For the six month period ended 30 June 2023

Barings Global Senior Secured Bond Fund*

Performance

Barings Global Senior Secured Bond Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 5.59% on the Tranche G USD Distribution and over performed against the performance comparator with a return of 5.26% during the reporting period. The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 4.88% on the Tranche G USD Distribution.

The Global High Yield Bond Market generated a positive total return over the first half of 2023 driven by tightening credit spreads, overcoming headwinds generated by rising government yields by the U.S. Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England. The period was marked by significant market volatility – a strong rally in credit spreads to start the year gave way to fears of a potential global banking crisis in mid-March stemming from stress within US regional banks, including the failure of Silicon Valley Bank and Signature Bank as well as the emergency takeover of Credit Suisse by UBS. As markets stabilized in the aftermath of the concerns over the US regional banking sector, continued labor market strength and solid macroeconomic prints drove an improved risk appetite. Persistent, although moderating, inflation across developed markets led to more hawkish tones from central banks in Europe and the U.S., with markets revising rates forecasts to reflect expectations of higher rates for a longer period of time.

During the six-month period ending June 2023, the Sub-Fund over performed its index. Credit selection within the double-B rated segment of the market along was modestly offset by security selection in B-rated bonds. Regionally, security selection in Europe was additive to relative performance. An overweight position and security selection in Technology & Electronics and security selection within Energy were leading contributors to Sub-Fund's over performance on a sector level, while our significant underweight in Banking adversely impacted relative performance.

The Sub-Fund over performed its performance comparator year-to-date. Since its inception in January 2011, the Sub-Fund has over performed its performance comparator.

Market & Outlook

With inflation remaining stickier than expected, a deteriorating earnings outlook, and a likely recession on the cards, there are indeed a number of risks to watch for going forward and we don't believe that now is the time to take on excessive risk to earn higher returns. However, the potential downturn is unlikely to have as negative an impact on the high yield market as some anticipate, especially since, from a starting position of relative strength, many issuers have responded to the weaker growth outlook by adopting more creditor-friendly actions.

In addition, from a macro standpoint, consumer savings and government spending could potentially help make any recession relatively manageable. This supportive backdrop, combined with the attractive level of yields, suggest that fixed income looks compelling today. However, a credit-intensive approach is crucial to both avoiding additional downside and identifying issuers that can withstand the challenges ahead.

Performance

Barings European High Yield Bond Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 5.21% on the Tranche S EUR Accumulation and over performed against the performance comparator with a return of 4.40%* during the reporting period. The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 5.04% on the Tranche S EUR Accumulation.

The European High Yield Bond Market remained very resilient during the first half of 2023, withstanding the uptick in market volatility caused by the negotiations over the U.S. debt ceiling, and fears of a Global Banking crisis around mid-March with the collapse of US lender Silicon Valley Bank and the near collapse of Credit Suisse and the impact from higher government bond yields as both the ECB and BOE rose rates in June, given persistent high levels of inflation. The European high yield bond market delivered positive returns during period primarily by tighter spreads which more than offset the impact from higher government bond yields. From a rating perspective, all rating buckets delivered positive returns during the quarter; single-B rated bonds over performed the most, followed by double-Bs and triple-C bonds that were the most impacted by the spike in market volatility during the month of May. Returns were positive across all sectors, except for Real Estate. New issuance activity picked up during the second quarter of 2023 driven mostly by refinancing activity. The market saw a total of €27.0 billion of new deals priced, with Q2 representing the highest quarterly tally since the fourth quarter 2021.

During the six-month period ending June 2023, the Sub-Fund over performed its index. Security selection was the primary driver of over performance over the period, with positive contributions from selection across credit rating. Security selection in Basic Industry and Technology & Electronics were leading contributors to Sub-Fund's over performance on a sector level, as was the Sub-Fund's material underweight to the Real Estate sector. Security selection in Leisure and Services modestly detracted from relative performance.

The Sub-Fund over performed its performance comparator year-to-date. Since its inception in May 2011, the Sub-Fund has over performed its performance comparator.

Performance

Barings Emerging Markets Corporate Bond Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 0.94% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation and underperformed against the performance comparator with a return of 3.64%* during the reporting period. The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 0.72% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation.

Emerging Markets started 2023 strongly, primarily as a result of the reopening of the Chinese economy in the first quarter. However, this faded as the first quarter progressed on the back of the volatility in the developed market banking sector in early March, ongoing concerns regarding recession risk, potentially impacting demand for commodities and concerns that inflation would be higher for longer. However this reversed in second quarter as worries about spreads widening and defaults spiking took somewhat of a backseat. The spread narrowing that took place to levels prevailing just before the Russia-Ukraine war was buoyed by market expectations of China stimulus in light of the faltering recovery, resolved debt-ceiling dramas, as well as expectations that the Fed was close to peak rates after a hold decision in June and a more goldilocks scenario could unfold; resulting in the first half of 2023 ending positively.

Historical performance is no indicator of current or future performance. The performance data does not take into account of any commissions and costs charged when subscribing and redeeming shares.

The Sub-Fund underperformed its performance comparator year-to-date. Since its inception in April 2014, the Sub-Fund has underperformed its performance comparator.

Market & Outlook

The fundamental backdrop for EM corporates remains largely positive. With the majority of corporate balance sheets staying overall healthy, the low corporate default environment is persisting. In addition, there have been strong anecdotal indications that private credit is stepping in and disintermediating banks in cases where public markets would not be accommodating this is playing a large role in staving off defaults. In particular, the default rate for EM corporates is 2.4% YTD, and we expect default rates for this year to be closer to historic low to mid-single digit levels given the default cycle experienced over the last 2-3 years driven by change in the policy support initiatives in China, then followed by Russia's war in Ukraine and more recently continued by the tightening liquidity conditions in Brazil.

The technical picture also could be characterised as supportive, with 2024 EM corporate maturities remaining manageable with approximately $307bn due in 2024, of which just $60bn or 20% is rated HY and another $28bn or 9% is unrated. However, despite the stronger technical backdrop, there are still reasons for caution, as the China recovery seems to be stalling, and further spread tightening may be limited. Sub-Fund's flows have also remained negative for most of 1H, but going forward, if the asset class starts to see inflows, it could be a tailwind to drive spreads tighter.

While the fundamental conditions support a glass half full outlook, risks persist and the picture remains nuanced. We see select opportunities at the high-quality end of high yield corporate market, particularly BB names. Across the market, we see value in issuers with exposure to sectors related to climate transition, such as renewable power, as well as low-cost, high-quality producers, and companies involved in the structural shift taking place across the Gulf region. In investment grade, we continue to see value in the BBB bucket because it still offers some room for spread compression.

Performance

Barings Emerging Markets Local Debt Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 9.99% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation and over performed against the performance comparator with a return of 7.79%* during the reporting period. The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 9.67% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation.

In the first half of 2023, Emerging markets ("EM") debt returns were positive across asset classes as the monetary policy tightening that Central Banks have been implementing since 2021 became increasingly effective in 2022 and 2023 in slowing and then containing inflation, both in their local economies and in contributing to slowing inflation globally. Emerging Market Central Banks have been consistently ahead of Developed Market Central Banks in their monetary policy actions, including starting the rate hiking cycle in 2021 and now initiating an easing cycle, as some EM Central Banks have started to cut rates while most others have kept rates on hold for many months. Developed Market Central Banks, by contrast, have continued to hike rates through Q2 and have signaled that they will need to do so into Q3. Market performance has been driven by a decrease in yields across EM local rates which added +5.84%, while FX added +1.95% against a moderately weaker US Dollar.

Both rates and currency positioning have been positive contributors to the outperformance of the Sub-Fund, with the majority of outperformance being driven from rates, including overweights in Hungary, Mexico and Peru. Sri Lanka has also been a key contributor to performance as an off-benchmark investment post default, while the country improves economically and is in the process of restructuring their debt. Some currency positions have been a drag on performance such as the long of the Japanese Yen and Norwegian Krone.

Historical performance is no indicator of current or future performance. The performance data does not take into account any commissions and costs charged when subscribing and redeeming shares.

The Sub-Fund over performed its performance comparator year-to-date. Since its inception in April 2014, the Sub-Fund has over performed its performance comparator.

Market & Outlook

Global economic activity is softer, and production is down, yet markets are pricing in a relatively benign economic outlook. As household and corporate balance sheet resilience overcame first-quarter fears of an economic hard landing, the global economy remains relatively healthy, U.S. growth being the most resilient. However, there are a number of risks still facing EMs - the biggest one likely being that still-high inflation leads to excessive tightening by developed market central banks, potentially triggering a recessionary cascade. The EM debt market finds itself in a Goldilocks state. EM corporates and sovereigns generally are in strong financial shape, inflation is coming down, interest rates may be reaching their peak, and while the global economy may not be booming, it continues to defy predictions of a significant downturn.

Performance

Barings Emerging Markets Debt Short Duration Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 1.08% and a net return of 0.80% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation during the reporting period.

Emerging Markets started 2023 strongly, primarily as a result of the reopening of the Chinese economy in the first quarter. However, this faded as the first quarter progressed on the back of the volatility in the developed market banking sector in early March, ongoing concerns regarding recession risk, potentially impacting demand for commodities and concerns that inflation would be higher for longer. However this reversed in second quarter as worries about spreads widening and defaults spiking took somewhat of a backseat. The spread narrowing, that took place to levels prevailing just before the Russia-Ukraine war, was buoyed by market expectations of China stimulus in light of the faltering recovery, resolved debt-ceiling dramas, as well as expectations that the Fed was close to peak rates after a hold decision in June and a more goldilocks scenario could unfold; resulting in the first half of 2023 ending positively.

Historical performance is no indicator of current or future performance. The performance data does not take into account of any commissions and costs charged when subscribing and redeeming shares.

Market & Outlook

The fundamental backdrop for EM corporates remains largely positive. With the majority of corporate balance sheets staying overall healthy, the low corporate default environment is persisting. In addition, there have been strong anecdotal indications that private credit is stepping in and disintermediating banks in cases where public markets would not be accommodating - this is playing a large role in staving off defaults. In particular, the default rate for EM corporates is 2.4% YTD, and we expect default rates for this year to be closer to historic low to mid-single digit levels given the default cycle experienced over the last 2-3 years driven by change in the policy support initiatives in China, then followed by Russia's war in Ukraine and more recently continued by the tightening liquidity conditions in Brazil.

The technical picture also could be characterised as supportive, with 2024 EM corporate maturities remaining manageable with approximately $307bn due in 2024, of which just $60bn or 20% is rated HY and another $28bn or 9% is unrated. However, despite the stronger technical backdrop, there are still reasons for caution, as the China recovery seems to be stalling, and further spread tightening may be limited. Sub-Fund's flows have also remained negative for most of 1H, but going forward, if the asset class starts to see inflows, it could be a tailwind to drive spreads tighter.

While the fundamental conditions support a glass half full outlook, risks persist and the picture remains nuanced. We see select opportunities at the high-quality end of high yield corporate market, particularly BB names. Across the market, we see value in issuers with exposure to sectors related to climate transition, such as renewable power, as well as low-cost, high-quality producers, and companies involved in the structural shift taking place across the Gulf region. In investment grade, we continue to see value in the BBB bucket because it still offers some room for spread compression.

Performance

Barings Active Short Duration Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 4.28% on the Tranche S USD Accumulation and over performed against the performance comparator with a return of 1.00%* during the reporting period. The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 4.16% on the Tranche S USD Accumulation.

The duration positioning of the Sub-Fund contributed positively to relative performance against the performance comparator. Portfolio duration currently stands at 0.5 years, vs 1.9 years for the benchmark index. The Sub-Fund's duration position was held shorter than the benchmark index duration for most of the reporting period (closer to 0.5 years), based on our long-standing rules-based approach to managing interest rate risk. The Sub-Fund continues to be managed with minimal interest rate exposure as a result of U.S. Fed Policy.

The Asset Backed Securities ("ABS") sector was a positive contributor to performance on a relative basis. The Sub-Fund continues to favor allocations across both consumer and commercial ABS sectors. ABS exposure was increased marginally over the period ending with a weighting of 21%. The Sub-Fund also holds a 12% allocation to Residential Mortgage Backed Securities ("RMBS") and a 5% allocation to Commercial Mortgage Backed Securities ("CMBS"). Both of these allocations contributed positively to relative performance over the period.

The U.S. investment grade corporate credit allocation amounts to approximately 38%, and the emerging market corporate hard currency allocation amounts to approximately 8%. The Sub-Fund's allocation to investment grade corporate bonds contributed positively over the reporting period. Although the Sub-Fund may hold up to 10% in BB-rated high yield corporate credit, the Sub-Fund only holds 2% which was a positive contributor to relative performance over the period.

The Sub-Fund over performed its performance comparator year-to-date. Since its inception in November 2014, the Sub-Fund has over performed its performance comparator.

Market & Outlook

It is widely debated how much of a lagged effect rate hikes have on combatting inflation - but it seems that one thing investors can agree on is that we are starting to see sustainable green shoots of the U.S. FOMC policy after the fastest and most severe rate hiking cycle in over 30 years. Inflation has looked to have cooled to levels not seen since April 2021, however this has largely been driven by lower gas prices and slower-rising food costs. The conundrum this market is grappling with is the stubborn consumer who continues to spend – boosting spending 0.1% after a solid 0.6% rise this past May. At the time of writing, the market is now pricing in at least one more rate hike this year, and interestingly anticipating a very sharp cutting cycle, an outlook that continues to fluctuate with each economic print as market participants try to anticipate FOMC policy.

Performance

Barings Emerging Markets Debt Blended Total Return Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 4.73% and a net return of 4.55% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation during the reporting period.

Emerging markets ("EM") debt returns were positive across asset classes in the first half of 2023 as the monetary policy tightening that Central Banks have been implementing since 2021 became increasingly effective in 2022 and 2023 in slowing and then containing inflation, both in their local economies and in contributing to slowing inflation globally. Developed Market Central Banks, by contrast, have continued to hike rates through Q2 and have signaled that they will need to do so into Q3. At the index level, EM local bonds returned 7.79%, EM Sovereigns returned 4.09% and EM Corporates returned 3.64%. Local bond returns were driven by lower yields across EM local rates which added +5.84%, while FX added +1.95% against a moderately weaker US Dollar. Hard currency Sovereign and Corporate performance was driven predominantly by tighter spreads in the high yield portion of the market. 10-year US Treasury yields were 6bps tighter during the period.

Local rates, EM Sovereigns and EM Corporates have all been additive to performance while FX has detracted year-to-date. The portfolio has increased exposure to local rates to benefit from the impending rate cutting cycle expected in Emerging Markets. The Sub-Fund's focus has been more towards investment grade rated Sovereigns and Corporates with high conviction positions in high yield names, particularly BBs. Some currency positions have been a drag on performance such as the long of the Japanese Yen and Norwegian Krone.

The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 4.89% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation.

In the first half of 2023, Emerging Markets ("EM") Sovereign Debt experienced positive returns as credit spreads were tighter, particularly in the High Yield portion of the market while 10-yr US Treasury yields ended the period 6bps tighter. The monetary policy tightening that Central Banks have been implementing since 2021 has been increasingly effective in 2022 and 2023 in slowing and then containing inflation, both in their local economies and in contributing to slowing inflation globally. Developed Market Central Banks, however, have continued to hike rates through Q2 and have signaled that they will need to do so into Q3.

Outperformance has been led by country selection where several high-conviction overweight countries have performed well year-to-date including Serbia, Sri Lanka and Mexico. On the other hand, some countries have been detractors due to their surprising performance and our choice to avoid them such as Nigeria, Argentina and El Salvador; all of these are distressed debt cases who have seen their bond prices rally in the second quarter in conjunction with the high yield portion of the market.

Performance

Barings U.S. High Yield Bond Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 5.18% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation and underperformed against the performance comparator with a return of 5.38%* during the reporting period. The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 4.97% on the Tranche A USD Accumulation.

The U.S. High Yield Bond Market generated a positive total return over the first half of 2023 driven by tightening credit spreads, overcoming headwinds generated by rising U.S. Treasury yields. The period was marked by significant market volatility – a strong rally in credit spreads to start the year gave way to fears of a potential global banking crisis in mid-March stemming from stress within US regional banks, including the failure of Silicon Valley Bank and Signature Bank as well as the emergency takeover of Credit Suisse by UBS. As markets stabilized in the aftermath of the concerns over the US regional banking sector, continued labor market strength and solid macroeconomic prints drove an improved risk appetite. A resilient U.S. economy also provided for a more hawkish tone from the U.S. Federal Reserve in its efforts to combat rising inflation, with markets revising forecasts for the ultimate peak in the rate hiking cycle as well as the duration of elevated rates by raising end of year 2023 Fed Funds Rate expectations.

During the six-month period ending June 2023, the Sub-Fund underperformed its index. Adverse selection within Consumer Non-Cyclical and Other Financial contributed to relative underperformance, partially offset by strong selection within Basic Industry and Capital Goods. An underweight to Consumer Cyclical also detracted, only partially offset by the benefit of a lack of Banking exposure. Across ratings, an overweight position to triple-B rated bonds and adverse selection within the triple-C rating segment of the market detracted from performance, while credit selection in higher quality market segments contributed positively to relative performance.

The Sub-Fund underperformed its performance comparator year-to-date. Since its inception in February 2016, the Sub-Fund has underperformed its performance comparator.

Market & Outlook

With inflation remaining stickier than expected, a deteriorating earnings outlook, and a likely recession on the cards, there are indeed a number of risks to watch for going forward - and we don't believe that now is the time to take on excessive risk to earn higher returns. However, the potential downturn is unlikely to have as negative an impact on the high yield market as some anticipate, especially since, from a starting position of relative strength, many issuers have responded to the weaker growth outlook by adopting more creditor-friendly actions.

In addition, from a macro standpoint, consumer savings and government spending could potentially help make any recession relatively manageable. This supportive backdrop, combined with the attractive level of yields, suggest that fixed income looks compelling today. However, a credit-intensive approach is crucial to both avoiding additional downside and identifying issuers that can withstand the challenges ahead.

Barings USD Liquidity Fund

Performance

Barings USD Liquidity Fund (the "Sub-Fund") generated a gross return of 2.45% and a net return of 2.43% on the Tranche F USD Distribution during the reporting period.

The Federal Reserve slowed the pace of its rate hikes in 1st half of 2023 as there was increasing evidence that the work they had done in 2022 was starting to take effect. The Fed Funds rate began the year at 4.25%-4.50% and ended the first half of 2023 at 5.00%-5.25%. While still talking about the need to hike, the Fed has slowed the pace down to 25bp increments and even paused for the first time at the June meeting. As the Fed slows its pace, the Sub-Fund will be looking to take advantage of more fixed rate opportunities to lock in these yields at attractive levels while still purchasing shorter-dated 6-9 month floaters to hedge interest rate risk as inflation numbers come down, but remain sticky. Earlier in the year there was the prospect of rate cuts in late 2023 as many assumed that the Fed had overtightened. That view changed in 2nd quarter of 2023 as inflation numbers softened, but employment numbers stayed strong. As a result, the rate cuts that had been expected later in the year disappeared and the Sub-Fund continued to buy floaters as far out as early 2024. The Sub-Fund's performance was helped by the utilization of more fixed rate purchases while still buying many bank floaters at attractive spreads.

The Weighted Average Maturity ("WAM") of the Sub-Fund was lengthened slightly ending at 18 days after starting the period at 14 days. The Weighted Average Life ("WAL") of the Sub-Fund, which takes into account a bond's final maturity date, ended the period at 55 days - a move lower from the prior period. Approximately 60% of the Sub-Fund's market value is within 30 days to maturity, with the rest in select longer dated issues.

Market & Outlook

The FOMC has been steadfast in their commitment to more hikes in the second half of the year. The market is currently pricing in one hike in late July and then a 30% chance of one more hike by the meeting in November. Regardless of how many more hikes there are, it is clear that most of the Fed's work is done and the real question over the next twelve months is not how much higher rates can go, but can the economy withstand such aggressive tightening without falling into recession. A recession could also be followed by rate cuts in 2024 and with it the Sub-Fund could see net outflows for the first time since 2021. The Sub-Fund will be positioned to be ready for any outflows that may accompany rate cuts. Fortunately, if there are rate cuts and redemptions, the Sub-Fund will be selling securities in a net gain position and the NAV will not be negatively impacted.

The Sub-Fund generated a net return of 4.03% on the Tranche I USD Accumulation.

The Global High Yield Bond Market generated a positive total return over the first half of 2023 driven by tightening credit spreads, overcoming headwinds generated by rising government yields by the U.S. Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England. The period was marked by significant market volatility – a strong rally in credit spreads to start the year gave way to fears of a potential global banking crisis in mid-March stemming from stress within US regional banks, including the failure of Silicon Valley Bank and Signature Bank as well as the emergency takeover of Credit Suisse by UBS. As markets stabilized in the aftermath of the concerns over the US regional banking sector, continued labor market strength and solid macroeconomic prints drove an improved risk appetite. Persistent, although moderating, inflation across developed markets led to more hawkish tones from central banks in Europe and the U.S., with markets revising rates forecasts to reflect expectations of higher rates for a longer period of time.

During the six-month period ending June 2023, the Sub-Fund underperformed its index. Credit selection in Asian Real Estate positions adversely impacted performance, only partially offset by security selection across multiple sectors, led by positioning in Basic Industry, Energy and Leisure. In Leisure, cruise line positions were notable contributors to performance. While portfolio positioning and selection in B-rated and above names contributed to performance, security selection in lower quality market segments negatively impacted relative performance.

The Sub-Fund underperformed its performance comparator year-to-date. Since its inception in July 1993, the Sub-Fund has overperformed its performance comparator.

Notes to the Financial Statements

For the six month period ended 30 June 2023

1. Basis of Measurement

These condensed interim unaudited financial statements have been prepared in accordance with IAS 34 'Interim Financial Reporting'. The condensed interim unaudited financial statements should be read in conjunction with the annual report and audited financial statements for the financial year ended 31 December 2022, which have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"), the interpretations adopted by the International Accounting Standards Board ("IASB") as adopted by the European Union ("EU") and in accordance with Irish statute comprising the Companies Act, 2014 and the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011 (as amended) and under the Central Bank of Ireland (Supervision & Enforcement) Act 2013 (Section 48(1) (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2019, (together, the "UCITS Regulations").

The condensed interim unaudited financial statements are prepared under the historical cost convention as modified by the revaluation of financial assets and financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss. In preparation of the condensed interim unaudited financial statements in conformity with IAS 34 the Company is required to make certain accounting estimates and assumptions. Actual results may differ from these estimates and assumptions. The Directors believe that any estimates used in preparing the financial statements are reasonable and prudent. Critical accounting estimates are those which involve the most complex or subjective judgements or assessments. The areas of the Company's business that typically require such estimates are the determination of the fair value of financial assets and liabilities.

These financial statements were prepared on the going concern basis.

The condensed interim financial statements as at 30 June 2023 are unaudited. We note that the statutory auditor's report in the audited year end financial statements as at 31 December 2022 was unqualified.

7. Fair value hierarchy

In accordance with IFRS 13 the Company classifies fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in making the measurements.

The fair value hierarchy has the following levels:

- Level 1 - Quoted market price in an active market for an identical instrument.
- Level 2 - Valuation techniques based on observable inputs. This category includes instruments valued using: quoted market prices in active markets for similar instruments; quoted prices for similar instruments in markets that are considered less than active; or other valuation techniques where all significant inputs are directly or indirectly observable from market data.
- Level 3 - Valuation techniques using significant unobservable inputs. This category includes all instruments where the valuation technique includes inputs not based on observable data and the unobservable inputs could have a significant impact on the instrument's valuation. This category includes instruments that are valued based on quoted prices for similar instruments where significant unobservable adjustments or assumptions are required to reflect differences between the instruments.

The level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement is categorised in its entirety is determined on the basis of the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety. For this purpose, the significance of an input is assessed against the fair value measurement.

If a fair value measurement uses observable inputs that require significant adjustment based on observable inputs, that measurement is a Level 3 measurement. Assessing the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgement, considering factors specific to the asset or liability.

The determination of what constitutes "observable" requires significant judgement by the Company. The Company considers observable data to be that market data that is readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable and verifiable, not proprietary and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market. Single broker quotes and Investment Manager priced assets are classified as Level 2 holdings because the inputs into the price supplied by the brokers and Investment Managers are observable, for example, rate yield, industry classification and credit rating. The Investment Managers review the prices independently received as single broker quotes and ensures that they are in line with expectations.

7. Fair value hierarchy (continued)

The Company's Level 3 investments have been valued using unadjusted inputs that have not been internally developed by the Company which involved using single broker quotations for these securities.

The Company determines the fair value for corporate bond instruments using independent, unadjusted indicative broker quotes. A broker quote is generally not a binding offer. The categorisation of corporate bond instruments is dependent if the broker quotes reflect actual current market conditions, or if they are indicative prices based on brokers valuation models, depending on the significance and observability of the inputs to the model.

For corporate bond instruments that have been categorised as Level 2, fair value has been determined using independent broker quotes based on observable inputs. If it could not be verified that the valuation is based significantly on observable inputs, then the investments would fall into Level 3.

The Company considers observable data to be that market data that is readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable, not proprietary, and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market.

The table below sets out information about significant unobservable inputs used at 30 June 2023 in measuring financial instruments categorised as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy:

Sensitivity of Level 3 assets measured at fair value to changes in assumptions

The results of using reasonably possible alternative assumptions for valuing the Level 3 assets may result in the fair value estimate and recoverability of the assets being subject to uncertainty and a range of possible outcomes are likely. Such differences, if any, may have a material effect on the overall portfolio as at 30 June 2023 or as at 31 December 2022.

If the value of Level 3 securities increased/(decreased) by 5%, the effect on the Company's NAV would be US$4,663,283 (31 December 2022: US$4,896,806).

Transfers between levels of the fair value hierarchy are deemed to have occurred at the end of the six month period and are deemed to have occurred when the pricing source or methodology used to price an investment has changed which triggers a change in level as defined under IFRS 13. There were transfers from Level 2 to Level 3 at the six month period end as shown in the reconciliation above.

Sensitivity of Level 3 assets measured at fair value to changes in assumptions (continued)

For each class of assets and liabilities not measured at fair value in the Statement of Financial Position but for which fair value is disclosed, IFRS 13 requires the Company to disclose the level within the fair value hierarchy which the fair value measurement would be categorised and a description of the valuation technique and inputs used in the technique.

Cash and cash equivalents include deposits held with banks and other short-term investments in an active market and they are categorised as Level 1. Cash held at broker (including positive cash collateral) and cash due to broker (including negative cash collateral) are categorised as Level 2.

Receivable for investments sold and other receivables include the contractual amounts for settlement of trades and other obligations due to the Company. Payable for investments sold and other payables represent the contractual amounts and obligations due by the Company for settlement of trades and expenses. All receivable and payable balances are categorised as Level 2.

The puttable value of redeemable participating shares is calculated based on the net difference between total assets and all other liabilities of each Sub-Fund within the Company in accordance with the Company's offering memorandum. A demand feature is attached to these shares, as they are redeemable at the holders' option and can be put back to the Sub-Funds at any dealing date for cash equal to a proportionate share of the Sub-Fund's NAV attributable to the share tranche. The fair value is based on the amount payable on demand. As such, Level 2 is deemed to be the most appropriate categorisation for net assets attributable to holders of redeemable participating shares, as they are largely based on inputs other than quoted market prices included within Level 1 that are observable either directly or indirectly.

ESG Risk

The Investment Managers integrate ESG ("Environmental Social & Governance") information into the investment process across all asset classes. Through fundamental analysis, the Investment Managers seek to gain a comprehensive understanding of the factors that influence the sustainability of investments. The Investment Manager consider ESG information alongside other crucial variables that may impact an investment's risks and returns over time. In particular, the Investment Managers consider ESG criteria in relation to specific industry and sector trends and characteristics to identify the risks of an investment. Once invested, the Investment Managers continue to monitor each investment to ensure their thesis, including that on ESG matters, remains intact and that an investment's risk and return profile remains attractive relative to other opportunities available in the market. Sustainability risks that the Investment Managers may consider are environmental, social or governance events or conditions that, if they occur, could cause an actual or a potential material negative impact on the value of the investment, examples of which include physical environmental risks, transition risk (e.g. investee company assets losing their financial value because of tightening of environmental legislation) or liability risk (e.g. risk of liability due to a breach of human/employee rights considering the jurisdiction of the investee company).

All Sub-Funds integrate ESG into their investment process but the following Sub-Funds will also promote ESG by investing or seeking to positively influence practices to improve ESG characteristics and have been brought into scope of Article 8 of the Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ("SFDR") and can be categorised as "Light Green" ESG products:

Please refer to the Prospectus for further details on ESG integration. Third-party data and research form one input to the Investment Managers ESG integration and stewardship work. While third-party data providers, peer research, or direct interactions with companies and stakeholders may be used to inform the Investment Managers ESG scoring and analysis, greater importance is placed on the Investment Managers own fundamental, qualitative, and quantitative analysis and research.

The Investment Manager's dedicated data governance team performs quality checks on internal and third-party ESG data. The team runs data quality checks on monthly reported portfolio-level data, where outliers are flagged based on month-over-month changes and further research is done at the holdings level to determine the cause of change. The team also runs monthly data quality checks on internal data. The Investment Managers portfolio solutions and analytics team also supports data governance efforts by providing several quality checks to validate the completeness of the proprietary ESG scores. These checks may include checking ESG score values, monitoring changes in updated scores, and whether scores have been updated in a timely fashion.

The investments underlying the other Sub-Funds do not take into account the EU criteria for environmentally sustainable economic activities.

8. Derivatives and Efficient Portfolio Management

Each of the Sub-Funds may use Financial Derivative Instruments ("FDIs") for efficient portfolio management. The efficient portfolio management purposes for which the Company intends to employ FDIs are reduction of risk, reduction of cost and the generation of additional capital or income for the relevant Sub-Fund with an appropriate level of risk, taking into account the risk profile of the Sub-Fund and the general provisions of the UCITS Regulations. The Company may use various types of derivatives for these purposes, including, without limitation, forward foreign currency exchange contracts, futures contracts, options, swaps (including but not limited to total return swaps, credit default swaps, currency swaps, swaptions and interest rate swaps) and contracts for differences for these purposes.

The foreign currency risk that exists to investors in the non-base currency share tranches is mitigated by a share tranche hedging programme.

During the six month period the Company entered into forward foreign currency exchange contracts, futures contracts, options, interest rate swaps, credit default swaps and currency swaps for efficient portfolio management purposes. Forward foreign currency exchange contracts are entered into by GSSB Fund, EHYB Fund, GHYB Fund, EMCB Fund, EMLD Fund, EMDS Fund, ASD Fund, EMDBTR Fund, EMSD Fund, USHYB Fund and DEMHYB Fund to hedge non-US$ denominated assets back to US$, the Sub-Funds' base currency. Forward foreign currency exchange contracts are entered into by EHYB Fund to hedge non-Euro denominated assets back into Euro, the Sub-Funds' base currency. EMLD Fund, EMDBTR Fund and EMSD Fund use forward foreign currency exchange contracts to take active foreign exchange exposure. Futures contracts are entered into by ASD Fund, EMDBTR Fund and EMSD Fund, options are entered into by EMLD Fund and EMDBTR Fund and swaps are entered into by EMCB Fund, EMLD Fund, EMDS Fund, ASD Fund, EMDBTR Fund and EMSD Fund. Details of the gains/(losses) relating to these derivative instruments are contained in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

The Company shall comply with the conditions and limits laid down from time to time by the CBI under the UCITS Regulations.

Forward foreign currency exchange contracts are recognised at fair value on the date on which a derivative contract is entered into and are subsequently re-measured at their fair value. All forward foreign currency exchange contracts are carried as assets when fair value is positive and as liabilities when fair value is negative. Any changes in fair value are recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

The fair value of forward foreign currency exchange contracts that are not exchange traded is estimated at the amount that the Company would receive or pay to terminate the contract at the period/year end date taking into account current market conditions and the current creditworthiness of the counterparties.

The unrealised gain or loss on open forward foreign currency exchange contracts is calculated as the difference between the contract price and the forward price as at six month period/financial year end.

Futures contracts are commitments either to purchase or sell a designated financial instrument, currency, commodity or an index at a specified future date for a specified price and may be settled in cash or another financial asset. Futures contracts are standardised exchange traded contracts. Initial margin requirements for futures contracts are met in cash or other instruments, and changes in the futures contracts values are settled daily. Futures contracts are measured initially at fair value on the date on which the derivative contract is entered into and subsequently remeasured at fair value. Futures contracts have little credit risk because the counterparties are futures exchanges. Any changes in fair value are recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

8. Derivatives and Efficient Portfolio Management (continued)

Interest rate swaps (“IRSs”) are used for trading purposes. IRSs are measured initially at fair value on the date on which the derivative contract is entered into and subsequently remeasured at fair value. Any changes in fair value are recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income. Fair values are obtained from counterparties or from quoted market prices in active markets, including recent market transactions, and from valuation techniques using discounted cash flow models and option pricing models as appropriate. IRSs are included in assets when the fair value is positive, and in liabilities when the fair value is negative.

In a credit default swap (“CDS”), one party makes payments to another party in exchange for the right to receive a specified return (or to put a security) if a credit event (e.g. default or a similar event) occurs with respect to a reference entity or entities. The Company may use credit default swaps contracts to provide a measure of protection against defaults of sovereign or corporate issues (i.e. to reduce risk where the Sub-Fund owns or has exposure to the issuer) or to take an active long or short position with respect to the likelihood of a particular issuer’s default. The maximum exposure the Company has in selling credit protection is equal to the notional amount of such CDS contracts. CDS’s are measured initially at fair value on the date on which the derivative contract is entered into and subsequently remeasured at fair value.

For CDSs on asset-backed securities, a credit event may be triggered by various occurrences, which may include an issuer’s failure to pay principal, maturity extension, rating downgrade or write-down. For CDS contracts on corporate or sovereign issuers, a credit event may be triggered by occurrences such as an issuer bankruptcy, failure to pay interest or principal, repudiation/moratorium and/or restructuring. Any changes in fair value are recognised in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

A currency swap is an interest rate swap in which the cash flows are in different currencies. Upon initiation of a currency swap, the counterparties make an initial exchange of notional principals in the two currencies. During the life of the currency swap, each party pays interest (in the currency of the principal received) to the other. At the maturity of the currency swap, the parties make a final exchange of the initial principal amounts, reversing the initial exchange at the same spot rate.

Options are derivative financial instruments that give the buyer, in exchange for a premium payment, the right but not the obligation to either purchase from (call option) or sell to (put option) the writer a specified underlying instrument at a specified price on or before a specified date. Daily fluctuations in the value of the option contract are recorded for financial reporting purposes as unrealised gains or losses by the Sub-Funds and are recorded as a realised gain or loss when the position is closed.

The best evidence of fair value of a derivative at initial recognition is the transaction price. Subsequent changes in the fair value of any derivative instrument are recognised immediately in the Statement of Comprehensive Income.

There were no material changes to the Prospectus during the six month period ended 30 June 2023.

14. Significant events during the six month period

Mr. Syl O'Byrne was appointed as a Director of the Company with effect from 27 January 2023.

Russia/Ukraine conflict

The ongoing conflict between Russia and Ukraine has led to significant disruption and volatility in the global stock market. As a result of this, the fair value of Russian securities held within the Sub-Funds experienced a sharp decline. As a consequence of this, management made the determination to value all Russian, Ukrainian and Belarusian sovereign local bonds, sovereign hard currency debt (USD / EUR) and corporate bonds on a bid basis and one sanctioned bond held by Barings Emerging Markets Local Debt Fund has been manually marked at zero. This was based on the current restrictions on trading due to sanctions and market liquidity. Exposure details at 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022 are outlined in the table below. The ongoing ramifications of the evolving conflict may not be limited to Russia and Russian companies or Ukraine but may spill over to other regional and global economic marks, and the extent of the resulting impact is uncertain. Barings continues to monitor the situation in Ukraine and consider appropriate measures for the affected Sub-Funds.

Appendix 2 - Additional Information for Investors in the Federal Republic of Germany

This Country Supplement forms part of and should be read in conjunction with the prospectus for Barings Umbrella Fund plc (the “Company”) and the supplements for Barings Global Senior Secured Bond Fund, Barings European High Yield Bond Fund, Barings Global High Yield Bond Fund, Barings Emerging Markets Corporate Bond Fund, Barings Emerging Markets Local Debt Fund, Barings Emerging Markets Debt Short Duration Fund, Barings Active Short Duration Fund, Barings Emerging Markets Debt Blended Total Return Fund, Barings Emerging Markets Sovereign Debt Fund, Barings U.S. High Yield Bond Fund and Barings Developed and Emerging Markets High Yield Bond Fund, the Sub-Funds of the Company (together the “Funds”) dated 1 December 2022 (together the “Prospectus”). Together with the Prospectus, this Country Supplement, dated 1 December 2022, shall constitute the Consolidated Prospectus for Germany (the “Consolidated Prospectus”).

Since no Shares in the Sub-Funds are issued as printed individual certificates, no paying agent has been appointed in Germany.

Investors should refer to the sections of the Prospectus entitled “Purchase of Shares”; “Redemption of Shares”; and “Purchase and Redemption of Shares” in order to ascertain how to request subscription, redemption or conversion/exchange of units and when they are entitled to receive payments (redemption proceeds and disbursement or other payments) and how they will receive these payments by the Company.

Investors should also refer to the “Fees and Expenses” section in the Prospectus.

The latest version of the Prospectus (as defined above), the key information documents (the “KIDs”), the memorandum and articles of association of the Company, the certificate of incorporation of the Company, the material contracts of the Company, the latest published annual report and any subsequent half-yearly report of the Company may be obtained free of charge and in paper form from the Paying Agent or at the registered office of the Company. The issue, redemption and exchange prices are available free of charge at the Paying Agent.

In addition, in the following cases, information will be provided to investors in Germany through investors’ letters:

- suspension of the redemption of Shares;
- termination of the management of the Sub-Fund or its winding-up;
- amendments to the Sub-Fund rules which are inconsistent with existing investment principles, affect material investor rights, or relate to remuneration or the reimbursement of expenses that may be taken out of the assets of the Sub-Fund, including the reasons for the amendments and the rights of investors;
- the merger of the Sub-Fund with one or more other funds;
- the conversion of the Sub-Fund into a feeder fund or any change to a master fund.

The issue, redemption and exchange prices and any other information and documents which are required to be published in Ireland, will be published on the website of Euronext Dublin (<http://www.ise.ie>). However, documents available for investors in Ireland solely for inspection at an office specified in the sales documentation, will be published through the Paying Agent by making those documents available for inspection free of charge at his office.

Tax regulations and the practices of financial authorities are constantly subject to change. Because of the complexity of German tax law, it is recommended that investors contact a tax adviser regarding the effect on their individual tax situation before they decide about an investment in the Sub-Fund.
