

M&G Corporate Bond Fund Sterling Class I – Accumulation shares

Monthly Fund Review as at 31 May 2024

For investment professionals only

Highlights

- Global corporate bonds rose in May as the Federal Reserve's meeting proved less hawkish than anticipated with Chair Jerome Powell expressing doubt that its next policy move could be a hike. US investment grade corporate bonds outperformed their UK and European counterparts. UK inflation continued to trend downwards, marking its lowest levels since summer 2021. Although this represented a significant fall and progress towards target, it missed market expectations. However, we believe there is still potential for yields to decrease further, reflecting a lower inflation environment with subdued growth.
- We purchased a number of financials names, including HSBC and Aviva, and also bought bonds issued by British American Tobacco and Berkshire Hathaway. On the other hand, we reduced exposure to certain names, for example JPM, following what we considered to be a decrease in the value offered relative to credit fundamentals.
- The fund maintains an overweight duration positioning and a below-benchmark positioning in credit spread duration.

The main risks associated with this fund

For any past performance shown, please note that past performance is not a guide to future performance.

The value and income from the fund's assets will go down as well as up. This will cause the value of your investment to fall as well as rise. There is no guarantee that the fund will achieve its objective and you may get back less than you originally invested.

Investments in bonds are affected by interest rates, inflation and credit ratings. It is possible that bond issuers will not pay interest or return the capital. All of these events can reduce the value of bonds held by the fund.

High yield bonds usually carry greater risk that the bond issuers may not be able to pay interest or return the capital.

The fund may use derivatives to profit from an expected rise or fall in the value of an asset. Should the asset's value vary in an unexpected way, the fund will incur a loss. The fund's use of derivatives may be extensive and exceed the value of its assets (leverage). This has the effect of magnifying the size of losses and gains, resulting in greater fluctuations in the value of the fund.

The fund is exposed to different currencies. Derivatives are used to minimise, but may not always eliminate, the impact of movements in currency exchange rates.

Further risk factors that apply to the fund can be found in the fund's Prospectus.

Where a security has not been rated by Standard & Poor's, Fitch or Moody's, we may use M&G's internal credit rating. Based on a comparison of all available ratings for each security, the most conservative rating (S&P, Fitch, Moody's or M&G's internal rating) is taken into consideration. The ratings so identified are then expressed or converted into M&G's ratings format to obtain uniform information for all securities in the portfolio.

The value of investments will fluctuate, which will cause fund prices to fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the original amount invested. For financial advisers only. Not for onward distribution. No other persons should rely on any information contained within.
