains originated. The amount of capital gains tax realised and accrued during the current and comparative financial period have been noted in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

IFRIC 23 Uncertainty over Income Tax Treatments (IFRIC 23 or the Interpretation) addresses how to reflect uncertainty in the recognition and measurement of income taxes. The impact of the standard has been assessed and disclosed on the Statement of Financial Position.

4. Share Capital

On incorporation the authorised share capital of the Company was €40,000 divided into 40,000 Subscriber Shares of a par value of €1.00 each and 500,000,000,000 shares of no par value initially designated as unclassified shares. The unclassified shares are available for issue as Redeemable Participating Shares. Save as set out in the Prospectus, all shares shall rank pari passu.

a) Subscriber Shares

In order to provide for the minimum share capital on incorporation required under Irish law, Comgest Far East Limited subscribed for 39,993 Subscriber Shares for cash at par paid up in full and a further seven Subscriber Shares have been issued fully paid up in cash at par to nominees. No further Subscriber Shares will be issued. The Subscriber Shares held by Comgest Far East Limited were subsequently repurchased by the Company at the repurchase price of €1.00 per Subscriber Share.

The Company’s Subscriber Shares are classified as equity in accordance with the Company’s Articles. These shares do not participate in the profits of the Company.

In the event of a winding up or dissolution of the Company, Subscriber Shares shall be entitled, (after payment to holders of the Redeemable Participating Shares of a sum equal to the Net Asset Value of the Redeemable Participating Shares as at the date of commencement to wind up), to payment in respect of nominal amount paid up thereon out of the assets of the Company, but shall not be entitled to any further or other amount.

b) Redeemable Participating Shares

The holders of Redeemable Participating Shares shall be entitled to:

- (i) One vote per Redeemable Participating Share,
- (ii) Such dividends that the Directors may from time to time declare, and
- (iii) In the event of a winding up or dissolution of the Company, in priority to the holders of the Subscriber Shares, firstly an amount equal to the Net Asset Value of the Participating Shares of each class or series held at the date of winding up and, after payment to the holders of the Subscriber Shares of the nominal amount paid up thereon, to participate in surplus assets of the Company (if any).

The derivative instruments that the Company may normally hold are forward foreign exchange contracts, warrants (received through corporate actions) and futures.

The Company records its FDI activities on a mark-to-market basis. Fair values are determined by using quoted market prices.

Comgest Growth Global Flex is also permitted to utilise exchange-traded volatility index futures. While the objective in using such futures is to hedge the market risk arising from the equity positions in the Core Portfolio, there can be no guarantee that this objective will always be met.

Forward foreign exchange contracts entered into by the Company represent a firm commitment to buy or sell an underlying asset, or currency at a specified value and point in time based upon an agreed or contracted quantity. The realised/unrealised gain or loss is equal to the difference between the values of the contract at settlement date/period end date and is included in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

The global exposure of each Fund is calculated as the total of the absolute values of a Fund's net position exposures, assessed using the Commitment Approach, and global exposure is covered with either cash or liquid assets.

The Company takes account of netting and hedging arrangements when calculating global exposure, where these arrangements do not disregard obvious and material risks and result in a clear reduction in risk exposure.

The Company applies the Commitment Approach to all FDI, including embedded FDI, whether used as part of a Fund's general investment policy, for the purposes of risk reduction or for the purposes of efficient portfolio management.

Limits: The global exposure of a Fund arising from the use of FDIs, including embedded FDI, will, at all times, be limited to 100% of the Net Asset Value of the Fund.

Monitoring: The Company calculates the global exposure of each Fund on at least a daily basis, as the incremental exposure and leverage generated by a Fund through the use of FDI, including embedded FDI, may not exceed the total of the Fund's NAV.

Investment Guidelines and Investment Processes (continued)

This intensive work leads to the creation of the Investment Manager's investment universe, comprising a restricted list of rigorously selected quality growth stocks. A unanimous decision of the investment team must be reached in order to include a company in the investment universe. Subject to significant changes in the business environment, changes in management or wholesale changes in the business strategy of the company, once a company enters the investment universe it tends to stay there for quite some time and stays in a portfolio for typically 3-5 years.

The Sub-Investment Managers are free to select companies from the investment universe for inclusion in the portfolios, weighting the companies within the portfolio based on the relative attractiveness of each company and their personal judgement.

Typically, there are 25-50 stocks held in the portfolios which the Investment Manager believes achieves appropriate diversification and reduction of overall risk of the portfolio. Depending on the risks associated with the target markets of the Funds, the Investment Manager may maintain a more or less diversified portfolio.

The intensive research, in-depth knowledge of the companies and long-term focus of the Funds naturally result in portfolios with relatively high concentrations and a low turnover. The Investment Manager sells companies for which there are concerns or for which the valuation is too high. Cash holdings may increase significantly in periods of market uncertainty and/or in periods of obvious market overvaluation.

The Company's assets and liabilities comprise of financial instruments which include:

- Cash liquid resources and short-term debtors and creditors that arise directly from its investment activities.
- Investments including equities, depository receipts, market access products (such as P-Notes) and FDI (for hedging purposes only). These are held in accordance with the Company's investment objectives and policies. The objectives of each of the Funds are summarised below.

1. Market Risk

● Price Risk

Price Risk arises mainly from uncertainty about future prices of securities (e.g. equities) and financial instruments held. It represents the potential loss the Company might suffer through holding market positions in the face of price movements.

The Company trades in financial instruments, taking positions in traded instruments to create a professionally managed portfolio consisting of high-quality long-term growth companies. However, the Company's equity securities remain susceptible to equity price risk arising from fluctuations in their fair value due to changes in market prices.

The positions in securities held by the Funds at the financial period end are disclosed in the Schedule of Investments along with details of the geographic breakdown of investments indicating which countries the Funds' portfolios are exposed. However, exposure may not be limited to these countries if, for example, companies in a portfolio have part of their earnings based in other countries.

The tables below provide a risk sensitivity analysis of the impact of equity price movements on each of the Funds of the Company. This information is given only in conformity with the requirements of IFRS 7 Financial Instruments: Disclosures and is not intended to represent any kind of forecasting as to the performance of any Fund of the Company. Neither the Directors nor the Investment Manager, by virtue of providing this information for compliance purposes with IFRS 7 Financial Instruments: Disclosures, should be regarded as in any way forecasting the future performance of any of the Funds.

As at 30 June 2023, a 5% increase or decrease in the market prices of the underlying instruments would have increased or decreased the net assets attributable to holders of redeemable shares by the amounts shown below, on the basis that all other variables remained constant.

7. Risk Associated with Financial Instruments (continued)1. Market Risk (continued)• Currency Risk

The income and capital value of a Fund's investments can be affected by fluctuations in currency exchange rates.

Depending on an investor's currency of reference, currency fluctuations may adversely affect the value of an investment.

Where a Fund has a share class in a currency different to the base currency of the Fund, the value of shares expressed in the class currency are subject to exchange rate risk in relation to the base currency and may be affected favourably or unfavourably by fluctuations in the currency rates.

Where a Fund invests in securities and other investments that are denominated in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund, the value of the Fund's assets may be affected favourably or unfavourably by fluctuations in currency rates and, therefore, the Fund will be subject to exchange rate risks at the portfolio level.

The Company may employ strategies aimed at hedging against currency risk at the portfolio level or at the share class level; however, there can be no assurance that such hedging transactions will be effective. The Company was not engaged in any currency hedging at the financial period end other than the forward/swap contracts entered into as detailed in Note 6.

The Company may use over-the-counter forward currency exchange contracts to hedge against the share class level exchange rate risk. Forward currency exchange contracts normally have a maturity of 3 months or less. Forward currency exchange contracts oblige a Fund to buy or sell the relevant currency at a specified quantity and on a specified future date. Foreign exchange swaps ("swap contracts") may be used for the purposes of rolling maturing forward currency exchange contracts. A swap contract is a simultaneous purchase and sale of identical amounts of one currency for another with two different value dates and is composed of a forward currency exchange contract and an FX spot. The fix spot contract which forms part of the swap contract has a settlement date typically not longer than two trading days from the trade date, while forward currency exchange contract has a maturity of 3 months or less. Any increases or decreases in the foreign-currency assets being hedged are then partially offset by gains and losses on the economic hedging instruments. The economic risk of any such share class hedging is borne by the share class in respect of which the hedging is undertaken. For the financial period ended 30 June 2023, all sub-funds had open forward and/or spot contracts as detailed in Note 6. As per the wording under the liquidity risk section, Forward currency exchange contracts and foreign exchange swap contracts are used to hedge currency risk for Comgest Growth Global Flex, Comgest Growth America, Comgest Growth Japan, Comgest Growth Europe, Comgest Growth Europe Opportunities, Comgest Growth Europe ex Switzerland, and Comgest Growth Europe ex UK. All other sub-funds have long dated spot contracts.

The Company had no currency exposure at portfolio level in respect of Comgest Growth America, Comgest Growth Japan and Comgest Growth Japan Compounds as the currency of the assets and the base currency are the same.

The tables below detail investments (excluding derivatives) in non-base currencies and how a percentage impact on these exchange rates would impact the Net Asset Value of the Funds. The impact is evaluated on the basis of a (+/-) 5%, 10%, 20% and 40% price movement.

This information is given only in conformity with the requirements of IFRS 7 Financial Instruments: Disclosures and is not intended to represent any kind of forecasting as to the performance of any Fund of the Company. Neither the Directors nor the Investment Manager, by virtue of providing this information for compliance purposes with IFRS 7 Financial Instruments: Disclosures, should be regarded as in any way forecasting the future performance of any of the Funds.

• Interest Rate Risk

The Company's Funds hold cash and may occasionally hold bonds or money market instruments. Global macro-economic conditions may subject the Company's cash held with institutions to negligible or indeed, even negative interest rates. These interest rates may vary based on jurisdiction and currency. Cash as a percentage of NAV on average is very low and, therefore, the interest rate risk in relation to cash holdings is not regarded as a material risk.

2. Liquidity Risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that an entity will encounter difficulty in realising assets or otherwise raising funds to meet commitments associated with financial instruments. Generally, the Company's assets are composed of actively traded, listed and liquid securities and are considered to be readily realisable as they are actively traded on major stock exchanges. The Company's Prospectus provides for the daily creation and cancellation of shares and the Company is, therefore, exposed to the liquidity risk of meeting Shareholder redemptions at any time. The liquidity risks associated with the need to satisfy Shareholders' requests for redemptions are also mitigated by maintaining a level of cash to satisfy the usual level of demand. Additionally, the Funds have the ability to borrow in the short term to meet these obligations if necessary. All redemption requests during the financial periods ended 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022 were met in accordance with the time limits set out in the Prospectus.

If total requests for redemption on any Dealing Day for any Fund exceed 10% of the total number of shares in that Fund outstanding, each redemption request in respect of shares in such Fund may, in their sole discretion the Directors acting in good faith believe it shall be necessary or desirable in order not to prejudice the interests of the Shareholders not requesting redemption or on grounds of liquidity or other like reason, be reduced "pro rata" so that the total number of shares of each Fund for redemption on that Dealing Day shall not exceed 10% of the shares in issue in the Fund. Any redemption request so reduced shall be effected in priority to subsequent redemption requests on the following Dealing Day, subject always to the foregoing provisions.

Certain Funds make use of Market Access Products. Market Access Products such as Participatory Notes ("P-Notes") are financial instruments that may be used by a Fund to obtain exposure to an equity investment in a local market where direct ownership is not allowed, is restricted or is more costly. Investment in Market Access Products may involve an over-the-counter transaction with a third party. Market Access Products generally are issued by banks or broker dealers and are designed to replicate the performance of a particular underlying equity security. Consequently, although the underlying equity may be actively traded, the Market Access Products themselves may have terms restricting their transferability resulting in a limited secondary market, if any. Market Access Products are generally sold back to the bank or broker dealer issuer of the Market Access Product. As the Investment Manager only contracts with a diversified group of highly rated or recognised banks or dealers in their sectors and as the underlying equity security to a Market Access Product is listed and actively traded, the Investment Manager regards this liquidity risk as low.

The Company avoids entering into derivative contractual arrangements that produce an exposure not covered by sufficient liquid assets or a total investment exposure in excess of Shareholders' funds. The risk management process adopted by the Company requires coverage to be composed of cash reserves or liquid securities.

There is a limited use of FDI in Comgest Growth Global Flex, Comgest Growth America, Comgest Growth Japan, Comgest Growth Europe, Comgest Growth Europe Opportunities, Comgest Growth Europe ex Switzerland, and Comgest Growth Europe ex UK, and, consequently, there is no material liquidity risk arising in the Funds from their use of these FDI. Forward currency exchange contracts and foreign exchange swap contracts are used to hedge currency risk for Comgest Growth Global Flex, Comgest Growth America, Comgest Growth Japan, Comgest Growth Europe, Comgest Growth Europe Opportunities, Comgest Growth Europe ex Switzerland, and Comgest Growth Europe ex UK. The settlement date of forward currency exchange contracts is either 1 month or 3 months from the trade date which limits counterparty credit risk as well as the mark to market impact of changing interest rate differentials on the forward rate. Due to the currencies involved and the relatively low portion sizes of these contracts, the level of liquidity risk is low in relation to this type of derivative. The FX spot contract which forms part of the foreign exchange swap contract, has a settlement date typically not longer than two trading days from the trade date, while the foreign currency exchange contract has a settlement date either 1 month or 3 months from the trade date. Comgest Growth Global Flex seeks to hedge part of its equity market risk exposure through the use of exchange-traded equity index futures. Comgest Growth Global Flex is also permitted to utilise exchange-traded volatility index futures. The settlement date of these futures contracts is a maximum of 3 months which limits the counterparty credit risk. Due to the nature of the future contracts held, the level of liquidity risk is low. With the exception of Comgest Growth Global Flex, Comgest Growth America, Comgest Growth Japan, Comgest Growth Europe, Comgest Growth Europe Opportunities, Comgest Growth Europe ex Switzerland, and Comgest Growth Europe ex UK, there were no other Funds using/employing FDIs for efficient portfolio management purposes as at 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022.

3. Credit Risk

Credit risk is the risk that an issuer or counterparty will be unable to meet a commitment that it has entered into with the Fund. The Investment Manager enters into transactions pertaining to financial instruments with a diversity of creditworthy counterparties. Therefore, the Company does not expect to incur material credit losses on its financial instruments.

The Funds are exposed to credit risk in relation to Market Access Products and FDI where these are held.

With regard to cash held by the Depository this constitutes a deposit. In choosing and appointing a sub-custodian as a safe keeping agent the Depository exercises care and diligence to ensure that the sub-custodian has and maintains the expertise, competence and standing appropriate to discharge the responsibilities concerned. These criteria are monitored by the Depository on an ongoing basis.

In order to manage the credit risk with regard to cash balances additional deposit accounts have been opened with appropriate institutions to diversify risk and the Credit Risk Manager of the Investment Manager continues to look at additional institutions.

The Funds' maximum exposure to credit risk (not taking into account the value of any collateral or other security held) in the event that counterparties fail to perform their obligations as of 30 June 2023 in relation to each class of recognised financial assets, other than derivatives, is the carrying amount of those assets as indicated in the Statement of Financial Position.

Market Access Products are financial instruments that may be used by a Fund to obtain exposure to an equity investment in a local market where direct ownership is not allowed, is restricted or is more costly. Investment in Market Access Products may involve an over-the-counter transaction with a third party. Consequently, investing in Market Access Products may expose a Fund not only to movements in the value of the underlying equity but also to the risk of counterparty default, which may in the event of counterparty default, result in the loss of the full market value of the economic interest in the underlying equity. Market Access Products generally are issued by banks or broker dealers and are designed to replicate the performance of a particular underlying equity security. The return on a Market Access Product that is linked to a particular underlying security generally is increased to the extent of any dividends paid in connection with the underlying security. However, typically the holder of a Market Access Product does not receive voting rights as it would if it directly owned the underlying security.

With respect to FDIs, credit risk arises from the potential failure of counterparties to meet their obligations under the contract or arrangement.

It is the Company's intention at this time to limit the use of FDIs to forward currency exchange contracts, foreign exchange swap contracts, warrants (corporate action), convertible bonds, exchange-traded equity index futures and exchange-traded volatility index futures. A Fund may from time to time hold a small number of valueless warrants normally granted by the issuer through corporate actions as a result of the Fund holding shares of the issuer. Funds may also invest in convertible bonds but they have not invested in any convertible bonds as at 30 June 2023 (2022: Nil). The Company maintains a risk management process to monitor and manage the risks associated with the use of FDIs.

Other than the FDIs noted above, the Company did not use any complex FDIs, such as credit default swaps during the periods ended 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022.

A Fund's maximum credit risk exposure for forward currency exchange contracts and foreign exchange swap contracts is the full amount of the foreign currency the Fund will be required to pay or purchase when settling the forward currency exchange contracts and the foreign exchange swap contracts, should the counterparties not pay the currency they are committed to deliver to the Fund. Credit risk may be reduced by the receipt of collateral from the counterparty.

As noted on page 194, Comgest Growth Global Flex seeks to hedge part of its equity market risk exposure through the use of exchange-traded equity index futures. Comgest Growth Global Flex is also permitted to utilise exchange-traded volatility index futures. All futures are cleared by Société Générale International Limited ("SGIL").

Cash held with SGIL is monitored on a daily basis to assess if funding is required to meet a margin call or a pre-funding requirement. Furthermore, cash balances are monitored daily to assess if excess cash at SGIL can be called back to the Depositary. "Cash held as collateral" at SGIL includes margin excess of €725,619 in Comgest Growth Global Flex (2022: €1,554,884) and initial margin requirements of €725,619 in Comgest Growth Global Flex (2022: €1,554,884). "Due to broker" includes margin deficit of €725,619 in Comgest Growth Global Flex (2022: €1,554,884). As margin excess was greater than margin deficit as at 30 June 2023 there was excess cash of €Nil in Comgest Growth Global Flex (2022: €Nil) held on deposit at SGIL.

SGIL does not have a credit rating. It is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority ("FCA") in the UK as an investment firm and is categorised as a Limited Activity Firm, a status which prohibits proprietary activity (other than for facilitation of client orders). SGIL is subject to the FCA's Client Assets regime. SGIL is a wholly owned UK subsidiary of Société Générale SA since 29 October 2015. As at 30 June 2023 its parent company, Société Générale SA had a credit rating of A1, A- and A with Moody's, Fitch and S&P respectively.

The Investment Manager's approved counterparties for trading are limited to highly rated or recognised dealers in their sectors. The Investment Manager contracts with multiple counterparties with the aim of risk spreading. The Investment Manager's risk manager performs ongoing monitoring of the counterparties. In particular, all over-the-counter counterparties must meet the following criteria as set out in the UCITS Regulations, namely:

- (i) a credit institution in accordance with the UCITS Regulations; or
- (ii) have a minimum credit rating of A-2 (S&P short term credit rating) or equivalent or, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, an implied minimum credit rating of A-2 or equivalent.

Exposures to individual counterparties are limited to 10% of net asset value in the case of (i) above and 5% of net asset value in the case of (ii) above.

Comgest Growth Global Flex is subject to Master Netting Agreements and Credit Support Annexes. ## 7. Risk Associated with Financial Instruments (continued)

4. Counterparty Risk to the Depositary and Sub-Custodian Risk

The Company is exposed to the credit risk of the Depositary as counterparty where cash is held by the Depositary. In the event of the insolvency of the Depositary, the Company will be treated as a general creditor of the Depositary in relation to cash holdings of the Funds. The Funds' securities are however maintained by the Depositary or its sub-custodians in segregated accounts and should be protected in the event of insolvency of the Depositary or its sub-custodians. Were such counterparties to have financial difficulties, even if a Fund is able to recover all of its capital intact, its trading could be materially disrupted in the interim, potentially resulting in material losses.

The Depositary shall be liable to the Company and its shareholders for the loss by the Depositary or a sub-custodian of financial instruments held in custody. In the case of such a loss, the Depositary is required, pursuant to the UCITS Regulations, to return a financial instrument of an identical type or the corresponding amount to the Company without undue delay. This standard of liability only applies to assets capable of being registered or held in a securities account in the name of the Depositary or a sub-custodian and assets capable of being physically delivered to the Depositary.

The Depositary shall also be liable to the Company and its shareholders for all other losses suffered by the Company and/or its shareholders as a result of the Depositary's negligent or intentional failure to fully fulfil its obligations pursuant to the UCITS Regulations. In the absence of the Depositary's negligent or intentional failure to properly fulfil its obligations pursuant to the UCITS Regulations, the Depositary may not be liable to the Company or its shareholders for the loss of an asset of a Fund which is not capable of being registered or held in a securities account in the name of the Depositary or a sub-custodian or being physically delivered to the Depositary.

The liability of the Depositary is not affected by the fact that it has entrusted the custody of the Company's assets to a third party. In the event that custody is delegated to local entities that are not subject to effective prudential regulation, including minimum capital requirements, and supervision in the jurisdiction concerned, prior shareholder notice will be provided advising of the risks involved in such delegation. As noted above, in the absence of the Depositary's negligent or intentional failure to properly fulfil its obligations pursuant to the UCITS Regulations, the Depositary may not be liable to the Company or its shareholders for the loss of an asset of a Fund which is not capable of being registered or held in a securities account in the name of the Depositary or a sub-custodian or being physically delivered to the Depositary.

Accordingly, while the liability of the Depositary is not affected by the fact that it has entrusted the custody of the Company's assets to a third party, in markets where custodial and/or settlement systems may not be fully developed, a Fund may be exposed to sub-custodial risk in respect of the loss of such assets in circumstances whereby the Depositary will have no liability.

5. Fair Value Hierarchy

IFRS 7, Financial Instruments: Disclosures establishes a fair value hierarchy classifying Fair Value measurements that reflect the significance of the inputs used in making the measurement. The fair value hierarchy is categorised into three levels based on the inputs as follows:

Level 1 - Valuations based on quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities (level 1);

Level 2 - Valuations based on quoted prices in markets that are not active or other than quoted prices included within level 1 that are observable, either directly (as prices) or indirectly (derived from prices) (level 2); and

Level 3 - Valuations based on inputs that are unobservable and significant to the overall fair value measurement.

Inputs are used in applying the various valuation techniques and broadly refer to the assumptions that market participants use to make valuation decisions, including assumptions about risk. Inputs may include price information, volatility statistics, specific and broad credit data, liquidity statistics, and other factors. A financial instrument's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input that is significant to the fair value measurement.

Observable inputs are those that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability based on market data obtained from sources independent of the Company's management. Unobservable inputs reflect the Company's management's assumptions, made in good faith, about the inputs market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability based on the best information available in the circumstances. However, the determination of what constitutes "observable" requires significant judgment by the Company's management. The Company's management considers observable data to be that market data which is readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable and verifiable, not proprietary, and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market. The categorisation of a financial instrument within the hierarchy is based upon the pricing transparency of the instrument and does not necessarily correspond to the Company's management's perceived risk of that instrument.

Fair value is a market-based measure considered from the perspective of a market participant rather than an entity-specific measure. Therefore, even when market assumptions are not readily available, the Company's management's own assumptions are set to reflect those that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability at the measurement date. Company management uses prices and inputs that are current as of the measurement date, including in periods of market dislocation. In periods of market dislocation, the observability of prices and inputs may be reduced for many securities. This condition could cause a security to be reclassified to a lower level within the fair value hierarchy. The Funds classify their investment in underlying funds based on the ability to redeem at the NAV supplied by the underlying fund's administrator and considerations for any restrictions on liquidity imposed by the underlying funds.

The following table presents information about the inputs used to value the Company's assets and liabilities measured at fair value as of 30 June 2023:

Valuation Techniques

When fair values of listed equity and debt securities at the reporting date are based on quoted market prices or binding dealer price quotations, without any deduction for transaction costs, the instruments are included within level 1 of the hierarchy. When the Company has assets and liabilities with offsetting market risks, it uses mid-market prices as a basis for establishing fair values for the off-setting risk positions and applies the bid or offer price to the net open position as appropriate.

As noted on page 186, the valuation of the Russian securities held by Comgest Growth Emerging Markets, Comgest Growth Emerging Markets Plus and Comgest Growth Emerging Markets ex China have been classified as Level 3.

There have been no transfers between Level 1 and Level 2 during the financial periods ended 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022.

Assets and liabilities not carried at Fair Value

Cash at Bank is classified as Level 1 and all other assets and liabilities not carried at fair value are classified as Level 2 for all the Funds of the Company.

Such transactions must be in the best interests of the Shareholders. In addition to those transactions, there are also transactions carried out by connected persons on behalf of the Company to which the Directors have no direct access and in respect of which the Directors must rely upon assurances from its delegates that the connected persons carrying out those transactions do carry them out on a similar basis.

Shareholders should have regard to the governance structure of the Company as more particularly described in the Corporate Governance Statement section of the Directors' Report included in the Annual Report and Audited Financial Statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2022 and the roles and responsibilities of the Company's respective delegates subject to the overall supervision of the Board.

Further, Shareholders should refer to the Prospectus which identifies many of the connected party transactions and the general nature of the contractual arrangements with the principal connected persons but it is not exhaustive of all connected party transactions.

Note: Past performance is no indication of current or future performance. The performance data above does not take into account commissions and costs incurred on the redemption of units. The performance data is based upon the published dealing Net Asset Values per unit, in the currency that is attributable to that class.

Comgest Asset Management International Limited (the "Investment Manager") does not use benchmarks when analysing portfolio returns on a Fund. The Investment Manager's investment policy in the portfolio construction is meant to be flexible and the choice of stocks is independent of any benchmark. A strong bias towards absolute performance has priority. Securities are purchased based on their intrinsic quality and merit, with the largest positions reflecting the best combination of growth, risk and valuation.

Cybersecurity Risk

With the increased use of technologies such as the Internet and the dependence on computer systems to perform business and operational functions, investment companies (such as the Company) and their service providers (including the Investment Manager, Administrator and Depositary) may be prone to operational and information security risks resulting from cyber-attacks and/or technological malfunctions. In general, cyber-attacks are deliberate, but unintentional events may have similar effects.

Cyber-attacks include, among others, gaining unauthorised access to digital systems for the purposes of misappropriating assets or sensitive information, stealing or corrupting data maintained online or digitally, preventing legitimate users from accessing information or services on a website, releasing confidential information without authorisation and causing operational disruption or various other forms of cyber security breaches. Successful cyber-attacks against, or security breakdowns of, the Company or the Company's third party service providers including, but not limited to the Investment Manager, a Sub-Investment Manager, the Depositary, the Administrator or other affiliated or third-party service providers (each a "Service Provider" and collectively the "Service Providers"), may adversely affect the Company or its Shareholders.

For instance, cyber-attacks may interfere with the processing of Shareholder transactions, affect the Company's ability to calculate the Net Asset Value of one or more Funds, cause the release of private Shareholder information or confidential information relating to the Company or any one or more Funds, impede trading, cause reputational damage, cause disruptions and impact business operations, potentially resulting in financial losses, cause violations of applicable data protection and other laws, and subject the Company to regulatory fines, penalties or financial losses, reimbursement or other compensation costs, and additional compliance costs. Cyber-attacks may render records of assets and transactions of a Fund, Shareholder ownership of Shares, and other data integral to the functioning of the Company inaccessible, inaccurate or incomplete.

The Company may also incur substantial costs for cyber security risk management in order to prevent cyber incidents in the future. While each Service Provider has established business continuity plans and systems designed to minimise the risk of cyber-attacks through the use of technology, processes and controls, there are inherent limitations in such plans and systems, including the possibility that certain risks have not been identified given the evolving nature of the threat of cyber-attacks.

The Company relies on its third-party Service Providers for many of its day-to-day operations and will be subject to the risk that the protections and protocols implemented by those Service Providers will be ineffective to protect the Company from cyber-attack. Similar types of cyber security risks also are present for issuers of securities in which each Fund invests and for the markets and exchanges on which those securities may be listed or traded which could result in material adverse consequences for such issuers, markets and exchanges and which may cause a Fund's investment in such securities to lose value. The Company cannot control the cyber security plans and systems put in place by issuers in which a Fund invests or by such markets and exchanges.

CRS Data Protection Information Notice

The Company hereby provides the following data protection information notice to all Shareholders in the Company either as at 31 December 2015 or at any point of time since this date.

For the avoidance of doubt, this notice applies equally to any Shareholders that have ceased to hold shares in the Company since January 1, 2016. Furthermore, it should be noted that this notice may be applicable to Controlling Persons of certain Shareholders.

The Company hereby confirms that it intends to take such steps as may be required to satisfy any obligations imposed by (i) the OECD's Standard for Automatic Exchange of Financial Account Information in Tax Matters ("the Standard"), which therein contains the Common Reporting Standard ("CRS"), as applied in Ireland by means of the relevant international legal framework and Irish tax legislation and (ii) EU Council Directive 2014/107/EU, amending Directive 2011/16/EU as regards mandatory automatic exchange information in the field of taxation ("DAC2"), as applied in Ireland by means of the relevant Irish tax legislation, so as to ensure compliance or deemed compliance (as the case may be) with the Standard/CRS and the DAC2 from 1 January 2016.

In this regard, the Company is obliged under Section 891F and Section 891G of the Irish Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997 (as amended) and regulations made pursuant to those sections to collect certain information about each Shareholder's tax arrangements (and also collect information in relation to relevant Controlling Persons of specific Shareholders).

In certain circumstances, the Company may be legally obliged to share this information and other financial information with respect to a Shareholder's interests in the Company with the Irish Revenue Commissioners (and, in particular situations, also share information in relation to relevant Controlling Persons of specific Shareholders). In turn, and to the extent the account has been identified as a Reportable Account, the Irish Revenue Commissioners will exchange this information with the country of residence of the Reportable Person(s) in respect of that Reportable Account.

In particular, information that may be reported in respect of a Shareholder (and relevant Controlling Persons, if applicable) includes name, address, date of birth, place of birth, account number, account balance or value at year end (or, if the account was closed during such year, the balance or value at the date of closure of the account), any payments (including redemption and dividend/interest payments) made with respect to the account during the calendar year, tax residency(ies) and tax identification number(s).
