Tracking Error

Each of the Funds listed in the table employs a “passive” investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the Funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as its weighting in the index. Other Funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between the Fund and the index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the Fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the Fund’s inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

The table below excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

Under that law the Directors have elected to prepare the financial statements in accordance with accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland, Financial Reporting Standard ("FRS") 102.

In preparing those financial statements, the Directors are required to:

- State whether the financial statements have been prepared in accordance with applicable accounting standards, identify those standards, and note the effect and the reasons for any material departure from those standards.

The Directors are responsible for keeping adequate accounting records that disclose with reasonable accuracy the financial position of the Company and enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Act 2014, the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2011 (the "UCITS Regulations") and the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (Section 48(1)) (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2019. The Directors are also responsible for such internal controls as determined necessary to enable preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and have general responsibility for taking such steps as are reasonably open to them to safeguard the assets of the Company. In this regard the Directors have entrusted the assets of the Company to a trustee for safe-keeping. They have general responsibility for taking such steps as are reasonably open to them to prevent and detect fraud and other irregularities. The Directors are also responsible for preparing a directors' report that complies with the requirements of the Companies Act 2014.

The Directors have the power, under the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company, to determine the time and place at which payment for shares must be made. All general meetings of the Company shall be held in Ireland, and at least one general meeting of the Company shall be held in each year as the Company's annual general meeting. At least 21 days' notice (inclusive of the day on which the notice is served or deemed to be served and of the day for which the notice is given) shall be given to shareholders. The notice shall specify the place, day and hour of the meeting and the terms of the resolutions to be proposed. A proxy may attend on behalf of any shareholder.

Voting Rights

Each shareholder shall be entitled to such number of votes as shall be produced by dividing the aggregate net asset value of that shareholder's shareholding (expressed or converted into US dollars and calculated as of the "relevant record date") by one. The subscriber shareholders shall have one vote for each subscriber share held. The relevant record date for these purposes shall be a date being not more than 30 days prior to the date of the relevant general meeting of shareholders or written resolution as determined by the Directors. In relation to a resolution that in the opinion of the Directors gives or may give rise to a conflict of interest between the shareholders of any class, such resolution shall be deemed to have been duly passed only if, in lieu of being passed through a single meeting of the shareholders of such class, such resolution shall have been passed at a separate meeting of the shareholders of such classes. All votes shall be cast by a poll of shareholders present in person or by proxy at the relevant shareholder meeting or by unanimous written resolution of the shareholders.

Class Meetings—Variation of Class Rights

Under the Articles of Association of the Company (the "Articles"), the rights attached to each class of shares may, whether or not the Company is being wound up, be varied with the consent in writing of the holders of three-fourths of the issued shares of that class or with the sanction of a Special Resolution passed at a separate general meeting of the holders of the shares of that class. The rights attaching to any class of shares shall not be deemed to be varied by the creation or issue of further shares ranking pari passu with shares already in issue, unless otherwise expressly provided by the terms of issue of those shares. The provisions of the Articles relating to general meetings shall apply to every such separate general meeting except that the necessary quorum at such a meeting shall be two persons present in person or by proxy holding shares of the class in question or, at an adjourned meeting, one person holding shares of the class in question or his or her proxy.

Directors of the Company

Unless otherwise determined by an ordinary resolution of the Company in a general meeting, the number of Directors may not be less than three nor more than nine. Currently there are seven Directors, being those listed in the directory in these financial statements.

The business of the Company is managed by the Directors, who exercise all such powers of the Company which are not required to be exercised by the Company in a general meeting in accordance with the Companies Acts and the Articles. The Directors have entrusted various delegates with responsibility for the oversight of the internal control and risk management systems. Separately, the members of the Audit Committee, Thomas Challenor, Raj Singh and Tara Doyle, have been designated with the primary responsibility for evaluating the independent accountants, reviewing audit coverage and use of audit resources, and overseeing financial reporting and audit processes. The Company's internal audit function is carried out by the Internal Audit Department ("IAD") of The Vanguard Group, Inc. ("VGI"). The IAD is mandated to assist the Directors in reaching a conclusion about the overall effectiveness of internal controls and provide the Directors with the information necessary to discharge their responsibilities.

The Directors have procedures in place to ensure that all relevant books of account are properly maintained and are readily available, including production of annual and half yearly financial statements. The Directors are responsible for ensuring that the books of account disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Company and enable them to ensure that financial statements are prepared in accordance with accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland and comply with the Companies Act 2014 and the UCITS Regulations. The annual financial statements of the Company are required to be approved by the Directors. The statutory financial statements are required to be audited by the Company's independent auditors, KPMG, who report annually to the Audit Committee on their findings.

Brown Brothers Harriman Fund Administration Services (Ireland) Limited (the "Administrator") is appointed as an independent administrator to the Company to maintain the books and records and the Administrator is authorised and regulated by the Central Bank of Ireland and must comply with the rules imposed by the Central Bank of Ireland. In addition, the Administrator will prepare all financial statements and corresponding notes in respect of the Company together with its annual and semiannual reports.

Additional Information From the Directors (unaudited)

Deferred Capital Gains Tax

Given continued tax related sanctions imposed on Ireland by Brazil, the Manager has decided to transition to accrue the Brazilian Capital Gains Tax to the NAV effective 7 June 2022 rather than separately capturing it through dilution adjustments. This was deemed to be a prudent approach, and a more efficient way to process these amounts, as the sanctions have been ongoing for more than 5 years.

Geopolitical Risk

Significant market disruptions, such as those caused by pandemics (e.g., COVID-19 pandemic), natural or environmental disasters, war (e.g., Russia's invasion of Ukraine), acts of terrorism, or other events, can adversely affect local and global markets and normal market operations. Any such disruptions could have an adverse impact on the value of the Funds' investments and Funds' performance. Vanguard continues to encourage investors to follow its core investment principles, including maintaining long-term discipline. Vanguard is committed to safeguarding the assets of investors and their long-term interests.

Risk Management Objectives and Policies

Along with the risks described to Geopolitical Risks, the Directors draw your attention to the principal risks affecting the Funds, which are outlined in Note 4 of the Notes to Financial Statements.

Remuneration Disclosure

Vanguard personnel providing services to the Manager are subject to the Vanguard European Remuneration Policy (the "Remuneration Policy"). The Remuneration Policy includes the remuneration requirements of the UCITS V Directive (2014/91/EU). Details of the Remuneration Policy are available through <https://www.ie.vanguard/content/dam/intl/europe/documents/ch/en/ucitsv-remuneration-policy.pdf>, which will be updated periodically to reflect changes to the policy.

The governance of remuneration within Vanguard Europe is undertaken through a tiered structure, including Vanguard's Global Remuneration Committee and the European Leadership Team. The Global Remuneration Committee also operates at The Vanguard Group level and oversees the overall compensation programmes of The Vanguard Group. The European Leadership Team is responsible for implementing the remuneration programmes in accordance with Vanguard's total rewards philosophy and global organisation, including overseeing the Remuneration Policy.

The Remuneration Policy provides for an appropriate balance of fixed salary; benefits, such as pension; and annual bonus and long-term incentive arrangements. Incentives are based on the overall business performance of The Vanguard Group, or individual, team, business unit and fund performance. The incentive plans were reviewed and approved by the European Leadership Team (and other applicable groups) to ensure that the plans appropriately assess financial and non-financial performance and did not encourage conflicts of interest, and to ensure that risk or compliance issues were appropriately reflected.

The European Leadership Team also reviews and approves the list of UCITS code staff annually. Identified code staff are notified and understand the code staff responsibilities.

The table below presents the aggregate total remuneration paid to staff who provide services to the Funds and the aggregate total remuneration paid to all relevant UCITS code staff.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of companies in emerging markets.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- In response, major central banks wound down their bond-purchasing programs and began raising short-term interest rates. The US Federal Reserve was especially aggressive, raising the federal funds rate target from near zero in March 2022 to a range of 4.25%–4.5% by the end of the year.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets had a very tough year, ending down roughly 18%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. Stocks in Europe and the Asia-Pacific region held up a little better than those in the US and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned –20.09% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- All 11 of the index's industry sectors were in negative territory, with information technology, communication services and energy producing the lowest returns. Utilities and financials held up the best.
- Chinese companies, which represented nearly one third of the index's market value, returned about –22%. Turkey, which returned more than 90% for the 12 months, posted by far the strongest returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- In response, major central banks wound down their bond-purchasing programs and began raising short-term interest rates. The US Federal Reserve was especially aggressive, raising the federal funds rate target from near zero in March 2022 to a range of 4.25%–4.5% by the end of the year.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets had a very tough year, ending down roughly 18%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. Stocks in Europe and the Asia-Pacific region held up a little better than those in the US and emerging markets.
- The fund's benchmark index returned –22.90% for the 12 months. The index is constructed from the FTSE Developed All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- All 11 of the index's benchmark sectors were in negative territory, with technology, consumer discretionary and real estate producing the lowest returns. Energy, utilities and consumer staples held up the best.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than two-thirds of the index, returned about –24%. Japan and the United Kingdom, the index's second and third largest components by market, also posted negative returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets ended the year down significantly. The fund's benchmark index returned -18.68% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022. The index is constructed from the FTSE Emerging All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- All 11 industry sectors in the index posted negative results. Technology and financial stocks detracted the most from performance.
- Among markets, Chinese stocks, which represented about one-third of the index's market value, returned -23.54% and detracted the most from performance.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- In response, major central banks wound down their bond-purchasing programs and began raising short-term interest rates. The US Federal Reserve was especially aggressive, raising the federal funds rate target from near zero in March 2022 to a range of 4.25%–4.5% by the end of the year.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets had a tough year, ending down roughly 18%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. Stocks in Europe and the Asia-Pacific region held up a little better than those in the US and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned –15.06%. Ten of the 11 industry sectors produced negative returns. Industrials, information technology and consumer discretionary detracted most. The lone positive contributor was energy, which makes up more than 6% of the benchmark.
- All but one of the 15 markets represented within the index posted negative returns. Switzerland and Germany, two of the larger constituents in the index, detracted most from performance. Other notable detractors included the Netherlands and France.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying euro zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets ended the year down significantly.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned -12.47%. Nine of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors posted negative returns. Information technology, consumer discretionary, industrials and materials detracted most. The two positive contributors were energy and financials.
- Ten of the 11 markets in the index contributed negatively to performance. Germany, the Netherlands and France detracted most. The lone positive contributor was Portugal.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets ended the year down significantly. The fund's benchmark index returned -18.76% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- Results were negative in 10 of the benchmark's 11 sectors. Consumer discretionary and information technology stocks hurt performance the most.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than half the index, hurt performance the most, followed by UK stocks.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets ended the year down significantly. The fund's benchmark index returned -18.14% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- Results were negative in 10 of the benchmark's 11 sectors. Information technology, consumer discretionary and communication services stocks hurt performance the most.
- By region, US stocks, which accounted for over two-thirds of the index, hurt performance the most, followed by Japan.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Japan Index, which emphasises stocks of companies located in Japan.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets ended the year down significantly.
- In this environment, Japanese equities ended the year lower overall. The fund's benchmark index returned -11.18% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- Results were negative in eight of the index's 11 sectors. Information technology, consumer discretionary and industrials detracted the most. Financials, utilities and energy were the sole contributors.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Pacific ex-Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine in February added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labor shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets ended the year down significantly.
- Pacific markets excluding Japan finished the year slightly higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 0.22% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- Results were negative in eight of the index's 11 sectors. The two largest, financials and materials, contributed most to returns. Communication services detracted most.
- Australia, the largest market, added to overall performance. Singapore, New Zealand and Hong Kong detracted.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets ended the year down significantly.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned -10.25%. Ten of the 11 index sectors produced negative returns. Industrials, consumer discretionary and technology detracted most. The lone positive contributor was energy.
- Among markets, there were just two positive contributors—Denmark and Portugal. Germany, Switzerland, the Netherlands and Sweden detracted most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- In response, major central banks wound down their bond-purchasing programs and began raising short-term interest rates. The US Federal Reserve was especially aggressive, raising the federal funds rate target from near zero in March 2022 to a range of 4.25%–4.5% by the end of the year.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets had a very tough year, returning about –18%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. Stocks in Europe and the Asia-Pacific region held up a little better than those in the US and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned –18.51% for the 12 months. Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors recorded negative returns. Information technology companies, which accounted for an average of 27% of the index during the year, detracted the most from its performance, returning –28%. Consumer discretionary and communication services companies also posed major drags.
- The utilities and energy sectors were the only ones to gain ground. The former rose less than 1%, however, while the latter's 64% return was tempered by its small size. Energy companies accounted for less than 5% of the index's value, on average.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

¹ Since-inception returns: Institutional Plus EUR Acc, 6 December 2013; Institutional Plus USD Acc, 19 December 2013.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard U.S. Opportunities Fund

Sub-managed by PRIMECAP Management Company.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by investing in stocks with above-average earnings growth potential that is not reflected in their current market prices.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labor shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- In response, major central banks wound down their bond-purchasing programs and began raising short-term interest rates. The US Federal Reserve was especially aggressive, raising the federal funds rate target from near zero in March 2022 to a range of 4.25%–4.5% by the end of the year.
- Despite some relief in midsummer and late fall, global stock markets had a very tough year, returning about –18%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. Stocks in Europe and the Asia-Pacific region held up a little better than those in the US and emerging markets.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned –19.59% for the 12 months. Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors recorded negative returns. Information technology companies, which accounted for an average of 26% of the index during the year, detracted the most from its performance, returning –30%.
- While absolute returns were dreadful, the fund held up a hair better than its benchmark. It helped that the fund held an underweighted stake in IT stocks and that the tech companies held in the portfolio declined less than the overall sector. The same advantages flowed from the much-smaller communication services sector.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard 20+ Year Euro Treasury Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA-.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- It was an especially tough year for global bonds. With yields rising and bond prices falling, global fixed income markets ended the year down significantly.
- The fund's benchmark index returned -39.84% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- By country, Austria and Finland were the largest detractors in the index. Germany and Ireland were among the countries that held up better but still posted sharp declines.
- Bonds maturing in more than 30 years fared worse than those maturing in 20 to 30 years. From a credit-quality perspective, AA-rated Treasury bonds underperformed those rated AAA.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging-market countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- In response, major central banks wound down their bond-purchasing programs and began raising short-term interest rates. The US Federal Reserve was especially aggressive, raising the federal funds rate target from near zero in March 2022 to a range of 4.25%–4.5% by the end of the year.
- Global fixed income markets had an especially tough year, with bond yields in major economies moving sharply higher across the maturity spectrum. Global bonds ended the 12 months down roughly 16% in US dollars, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Index.
- The fund performed better than its benchmark index, which returned –17.78% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- Country selection and shorter duration drove portfolio outperformance. Being underweight to Russia and Ghana contributed notably. The average duration of the portfolio ranged throughout the year from 50 to 80 basis points below that of the benchmark; this also helped performance significantly in an environment characterised by central bank tightening.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard ESG Global Corporate Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI Corporate Float-Adjusted Bond Screened Index, a multi-currency benchmark that includes investment grade corporate fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets issuers.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The 12-month period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- The fund was launched on 25 October 2022. It promotes environmental and social characteristics by excluding fixed income securities from its portfolio based on the impact of the issuer's conduct or products on society and/or the environment. This is met by tracking the Bloomberg MSCI Global Corporate Float-Adjusted Bond Screened Index. The fund's index is constructed from the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Float Adjusted Corporate Index, which represents a multicurrency universe of investment-grade corporate fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets issuers. That index is then screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the index sponsor, which is independent of Vanguard.
- The index methodology also excludes the bonds of issuers that MSCI determines have no controversy score or a controversy score of less than one as defined by MSCI's ESG controversies assessment framework.
- From its inception through 31 December 2022, the fund's benchmark returned 3.99%.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- It was an especially tough year for global bonds. With yields rising and bond prices falling, global fixed income markets ended the year down significantly.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned -18.22% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- Every country represented in the index posted negative returns. Among the greatest detractors were France, Germany, Italy and Spain.
- By maturity, shorter-dated bonds lost less ground. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding euro zone treasury and government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- It was an especially tough year for global bonds. With yields rising and bond prices falling, global fixed income markets ended the year down significantly.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -15.15% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- Each sector within the index posted negative returns, but non-corporates, which make up a little less than a quarter of the benchmark, lost the most ground. Within non-corporates, the largest detractors were supranationals, foreign agencies and sovereigns.
- Each country within the index also posted negative returns for the year. The largest constituents – supranationals, France and Germany – were no exception.
- Longer-dated bonds weighed on performance. Quality was a mixed bag.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Inflation-Linked Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Inflation-Linked: Eurozone – Euro CPI Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated inflation-linked government securities within the euro zone, designed to serve as a hedge against inflation in the euro zone region, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- With some signs of inflation close to peaking or having peaked toward year-end, major central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the European Central Bank began to slow the pace of rate hikes but continued tightening monetary policy.
- It was an especially tough year for global bonds. With yields rising and bond prices falling, global fixed income markets ended the year down significantly.
- Year-on-year inflation in the euro zone accelerated to more than five times the European Central Bank's target of 2% by October before beginning to trend lower. Rising government bond yields, though, put downward pressure on bond prices, including those of inflation-linked bonds.
- The fund's benchmark index returned –10.20% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- By country, Italian and Spanish inflation-linked bonds declined less than the index as a whole, while their French and German counterparts declined more.
- Euro zone inflation-linked bonds maturing in 10 or more years posted double-digit declines. By credit quality, lower-rated securities held up better than their higher-rated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The period was defined by a historic rise in interest rates, which caused ripple effects across every sector of the financial markets and brought with it renewed volatility.
- Russia's invasion of Ukraine added to inflationary pressures from ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks and labour shortages in some sectors of the economy, lifting year-on-year inflation readings to multidecade highs across much of the world. While energy prices eventually began to cool, price increases broadened to other categories of goods and services, heightening concerns that inflation might remain stubbornly high.
- In response, major central banks wound down their bond-purchasing programs and began raising short-term interest rates. The US Federal Reserve was especially aggressive, raising the federal funds rate target from near zero in March 2022 to a range of 4.25%–4.5% by the end of the year.
- Global fixed income markets had an especially tough year, with bond yields in major economies moving sharply higher across the maturity spectrum.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned –12.90% for the 12 months ended 31 December 2022.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, slightly underperformed the index as a whole. The United Kingdom, Belgium and Austria were among the laggards. Other index heavyweights including Japan, China and South Korea held up relatively well but still finished in negative territory.
- By sector, corporate and noncorporate bonds fared worse than government bonds and mortgage-backed securities.
- By maturity, longer-dated bonds were the laggards. By credit quality, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.
